

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

The week started out on Monday with rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burkholder and three children of Milroy were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. William McClenahan.

Fred Bender was in town on Monday, having partially recovered from a recent quite serious illness at his home at State College.

Fred S. Wells of Oak Hall was a business visitor to Centre Hall on Monday and called at the Reporter office.

Miss Anna Elizabeth Homan and her aunt, Miss Cora Homan, spent the week end with relatives in State College.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Catherman and son Daniel, of Millmont, were in Centre Hall on Friday on business and called on Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Slack, Mrs. Catherman being a sister of Mr. Slack.

Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Jodan of Bellefonte were accompanied to Johnstown by Mrs. George L. Goodhart, their daughter, on a visit to another daughter, Cherry, wife of Hughes Brininger, and family.

Miss Cora Haines, on her return from State College where she visited with a sister, spent a part of Saturday with Mrs. T. A. Hosterman and Mrs. Mary Flink before going on to Aaronsburg, her home, by bus.

C. G. Weaver, who retired from his farm south of town, on Friday moved to Northumberland, E. D., and will conduct a gas station and eating stand along State highway between Lewisburg and Northumberland.

Willis Holly, one of two colored boys to grow up in Centre Hall, forty years ago, suffered a second paralytic stroke a few days ago at his home at 439 West street, Camden, N. J. Mrs. Holly is the only other member of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Brumbaugh of Yeagertown, and Mrs. William Oren of Reedsville were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClenahan. Mrs. Oren is the mother of Mrs. Brumbaugh and Mrs. McClenahan.

The Municipal Theatre in Millheim will remain closed Wednesday, Thursday and Good Friday, April 5, 6 and 7. The theatre will be open Saturday evening, April 8, showing "They Made Me a Criminal," starring John Garfield.—Management.

Fred Fisher, the Montgomery county cow buyer, was in the valley and with D. C. Mitterling as guide picked up a number of milk cows to be trucked this week to Collegeville. Far resale by John Rimmer. Mr. Fisher has been buying cows in Centre county for a number of years.

The annual Community Sing will be conducted in the Municipal Theatre, Millheim, on Thursday, April 13, and is open to all without admission charge. The program is made up of orchestra, instrumental solos, band rhythm, band string selections, choruses, solos, duets, tap dance, drum corps, and folk songs. Prof. Paul F. Bartges will conduct the music.

An independent basketball team representing the Carlisle Presbyterian church, on Friday evening defeated the Carlisle Hall Independents on the local floor by a score of 67-60. A few weeks ago when the local team played the Carlisle team on their own floor, the score was reversed. This is contrary to the old saying that a rooster scratches best on his own sand hill.

Two Centre countians lost their jobs in Harrisburg, last week. They were Charles T. Nol, a guide at the capitol, and Mrs. Margaret Gilliland, a clerk in the bureau of motor vehicles. Kyle M. Alexander, who was relieved of his job in the State Department of Agriculture, is now holding an appointment in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in Washington, D. C.

The parents of Mrs. Jack Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Miller, in Rebersburg, on Friday night were hosts to a number of friends of the young couple when the young couple came to the home of the bride's parents. In addition to receiving numerous useful household utensils, the participants had a pleasant social evening. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bradford and Mrs. Margaret Crawford from Centre Hall were also present.

Henry Zerby is feeling confident the injury done the second finger on the left hand will not prevent the digit performing normally. Mr. Zerby, while operating a power rip saw at the home of his brother-in-law, William Luse, cut the finger at the first joint, at the same time severing the bone. The severed section was again stitched fast and since good progress in healing has been made.

The Women's Bible Class of the State College Evangelical church held a reception at the parsonage in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Jacob W. Zang, and presented Mrs. Zang with a handsome present. At the recent annual district conference of the Evangelical Church which was held in Carlisle, Rev. Zang was returned to the State College charge for another year. He is a former pastor of the local Evangelical church.

The Walker-Dutrow farm sale near Centre Hall on Friday was probably the largest sale of its kind reported this year, amounting to within a small sum of $6000. In this sale there were but two horses, the combined sale price being but $136.00. One cow sold for $197.50, and none of the nineteen brought less than $100. The total for the cattle was $3470. The foundation stock for the herd of Guernseys was purchased from John H. Detwiler. Last summer two of the leading cows in the herd were sold at unusually good prices.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

John R. Stoner moved from R. D. 1 Spring Mills, on Tuesday to State College.

Mrs. C. H. Homan, suffering from an infection on the face during the past two weeks, has pretty well recovered.

Mrs. Tressie McClellan was obliged to take her bed beginning of this week due to an attack of sciatic rheumatism.

