FARM CALENDAR Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College. Culling Farm Woods—Now is the time to inspect the farm woodlot and decide which trees should be cut for the improvement of the remaining timber say Penn State foresters. Tall, clean, straight and sound trees are the ones to leave for growth into valuable timber. Short, brushy, crooked, decayed, or spreading trees are the kind to remove to prevent their choking out more desirable specimens. Apple Judging—The statewide apple judging contest at the Pennsylvania Farm Show will be held Jan. 18. Each county horticultural society is eligible to enter one team of three members ranging in age from 14 to 20 years. Checking the Farm Business—Taking an inventory of the farm and keeping an account book helps to put the farming operations on a sound financial basis, believe Penn State farm management specialists. Detailed financial records provide information for a complete analysis of the business at the end of the year. Early January is considered the most desirable time for taking an inventory and opening the accounts. Winter Eggs—Feeding either a wet mash or pellets usually helps produce winter eggs, say poultrymen at the Pennsylvania State College. Many flock owners find that best results are obtained when this supplemental feed is given at noon. Baby Bees.—One hundred of the 297 baby bees fed by 4-H club members this year will be exhibited at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg, Jan. 16 to 20. All indications point to the best exhibit in the history of the show. T. C. Harbeson of Milroy, the well known forester, in a motor accident on the Belleville road had an arm broken.

That was a big order. To fill it required men and women, telephones and trucks, machines and money. Sixteen thousand men and women! Experienced people with an average of 12 years in telephone work. Led by men and women who have learned and earned their jobs by serving in the ranks, these people have an annual payroll of about $29,500,000. Telephones? Yes—1,225,000 of them—all connected with each other and connectable with 34,000,000 other telephones all over the world. Trucks? About 1,550 motor vehicles. Driven by careful drivers. More than 600 Bell drivers in Pennsylvania have over 100,000 miles of safe driving to their credit. Machines and money. Almost $325,000,000 invested in telephone plant in Pennsylvania. Where does the money come from? Nearly three quarters of a million people have invested part of their savings in Bell System securities. Right here in Pennsylvania there are 58,000 people who own stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. And some 12,000 Pennsylvanians own Bell Telephone bonds: The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.
