SOCIAL SECURITY ACT TO BE EXTENDED TO FARM HELP

A Federal movement is on that if accepted by Congress will give farm help and employes of a like character the benefit of the National Social Security Act.

As the plan now stands, it probably will not be as complex as it is for the business man who is an employer. It will, however, add a red tape realm to most households and farms, and give the housewife and farmer clerical experience. Here is how it will work, if the recommendation becomes law:

Farm hands and domestics (meaning anyone who works even a few hours doing household chores) will be required to register with a local government agency or representative. After registration, they will be given cards bearing their names, ages, addresses and other pertinent information. These will be their social security cards. On the back of each card there will be space for a given number of stamps.

The housewife and farmer, in the meantime, must buy special tax stamps that will be produced for the purpose. Then, when a farm hand or domestic is employed, he must produce his social security card and the housewife or farmer must place one or more of the stamps on the back. The number of stamps would be determined by the total wages paid the employee.

When the card is filled, the employee would mail it to the Social Security Board and he or she would be "credited" with the amount of taxes collected. The taxes would go into the Social Security fund. The employee would get a new card and continue collecting taxes.

The senior class of the Miles township high school is preparing a play, "The Mystery of the Third Gable," "the greatest mystery drama of the season," to be presented February 25 in the I. O. O. F. hall, Rebersburg.

Deaths

SLATERBECK.—Mrs. Ida Matilda Slaterbeck died at her home at Tusseyville last Thursday noon. She had been suffering for some time from a heart disease and complications, but until several weeks preceding her death, was able to go about her home.

The deceased was a daughter of John Y. and Eliza (Vonada) Stover. She was born March 21, 1870, in Haines township, near Aaronsburg, making her age at death 68 years. April 21, 1892, she married Arthur L. Slaterbeck. Mr. and Mrs. Slaterbeck both spent their youth and early married life in east Brush and Penns Valleys in the vicinity of Aaronsburg and Rebersburg. However, for approximately the past forty years they have lived near Tusseyville; only last spring did they vacate the Hosterman farm and move into their present home.

Other than her husband there survive three children: Mary E. at home; Mrs. Samuel Horner and Chas. E., both of Tusseyville; and a niece, Mrs. W. E. McCormick, Reading, who lived at the Slaterbeck home since infancy. There are also living three brothers and three sisters: John, of Folecroft; Sumner, Lock Haven; Calvin, Chicago; Mrs. Daniel Glantz, Greenburr; Mrs. Viola Nearhood, State College and Mrs. Clyde Waite, Rebersburg. Services, in charge of the Rev. W. K. Hosterman, were held Monday at 10:30 a. m. in the Tusseyville Evangelical church, of which the deceased had been a member for a number of years. ELECTRICITY Cooks Everything Better

RIGHT HEAT'S the Reason!

FLICK an electric switch and you get exactly the amount of heat needed for the cooking job. Even for platform cooking you have three, four or five levels of heat—a correct heat for any cooking operation you can name! It takes the guesswork out of cooking!

Every cook knows how difficult a 7-minute icing is to make—principally because low heat is absolutely essential. On an electric range (as illustrated) it's easy—for the low heat can't creep up and no double boiler is needed!