R. M. Smith, on Tuesday, accompanied his son, E. M. Smith, to Williamsport, where the latter was the auctioneer for a community sale.

John W. Dasher, 87, Centre Hall's oldest male citizen, continues to hold his own at the approach of invigorating spring and summer sunshine.

Mrs. A. G. Lieb and brother, Edward A. Smith, who spent the winter in Merchantville, N. J., returned to their home in Centre Hall on Wednesday.

The Clover Club will entertain their husbands or gentlemen friends as the case may be at a dinner this (Thursday) evening at Sunset Diner, Seven Mountains.

The Ladies of the Golden Eagle Lodge, Centre Hall, contemplate holding a festival on the high school athletic grounds on the evening of Memorial Day.

Guests at the John W. Delaney home on Sunday were C. E. Gunsaltz of Look Haven; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Boardley and daughters Janet and Nancy; of Fiedler, and Ethel Fiedler of Aaronsburg.

Dr. D. W. Gates of Bellefonte, who was appointed veterinarian-biologist at Barrett Park Zoo, West Brighton, Staten Island, is about to enter upon the duties of the appointment. Dr. Gates was located at Millheim before going to Bellefonte.

Jacob Sharer, who had been rather seriously ill during the past week or more, has improved to a point where his physician no more calls daily. His major trouble is a lack of proper heart action. Mr. Sharer is 82. Engaged in conversation he appears about twenty years younger.

Former Sheriff Charles C. Duck and Mrs. Duck of Lewistown were in Centre Hall on Sunday.

A slight change has been made in the schedule for Holy Week services, beginning Monday evening. Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick will preach on Monday evening and Rev. L. A. Wagner on Tuesday evening.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

AFTER choir practice, in one of these here big town churches, the folks were all standing around, waiting for the rain to stop. They got to talking about their souls and everything like that, like musical people are supposed to do. Well, anyhow, somebody said that poor Al, the cornetist, had died, and had requested that his cornet be buried with him.

"That's right," says the violinist, "I want to be buried with my violin, too. I just couldn't get along without my fiddle, even if I did have a harp to play."

"I understand how you feel," the big guy with the black mustache says. "I'm going to be buried with my cello, too."

