LET'S WAIT FOR ALL THE FACTS

The following editorial appeared in the Philadelphia Record of Tuesday under the above caption: As predicted by The Record, the Dauphin County Grand Jury recommended indictment of a number of officers of the last State Administration.

It would be futile at this point to pass upon the guilt or innocence of those accused. The evidence is not known and the accused have not yet had a chance to answer it in open Court. The public will be all the more ready to withhold judgment because of the conduct of District Attorney Carl B. Shelley.

In all cases, a presentment is not an indictment and an indictment is a long, long way from a conviction.

This is especially true of political cases in these days of an increasing disposition to use the Grand Jury system as a political sandbag.

The two chief charges against the Democrats are macing (i. e., soliciting campaign contributions from State employees) and allotting State bonding business on a political basis.

Macing is an ancient political practice brought to its most perfect form by the Republican party in Pennsylvania in former years it can lead to the gravest abuses, yet it is difficult to draw an ethical line between a campaign collector who says to a State employe, "If the other party wins, you're out of a job," and a businessman, "If the other party wins your taxes will go up."

The first is technically illegal. The second is technically legal. The "macing" of businessmen is slightly restrained by a prohibition against corporations themselves making campaign contributions, although there is nothing to prevent corporate officers, their sisters, their cousins and their aunts from kicking in.

It is notable that the Republican party, which has taken such a self-macing case, recently tried to slip through a joker which would have made it possible for corporations to contribute. Governor James stopped that when it was called to his attention by The Record.

The bonding charge relates to another ancient practice. The Republicans call it robbing the public when they bring accusations against Democrats in Harrisburg.

But here in Philadelphia a similar situation was uncovered in the Court-appointed, Republican-controlled Board of City Trusts, and no drastic action was taken. It was explained privately that such a practice was "honest graft."

When a Republican State Senator was convicted of holding up legislation in order to force State insurance into his company, that was "honest graft," too, and the courts let him off without a jail sentence on his plea of ill health.

We are glad to see a party so intimately associated with "honest graft" now placed in a reformer position where it will no longer be able to take such a cynical attitude toward the depredations of its own members.

Deaths

YOUNG.—David Franklin Young, long a resident of Potter township, died on Sunday night at the Centre county home for indigents, to which institution he was admitted a short time ago.

He was a son of David C. Young and was born in Potter township. At the time of his death and for some years prior he lived retired. He and his wife, who died a few years ago, received regular monthly remittances—one from the Federal government for a son who lost his life in service in the U. S. Army, one for another son killed in an industrial plant, and a third for the death of a daughter. While these checks were regularly received the couple lived in ease but lately the obligations were cancelled, leaving the deceased destitute.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at the Goodhart funeral home, Rev. W. K. Hosterman officiating, and burial made in Zion Hill cemetery, near Colyer.

Two sons, Frank and Fred, survive the deceased, the former a resident of near Spring Mills, and the latter in Potter township.

WINEGARDNER.—After an illness of eighteen months from complications, Mrs. Myra Belle Winegardner, widow of William R. Winegardner, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edwin Glenn, State College, R. D., on Tuesday at 9:30 p. m.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m., at the home of her brother, P. V. Goodhart, Centre Hall, and burial made in the Hill cemetery, Reedsville, by the side of her late husband, Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick will be in charge of the services.

Deceased was a daughter of William and Mary (McKinney) Goodhart, and was born on the Hamill farm at Oak Hall, Jan. 22, 1870, making her age at death 69 years, 1 month and 6 days. There are no children but these sisters and brothers survive her: William L. Goodhart, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Mary Foreman, Canfield, Ohio; Mrs. Sarah Glenn, State College, R. D.; Mrs. Margaret Rearick, Pa. Furnace; Mrs. Luitila Glenn, Carlisle; F. V. Goodhart, Centre Hall, and Samuel Goodhart, Johnstown.

Mrs. Winegardner was a member of the Presbyterian church since her youth. Her married life was spent at Millroy, where her husband was a merchant. Some time after his death she came to Centre Hall, and during her last illness was cared for at the home of the sister named.

EMERICK.—A telegram from Los Angeles, Calif., addressed to Miss Vera Emerick, Friday morning, was telephoned to Miss Carribe Emerick, a Bell Telephone operator at Centre Hall, for delivery. It contained the information that George Emerick had died in the city named, and was addressed to Miss Vera Emerick in Millheim, now located at Bellevue, Ohio.

The message announced the death of George Emerick, brother of Newton E. and Benjamin Emerick of Centre Hall, and son of Henry and Caroline Weaver Emerick, both deceased. Two brothers in addition to those mentioned above are Samuel Emerick and Howard Emerick, Spokane, Washington.

The deceased left Centre Hall more than forty years ago, going to the northwest and finally to California.

