11,000 STATE JOBS, PART OF $4,500 POSTS FOR JAMES T. FILL

Governor-elect Arthur H. James and his incoming Republican Administration will start off January 17 with 11,000 jobs to fill, most of them on Capitol Hill.

Salaries posts usually subject to political winds, make up only one-third of the total number of State jobs, 34,500. The balance either are protected by Civil Service at present, or are under Democratic departments, or, as in the case of 7303 institutional employees, are the last to feel the political axe.

James has given no indication of how quickly he will go about revising the personnel on Capitol Hill. There still are hundreds of Republican "holdovers" scattered through the offices, never replaced by the Democratic Administration.

Of 23,395 posts outside the incoming Administration's appointive reach 7090 are in the Public Assistance Department, 3590 in Unemployment Compensation, and 3200 in the Liquor Control Board employ, all filled or being filled or being named rapidly by Civil Service.

Besides the Civil Service groups, 350 are employed in the Auditor General's department, 558 in the State Treasurer's, and 484 in the Public Utility Commission, all Democratic-controlled.

Another 1000 are employed in the legislative and judicial branches of the government, including 258 legislators and 227 Judges.

Though not under Civil Service, the 7303 employees of institutions in Health, Welfare and Public Instruction departments usually retain their jobs through one Administration after another, personnel officials say.

The major posts are those in the Cabinet, with salaries ranging from $7500 to $12,000. George H. Earle had 18 appointive officials in his Cabinet. The number is subject to the Governor's wishes.

"BALANCING THE SEXES"

We trust by now the State Game Commission has the proper "balance of sexes" among the deer tribe. The slaughter of doe deer has been terrific, fully measuring up to all predictions. Among the many deer there were also numerous bucks killed, some by hunters who shoot first and look afterwards, and some whose horns had not developed sufficiently to identify themselves as members of the male group.

We feel that the killing of doe deer in this fashion is nothing but wanton slaughter. How much better it would be for the Commission to corral the deer where they are too numerous and place them in mountain sections where they are scarce, and then plant the kinds of trees, shrubs, etc., which will provide suitable feed for them.

DEATHS.

Homer H. Brown, in Pittsburgh, a son of Mrs. Annie Brown, Bellefonte, aged 53 years. Burial was made at Bellefonte on Tuesday.

Deaths

GISE.—A long and honorable life story was closed Nov. 13th, in Beloit, Kansas, when the eyes of Jacob Kerlin Gise were closed in the sleep that has no earthly awakening. The end came peacefully at his home after an illness that had extended over the past nine months.

J. K. Gise was a man who had lived long in Beloit and vicinity, going there in 1879, and during his long residence had lived an upright, Christian life that had endeared him to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. One of his finest attributes of character was his friendliness at all times, and it was always a pleasure to greet him and feel the warmth and sincerity of his well wishes.

His first vocation was farming, but many years ago he moved into Beloit City, where he was honored by serving several years as a member of the board of education and as a member of the city council in which duties he served conscientiously and to the best interests of his community. For some years previous to his retirement from an active career he conducted an elevator.

Mr. Gise was born June 25, 1849, in Potter township, this county, a son of David B. and Sarah K. Gise, being aged at the time of his death 89 years, 4 months and 18 days.

During residence at Manhattan, Ill., he was united in marriage to Sarah C. Search, in 1871, and they went to Beloit in 1879. To this union were born nine children. The wife and mother passed away July 11, 1896. Two children also preceded him. He is survived by these children: A. D. Gise, Omaha, Neb.; Elsie L. Gise, of the home, who had been her father's constant aid and companion; Sadie E. White, Beloit; Dan F. Gise, Beloit; Edna Kirgis, Cawker City, Kansas; Grace S. Gise, Washington, D. C.; and Will J. Gise, Yorkum, Texas. Also, by seventeen grandchildren and fifteen great-grandchildren.

He was a brother of the late David K. Gise, long a resident of Centre Hall.

Mr. Gise was an ardent member of the Methodist church, where funeral services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Roy D. Platt. He was borne to his last resting place by his grandsons, who acted as pall-bearers.

Out-Moded Schools to Be Replaced by State Authority

Pennsylvania expends millions of dollars annually for the housing and maintenance of citizens crowded into out-of-date school buildings. The State Authority for the replacement of out-of-date school buildings is the first of its kind in the United States. It will enable students of impoverished areas to receive educational requisites to which they are entitled, through the General State Authority construction program. The program is designed to give thousands of school children the same modern birthright so that they may enjoy the same conveniences comparable to their big city counterparts.