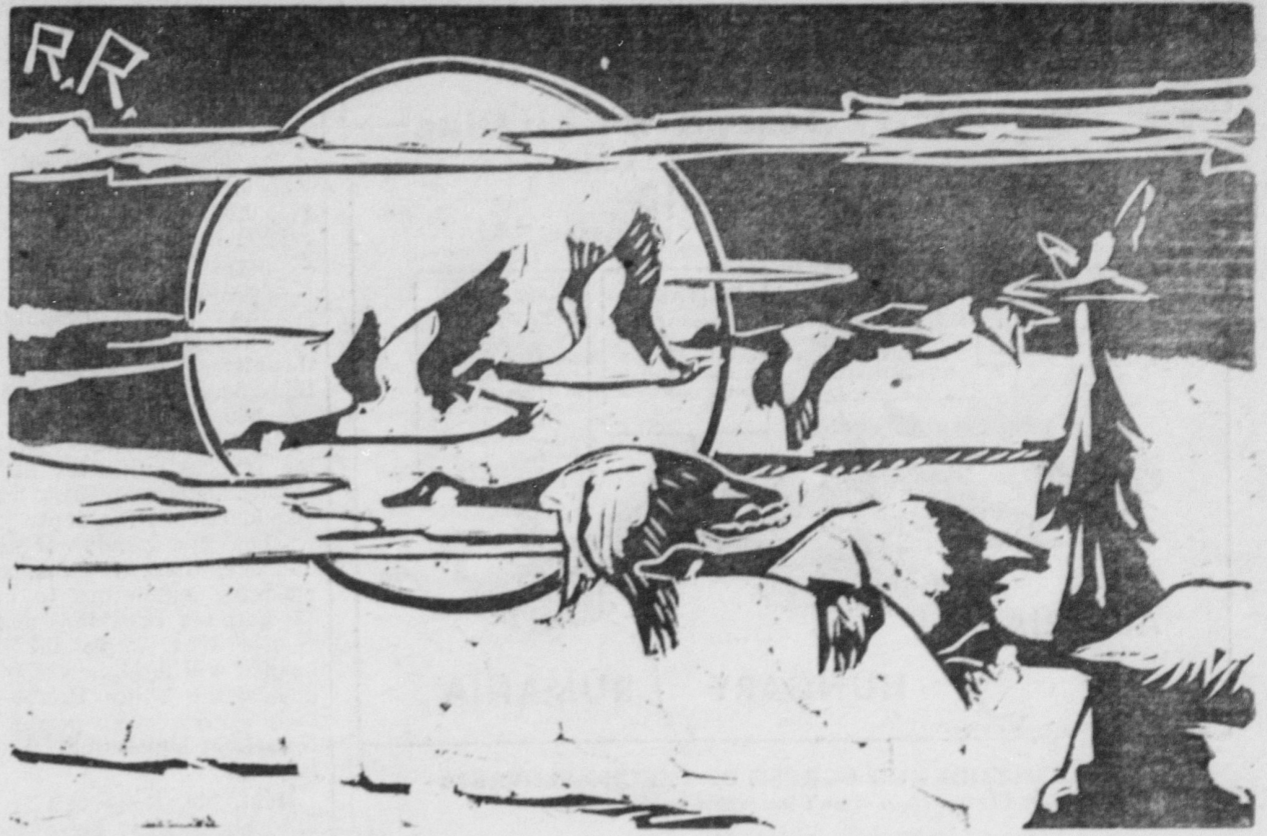

"Well," says the trap drummer, "I reckon I'll have them shovel in my drums and traps with me, too."

"As for me," says the pipe organist, "I wouldn't be buried at all if I couldn't take my precious pipe organ along."

The sexton had been listening, waiting for a chance to close up the church. "I'm sorry," he says to the pastor, "but I'm quitting my job tonight. I been digging graves here for twenty years, but when it comes to digging mines to stow organs and musical supplies in, I'm through."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS FROM "THE TIGER"

"WILD GEESE IN FLIGHT" might well have been the title of the above sketch made by Russell Reish, senior in Centre Hall-Potter high school for the cover page of the current number of "The Tiger," high school magazine. The etching was done on a linoleum block, and shows a high degree of skill.

[The following items are taken from the current number of "THE TIGER," local high school magazine.]

EDITORIAL ON TO D. C.

"Boy, oh boy, just think we'll go to Washington when we're seniors." From the day they enter high school as bashful freshmen until they have mastered the technique of chemistry, most students look forward to this trip as a grand climax to their high school career.

But money makes the mare go, and so does it finance three days of sightseeing in Washington.

With an increase in student enrollment, the money making scheme is becoming more complex with each senior class. Some solution must be found if this educational project is to be continued.

Mr. J. F. Wetzel's suggestion for raising the necessary funds is one worthy of consideration. He proposes that each student save fifteen cents per week, beginning his freshman year and continuing until the end of his senior year.

Such an arrangement would eliminate class dues, food donations, and at the same time give the athletic association a chance to monopolize the money making projects so as to meet its financial obligations.

If the previously mentioned plan were carried out, each student would have approximately $7.00 spending money plus the regular cost of his trip.

Although this plan is only a suggestion, it is good and probably will be presented to future classes to approve or disapprove as they see fit.

"Local Boy" Makes Good Over Summer Vacation

His last summer was a great summer for Mr. Myers. He spent his time or rather part of his time crooning and sight-seeing. He was gifted with an audition for Major Bowe's original amateurs, and he saw Atlantic City with all its splendor and beauty.

His audition for Major Bowe's program was secured thru some of his relatives from Long Island, New York who were interested and wanted him to come to New York and try out for the program. Professor Myers went to New York and saw all the places of interest such as: Chinatown, the Bowery, City Hall, and Radio City. He stayed at The Taft Hotel for two days. When he met Major Bowe he found to his surprise that the Major was a small man and not a large man as his pictures showed him to be.

The professor had his audition, and then returned home. He speaks of the fine time he had in New York City, telling all about the trip, but up to this time did anyone know of his audition? It may not be very long until Mr. Myers will step out on a stage and sing into a microphone to millions of people all over the world. To relieve "mike" fright some thoughtful soul gave him an amateur microphone which you hear daily in this school.

Getting back to Professor Myers and his travels, we think he is very fortunate and must have some talent to get radio auditions.

His trip to Atlantic City, which lasted three days, was made in his own car, which gave him plenty of trouble the first few hours on the road. He burned out a generator, and was delayed several hours, reaching Atlantic City in the evening of the same day.

He claims to have been swimming three-fourths of the time he was away. He met several well-known people. Paul Whiteman, the jazz king, was very fortunate to shake the hand of Mr. Myers, or should it be reversed? Anyway, the city was glad to see Centre Hall's coach and as far it is known the coach was just as glad to see the city.

Mrs. Jamison Resigns Position After Ten Years' Service

Mrs. Roy Jamison graduated from Centre Hall high school in 1925 and from Pennsylvania State College in 1929.

At Penn State she majored in Botany, Zoology, and English, and received her Master's degree in Botany in 1932.

She did her practice teaching at Altoona during the summer of 1928 and started teaching at the Centre Hall high school in 1929.

