eral and State governments to be applied to the payment of salaries of teachers, supervisor of agricultural subjects, and teachers of trade, home economics and industrial subjects.

Play by Junior Class—The junior class of Gregg Vocational will present "Well Met by Moonlight," a comedy in 3 acts, in the high school auditorium at Spring Mills, Friday evening, Dec. 9, at 8:00 p. m.

The play will furnish much enjoyment and laughter throughout. Every scene is bright and full of pep. The three chuckling but lazy Negroes will afford much amusement and entertainment. Happy Powell, a very witty and smiling character, is the liveliest fellow of the outfit. He is always picking radio stars in the moonlight. The comedy takes place in the reception room of Paul Powell's radio station. Paul is a very efficient, high-strung and quick-moving young man, but he has that certain quiet charm of a born gentleman. He has been trying hard to get on the national program of William Gardner, another fine business man.

Admission, 15c and 25c.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College

Control Peach Pests—San Jose scale and leaf curl, pests of peaches, can be controlled by spraying with lime sulphur, say Penn State specialists. This spray should be applied four weeks after the leaves have fallen and when the temperature is above freezing. Ask your county agent for detailed information.

Feed the Flock Sire—The ram will keep in good condition if he is fed second or third cutting alfalfa hay and a mixture of two parts oats, one part bran, and one part linseed oilcake, explain Penn State animal husbandmen.

Reputation Aids Selling—A good reputation aids the farmer who sells holiday birds directly to the consumer. Penn State poultrymen say that this reputation is gained by careful finishing, killing, plucking, drawing, chilling and packing.

Overfeeding Is Harmful—As soon as the calf learns to drink, care must be taken not to overfeed. Penn State dairymen warn. A quart of milk three times a day is suggested for the first week. This may be increased to 2 1/2 quarts twice a day the second week and further increases later.

Sows Should Gain—Brood sows require ample exercise in the open air. It is essential that they get as much sunshine as possible. Penn State livestock men also stress the importance of a ration high in protein. The sows should gain about a half-pound a day.

Club Members at Work—Looking ahead to the Pennsylvania Farm Show, 4-H club boys and girls are feeding 300 baby beaves and 350 lambs, report Penn State club leaders.