CHERRY.—Samuel F. Cherry of Philadelphia, son of J. Theodore Cherry of Bellefonte, died at the age of fifty-nine years at his Philadelphia home after an illness of two weeks from pneumonia.

Funeral services were held at the parental home in Bellefonte on Tuesday morning and burial made at Bellefonte.

In addition to his wife, the former Ella Murphy, his father and the following brothers and sisters survive: John of Montgomery; Melvin and Mrs. Anna Levi of Bellefonte; Mrs. Harry Dawson of Philadelphia, and Mrs. J. L. Nichols of Latrobe.

HOLMES.—Following by a few hours only the death of her brother, Jacob H. Slaterbeck, of Eagleville, Mrs. Amanda C. Holmes, 81, widow of Richard H. Holmes, died suddenly on Wednesday morning of last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William L. Bower, in Altoona. She had been in failing health for several months, and Wednesday morning suffered an attack of angina pectoris. She had gone to Altoona in December to spend the winter with her daughter.

She was a native of Rebersburg and lived in Nittany Valley nearly all her life. She was a member of the Evangelical church of Clintondale. She is survived by two sons and three daughters: Clyde S. of Salona; G. Malcolm, of Kingston, Mich.; Mrs. Edward Smith of Salona; Mrs. Wm. L. Bower of Altoona, and Mrs. Helen Miller of Pittsburgh; also by 15 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the home of her son, Clyde at Salona, Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Marcus Randall, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial was made in the Cedar Hill cemetery.

KEIN.—Funeral services were held for John George Kein, lumberman, who died at the home of James Smeal, on the Brockerhoff farm east of Centre Hall, of complications. Rev. W. K. Hosterman officiated. Interment took place in Pine Glen.

Mr. Kein, who had been ill for some time, was born at Kylertown March 29, 1864, a son of John and Margaret Laird Kein. Surviving are

BOY, 9, ASTRIDE HORSE NARROWLY ESCAPES DROWNING

A lad of nine years and his steed narrowly escaped drowning on Saturday in an ice and snow covered pool on the Blue Ball mountain road. It was only the nerve of the youth that saved him from a watery grave, although his father and three older brother were close at hand.

The boys were Marylin, 9; Donald, 10; Glenn, 15, and Eugene, 16, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Wolfe, who with the father were dragging trees to a convenient site later to be trucked home for firewood.

The younger two boys were riding the horses, while Mr. Wolfe and the older boys made the hitches to the trimmed trees. A depression in that locality often filled with water was known by Mr. Wolfe, but a second one nearby had never been observed, and over this ice and snow covered section the younger boy had guided his horse. The ice of course, broke under the weight of the animal, causing him to make terrific plunges, and finally threw the animal, whose instinct led him to keep his head above water although it got to the bottom at one stage. The boy in some manner freed himself and was helped to safety.

The horse apparently sank into mire and was unable to rise, which put the owner's wife to work to adopt some method of salvaging him. It was decided to hitch his mate to him, but a desperate struggle brought him to his feet, and later with much difficulty waded to the pool's shore.

With the boy and horse both rescued, a speedy journey was made homeward, neither Mr. Wolfe, the younger son, nor the horse suffering any ill effects from the thorough drenching.

The following day WPA workmen measured the depth of the water and mire and found it to be close to five feet.

WASHINGTON TOUR TOPS DISCUSSION AT P. T. A.

The Centre-Potter Parent Teacher Association held its regular monthly meeting in the high school auditorium Monday evening. The regular routine business of the meeting was taken up after which Prof. J. F. Wetzel presented to the parents of the junior class who were the invited guests for the meeting the problem of whether or not our school should continue to have the senior class take their annual Washington tour 100 per cent paid from funds raised by the school and annual dues of its members.

A majority of the parents present favored the annual tour. Due to the increased enrollment of the school it is evident that the present method cannot be continued. The principal and faculty will work out a plan making the trip possible which will not interfere with the progress of the school.

Mrs. Alberta Krader and a group of pupils from the Bellefonte schools entertained the audience with music and short plays. The accordion ensemble played some familiar selections in a very creditable manner.

The piano log was very amusing and performed with a skill which displayed a great amount of natural talent and training. The parody on Shakespeare was excellently performed and delighted the audience.

BIRTHDAY DINNER FOR FATHER AND DAUGHTER

A double birthday celebration was given for Andrew Zettle and Mrs. F. Kryder Frank, father and daughter, on Sunday, at the home of Ervin E. Zettle, a son of the former. Mr. Zettle attained his 80th year February 26, and Mrs. Frank her 54th year on Sunday. Mr. Zettle is well preserved for one of his age.

There are eight living Zettle children, forty-one grandchildren and twenty-five great-grandchildren.

The inclement weather cut the attendance to about one-half of the number who otherwise would have presented themselves.

The participants included: Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Frank, Kenneth Frank, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Zettle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stover, Miss Fay Stover, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Frank, Ernest Frank, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fetterolf and son Drew, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Durst, all of Centre Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Brown Nale, Patty, Sara, Ethel Nale, Millroy.