Being the only woman on the faculty at this time Mrs. Jamison was in charge of all the girls' activities such as: dodge ball, baseball and sewing. Besides these she took care of dramatics, the library and "The Tiger."

Her experience with the sewing club was rather amusing. The school board had provided the girls with an electric sewing machine, but Mrs. Jamison didn't know how to operate this spectacular demon, and was entirely at a loss about what to do next. She overcame this obstacle by having an experienced girl in the class give a demonstration of the machine. Mrs. Jamison being a teacher could ask questions for her own benefit.

Now she says, "Sewing is one of my main hobbies since I have learned how."

During her nine and one-half years of teaching, Mrs. Jamison taught the same subjects, was the senior adviser, had charge of the class night exercises, and was the faculty adviser for "The Tiger." Mrs. Jamison has made the statement, "The most fun I had while teaching was with "The Tiger."

During her years of teaching in the high school she went to Washington as chaperon of the senior class three times—in 1930, 1931, and 1934.

She attended summer school every year until she was married.

Since she resigned her teaching position, Mrs. Jamison says, "Even though housework is much easier, I miss teaching and think it was much more fun."

ODDITIES AT THE FAIR

NEW YORK—Here are a few of the strikingly unusual things visitors will find at the New York World's Fair 1939:

A parachute tower from which visitors may "bail out" at an elevation of 250 feet and be sure of a "happy landing."

Revolving "magic carpets" from which you may look down as from a height of two miles upon "The City of Tomorrow" inside the 200-foot Perisphere.

A "Tree of Life" carved from the trunk and branches of an elm planted in Connecticut in 1781 by Revolutionary War prisoners.

"Steve Brodie" jumping six times a day from a reproduction of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The most valuable wheat field for its size in the world in full growth.

Five million dollars worth of diamonds, rubies, emeralds and other gems in one glittering display.

The steel-walled bathysphere in which descent has been made miles down in the black depths of the ocean.

"Rocket gun" by which passengers will be shot to the moon, or Mars someday—perhaps.

The model of a human eye so large visitors may enter it and look out upon the Fair's busy scene just as if the eye were doing the looking.

Two hundred blooded cows being milked daily on a revolving platform.

An orange grove transplanted intact all the way from Florida.

Automobiles with living drivers in hair-raising collisions and flying somersaults.

The largest opal in the world.

An oil well in operation with real drillers in the "cast."

The largest model railroad ever constructed.

Puppets 14 feet tall dramatizing the contents of the familiar bathroom medicine cabinet.

Displays of rare orchids, renewed every three days by plants flown to the Fair from Venezuela.

The tremendous discharge of 10,000,000 volts of man-made lightning.

A Brazilian exhibit building erected on stilts.

A floor made of cotton.

Ricksha runners from South Africa six and a half feet tall and clad mostly in feathers, horns and beads.

A waterfall cascading from the high roof of a building.

Mural paintings that change their colors while you're looking at them.

Fireworks set to music in related patterns of color and light.

A city entirely populated by midgets.

An automobile speedway half a mile long on top of an exhibit building.

Mighty snowstorms sweeping down out of a clear Spring sky.

A building turned inside out with its roofbeams on the outside.

Moving chairs traveling around in a building so visitors won't have to walk.

A fight to Venus so real you'll swear you've been there and met the folks.

The tallest mural paintings in the world.

A model of New York City so large that the Empire State Building is reproduced 23 feet tall.

A sphere 200 feet in diameter seeming to revolve on jets of water, like the little silver ball in the shooting-gallery.

A fountain that sings.

Paintings that have to be destroyed every night and done all over again next morning.

A "Fountain of the Atom," with electrons and protons dancing around a pulsating shaft of light.

Jessie R. Taylor Next Lyceum Artist

Jessie Ray Taylor is the performer for the last Lyceum course on Wednesday, April 29, at eight o'clock. Miss Taylor will portray characters in a way that will make you laugh and hold your sides in agony.

She has worked in almost every theatre medium, such as: vaudeville, lyceums, radio, motion picture shorts, and Chautauquus.

The admission will be thirty-five cents for adults and twenty-five cents for children.

May 15 Set for Washington Trip.

Chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. David I. Graybill the senior class of the Centre Hall-Potter high school will leave for its Washington tour on Monday, May 15. They will remain in Washington until May 17.

During their sojourn in Washington they will stay at the Hotel Ben-Edick.

The class will follow the usual tour around Washington. Some of the points of interest are: the G-Man's building, the capitol, the White House and the Senate in session.

Mrs. Carl Iferson of State College was named librarian in the Centre County Library. She will assume her duties about May 15. Mrs. Iferson is at present employed in the Agricultural Economics department at Penn State.
