BELIEF CHISELERS IN CENTRE
FACE FINE, IMPRISONMENT

Centre county leads neighboring Clearfield county two to one when it comes to relief "chiseling." It was announced when it was revealed that criminal actions have been filed against seven alleged Centre county "chiselers" and three from the Clearfield county section.

The total amount paid by the State in assisting the ten families who are charged with "chiseling" is $465. The families who supposedly received funds under the false claims are liable for repayment and also for imprisonment as well as a $100 fine.

A Centre county family which is one of the ten being prosecuted may find itself in a bad position. This family claimed it had no income but a checkup revealed that a son who was said to have been living in a neighboring State was really at home drawing good wages as a miner.

Of the six counties in the district whose supervision comes under the Clearfield office only tiny Cameron had a clean slate. Because of its smallness Cameron had only 229 relief clients and no irregularities.

ASSISTANCE BOARDS IN EVERY COUNTY ASKED TO RESIGN

A broad shakeup of the relief machinery in Pennsylvania on Thursday hit every county assistance board in the State.

Governor James requested the resignation of the 493 persons who make up the seven-man boards which carry out locally the policies of the State Board of Public Assistance in the $100,000,000-a-year program.

In effect, he fired the appointees of the former Democratic Administration.

"Some may be reappointed, however," James said. He has tentatively approved new boards in 20 counties.

The Governor at the same time asked the State Board of Assistance to quit. Three ex-officio members remain. Secretary of Assistance Howard L. Russell, Auditor General Warren R. Roberts, and State Treasurer F. Clair Ross.

"Six additional members will be appointed in a week or ten days," Russell said.

SPRING BIRTHDAY CAKE

Somebody who has a birthday this spring is going to be thrilled with a Daffodil Cake. Use the cake as a centerpiece and add toy sprinkling, cans filled with daffodils for favors.

By Louise Brown

If you were to consult a crystal or look it up in a horoscope book, you couldn't find a more appropriate cake for a spring birthday celebration than Daffodil Cake. It's one of those delicate, lighter-than-air cakes, it's easy to make (if you have an electric mixer to do the beating for you), and it's extremely decorative to serve. It's a cake that's sure to give someone a thrill!

DAFFODIL CAKE

- 1 1/2 cups egg whites
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 1/4 cups cake flour, sifted before measuring
- 4 egg yolks
- 1/2 teaspoon orange flavoring
- 1/2 teaspoon almond flavoring

Assemble and measure all ingredients for cake before starting work. Break egg whites into a large bowl, add salt and beat with electric mixer, using High speed. When the egg whites are frothy, add cream of tartar and continue beating at High speed until the whites are stiff and "peak." They should not be dry. Using Medium speed of the mixer, scatter 1 tablespoon of sugar over the whites and mix thoroughly with beater once. Add second tablespoon of sugar in same way. When 4 tablespoons of sugar have been added in this way the remaining sugar may be added more rapidly until all is used. Using Low speed, sift a small amount of flour over the egg whites and combine with batter using a "cut and fold" motion with the mixer. Continue adding flour gradually until all the flour is used. Store in refrigerator or cool place while preparing egg yolks.

Beat egg yolks until they are thick and lemon colored. Add orange flavoring. Divide the egg white mixture into two parts. Add the yolk mixture to one part and to the other the almond flavoring. Put the mixtures by tablespoons into ungreased angel food pan, alternating white and yellow mixtures. Place cake in cold oven, set temperature control to 325° F. and bake 1 hour. Remove from oven and invert pan. When cool (in about 2 hours) remove from pan.

Place the cake on a large round cake plate or old-fashioned cake stand, and cover with

DECORATIVE FROSTING

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 5 cups confectioners' sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 egg whites, unbeaten
- 2 tablespoons cream
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

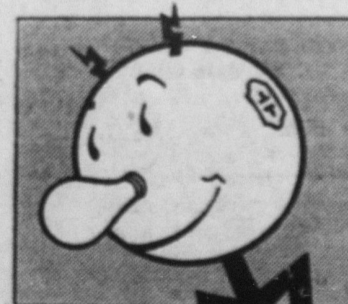

Cream butter, add part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Add remaining sugar alternately, with egg whites, then add cream until frosting is of right consistency to spread and beat until smooth. Add vanilla and salt. If you like to dabble in decorating, save two small portions of the frosting and color one yellow and the other green. Using a camel's hair brush paint daffodils on the sides of the cake with the yellow and green icing. Fill the hole in the center of the cake with real, or artificial, daffodils. And, of course, add candles to make the birthday cake complete.

IF YOUR KITE DARTS AND DIVES

...Here's What To Do

REDDY KILOWATT ALSO GIVES YOU SOME OTHER GOOD TIPS ON KITE FLYING

"Fly your kite in an open field, away from all traffic, trolley wires, electric pole and tower lines.

"Avoid kites with metal ribs. Use strong cord—no wire or tinsel twine—and keep it dry. Wet string will conduct electricity—and metal can cause a 'short' if your kite should land on wires.

"Keep a steady pull on the string. If the wind slackens, haul the kite down. Add more tail if the kite darts or dives.

"If your kite should land on wires or a pole, climbing after it or trying to knock it down with sticks and stones is dangerous. The kite is sure to be worthless anyway—and you may damage wires, cutting off the electricity from many homes."