A bit of study of Governor James' budget indicates that the reduction of proposed appropriations was largely from institutions affecting the young, and the poor and the unfortunate. The young by the reduction of funds for education; the poor by reducing relief moneys; the unfortunate by withholding funds for the security prison at Mt. Gretna and the Boys' Industrial School at White Hill, and lastly, proposing the new tuberculosis sanatorium at Butler "be not occupied during the coming biennium."

(Continued from previous column) his wife, the former Lucy Forlice, and the following children: Ernest of near Centre Hall; Walter of Renovo; Lloyd of Coburn; William and Miss Margaret Kein of Pine Glen. A sister, whose address is unknown, also survives.

LOY.—William Loy, who died on Wednesday of last week at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Robert Woodring, in Bellefonte, was aged 64 years. Interment was made at Unionville.

Mr. Loy was born in Karlsruhe, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield N. Loy. His wife, the former Ina Davidson, of near Wingate, three sons, Leroy D., George and Joseph P., all of Altoona, and one daughter, Mrs. Robert Woodring of Bellefonte, survive.

CENTRE COUNTY HOSPITAL NOTES.

Patients in the hospital from the south side of the county for the week of February 29:

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Sharer, Centre Hall, R. D., on Monday.

Thursday, discharged: Waldo E. Homan, Boalsburg; Miss Anna M. Miller, Rebersburg; Charles W. Zimmerman, Ansonburg.

Friday, discharged: Mrs. Franklin G. Sharer and infant son, Centre Hall.

Saturday, discharged: Mrs. Wayne Boob and infant son, Oak Hall Sta.; Mrs. Randall Wilkins and infant daughter, Centre Hall, R. D.

There were thirtyseven patients in the hospital beginning of this week.

The condition of Will Mayes, prominent Howard business man, who is a patient in the Centre County hospital, is said to be little improved. Mr. Mayes underwent an operation for a stomach ailment in the hospital Thursday night of last week.

WRIGHT—WOLF

Miss Edna Wolf, reared in the vicinity of Spring Mills but a resident of Altoona for a number of years, and Robert Wright of Altoona, were united in marriage on Saturday evening, 8:00 o'clock, in Bethany Lutheran church, Altoona, by Rev. Saul, pastor of the church.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the late Mrs. Bertha McCummon, where the bride lived for some years. At the close of the reception the wedding party began a sightseeing tour.

The bride is a daughter of John Wolf of Gregg township, and at the death of her mother entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Auman, and upon the death of Mrs. Auman was given shelter by Mrs. McCummon, a sister of Mrs. V. A. Auman of Centre Hall.

The wedding was attended by Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Auman, Mrs. Alma Rickert and Orle Jamison of Centre Hall.

ALL DRESSED UP FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR

Already the dairy barn is built; some of the cattle selected, and definite plans have been made for taking 150 of the finest dairy cattle of North America to the New York World's Fair. In the above picture is shown the ground-breaking party that started the project on its way. The calves came to represent the five dairy breeds which will participate and from left to right they are Guernsey, Jersey, Brown-Swiss, Holstein, and Ayrshire.

The folks with them are: (Left to right) George M. Waugh, Jr., executive vice-president, The Borden Company; Wm. F. Frez (petting calf) representing the American Guernsey Cattle Club; Lou Morley, Secretary, American Jersey Cattle Club;

Everett Waddy, Jr., representing the Brown-Swiss Association; D. N. Boice, representing the Brown-Swiss Association; Theodore G. Montague, President The Borden Company; Grover Whalen, representing the New York World's Fair; Mark Kenney, representing the Holstein-Friesian Association; D. W. McLaury, the Holstein-Friesian Association; Henry W. Jeffers, Sr., representing the Walker-Gordon Laboratories, Division of The Borden Company.

The cows will be milked three times daily and will be fed, housed and cared for as part of the Borden exhibit. The display is located on the Central Mall of the World's Fair and for once the dairy cow has "made Broadway."

ELECTRICITY Cooks Everything Better

NEW METHODS make old recipes EASY!

How would you go about cooking pork chops and rice—the meal illustrated—if you wanted to serve it in a hurry and hadn't the time to give it much attention?

Well, here's GOOD NEWS for you! With an electric range you wouldn't have to give it much attention. You could serve as many as 6 persons with less than 15 minute's work.

You'd turn the switch of a platform unit to "HIGH"—brown the meat for about ten minutes in a large saucepan—add broth, uncooked rice, salt, pepper, onion and green pepper—place the lid on the pan and cook for about one minute (or until steaming starts)—then turn the switch to "OFF" and cook on "stored heat" for 45 minutes. No watching or stirring necessary—and the meal tastes delicious.

Switch to an electric range! It makes so many cooking tasks easy—really saves you a lot of time and work.
