Snow Shoe High Plays Here Friday Night—The boys' and girls' basketball teams representing Snow Shoe high will play at Spring Mills on Friday, January 20 at 7:30 p. m. The Snow Shoe boys have been undefeated in league competition to date, having won four and lost no games. They defeated the Gregg boys by two points in the opening game of the season at Spring Mills before Christmas.

The Snow Shoe girls dropped their opening game at Spring Mills, but have not been defeated since, although they were held to a 29-29 tie with the East Penn girls last week. The Snow Shoe girls are stronger than when they were here last time since several players are available that could not make the former trip. The Gregg boys, after having defeated Millheim, have lost two games, and are anxious to upset the league leaders this week to get back into the win column. The Gregg girls have been undefeated to date, heading the league with four wins in as many starts.

Mill Hall teams will play at Spring Mills next Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Doctor and Minister Crash in Skid—Cars operated by Dr. Robert Huson of Millheim and Rev. Thomas L. Lawthur of DuBois crashed after skidding near Spring Mills on Friday night. Mr. Lawthur was injured to some extent. The damage to both cars is estimated to be around $200. Son of A. J. Herbster Dies—The community extends its sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Herbster the former operator of the Herbster flouring mill at this place, due to the death of their only child, Jacques Herbster, at Laurelton, during the beginning of last week. The deceased was twenty-eight years of age, and is survived in addition to his parents by a wife and a daughter.

Mr. Herbster was engaged in the milling business for ten years with his father, recently taking over the mill at Laurelton. He was a great sportsman and in a game of baseball was seriously injured in a mixup at second base. He was seriously ill for some time, but it was thought he had recovered. A few days prior to his death he suffered a relapse with the dire results noted above.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College

Colony Houses for Chicks—Because it best meets the requirements of the average farmer having a small flock of chickens, a 10 by 12 house is a common sight on many farms. A house of this size can be moved easily with a good team, a truck, or tractor making it possible to grow chicks on clean ground each year. This helps combat poultry disease, Penn State poultrymen say.

Cooperative Bull Associations—Cooperative use of herd sires sharply reduces the cash outlay for bulls, dairy specialists at Penn State report. Butterfat production of bull association herds during the last year was 24.8 pounds greater than the average for dairy herd improvement association herds, showing conclusively the value of good sires.

Repair Machinery—Ordering parts now for machines needing repair will perhaps save a farmer much time later when the season arrives for the use of the machine, agricultural extension engineers with the Pennsylvania State College believe. A rush of orders during the period when the machines are in use may delay delivery.

Winter Feeding of Ewes—A nourishing ration fed liberally to the ewe flock will help avoid about 75 per cent of the sheep troubles which ordinarily occur during winter and spring, claim Penn State livestock specialists. Feeding grain at the right time gives the ewes a chance to prove their real worth.

Cutting Trees—Sharpening the cross cut saw will save a farmer much time and help keep him even-tempered, say extension foresters at the Pennsylvania State College. With a sharp saw, much less time will be required to cut the year's timber and wood supply.

Suffering from a bullet wound in the right temple believed to have been self-inflicted, John A. Baker of Penna. Furnace, formerly of Mackeyville, is improving in the Centre County hospital. He was found on the barn floor, after assisting with the farm work on Friday morning.

Hints on Appliance Care

Keep a small soft brush on hand to remove crumbs from an open type toaster. To remove crumbs from an oven type toaster, invert and shake slightly. If the toaster has tray to catch crumbs, remove it occasionally, empty the crumbs and wipe the tray. Polish the toaster with a soft, dry cloth after using and it will look new.

By Louise Brown LET'S make a New Year's resolution to be "kind" to appliances. Modern electrical appliances are well made—indeed, it's amazing the amount of abuse they can stand before they finally give up. In the language of the day—they can "take it." They are ready and willing to give you years of faithful service if you give them reasonable care and use them intelligently.

Move your appliances down from unhandy top shelves, bring them out of hiding and put them to work. If there is no convenient place for them in your kitchen, perhaps the "handyman" of the household can make a set of shelves to hold them.

The mixer should have a special place of its own on a work counter or table and a special outlet so that it can stand attached and ready to use at all times. Store the juice extractor and other mixer attachments in a drawer or on a shelf nearby.

Check On Outlets Do you have outlets where they will be handy for attaching the waffle iron or toaster without having cords trailing across the room? It's a good investment in efficiency and comfort to install outlets just where you will need them.

Take care of appliance cords and naturally their lives will be longer. When the cords are not in use, hang them over a broad wooden peg so that the wires will not be broken. Permanently attached cords should be coiled loosely, not wrapped tightly around the appliance. When disconnecting an appliance, grasp the plug firmly and pull straight out—never yank the cord sharply. Worn and frayed cords should, of course, be replaced at once to avoid the nuisance of blowing a fuse.

Easy To Clean

Appliances really need very little care to keep them clean and in good condition. Those with a chromium finish will not tarnish and should never be scoured—only wiped with a damp cloth and then rubbed dry and shining with a soft, dry cloth.

Appliances should never be put in water and washed—if water gets into the heating element, the appliance may be ruined.

Motor-driven appliances such as the mixer, will need oiling occasionally. Use a good grade of motor oil according to the manufacturer's directions.

Follow the manufacturer's directions in first using a new appliance. His suggestions are worked out carefully for the best possible results with that particular appliance. If you don't get good results with your first attempt, try again. Be fair with the appliance. If you still aren't satisfied, ask for some assistance or advice from the dealer from whom the equipment was purchased or from your local utility office. The appliance may only need some slight adjustment to be in perfect working order.
