C. WITMER of Spring Township as a candidate for Sheriff of Centre county, subject to the rules governing the Democratic Party at its primary election to be held on Tuesday, September 12, 1939. HUMANIZING RELIEF. [Editorial, Philada. Record, Monday] "We are going to humanize relief."—Governor James. First G. O. P. move to fulfill this promise of humanized relief was the order, on Tuesday, requiring every relief recipient to sign a bond—a virtual paper's oath—which would permit the State to seize any property he ever might own to repay his relief benefits. Now comes the second move. It is a bill which would turn relief almost entirely over to county assistance boards, remove all relief workers from civil service, and put their jobs under direct political control. This scheme would, in effect, hand the politicians of each county a blank check—which they could use to play politics with human misery on a scale so far unknown in America. Yet this plan comes from the Governor who denounced the relief administration of his predecessor as "political," and cried: "My heart goes out especially to both the old people and the youth of Pennsylvania. "Under me as Governor the people of Pennsylvania will never see the day when, if they need relief or bread and butter (W. P. A. jobs), they will have to turn to political slavery." It is to be hoped that the Governor's heart will move his hand to veto this bill, of Representative Van Alsbury, now hatching in the Legislature. Nothing new about the scheme, to be sure. It is pretty much the same plan the Republicans in the Senate tried to put over three years ago. But even their own surveys of relief showed what every relief survey has shown: That the more localized the control over relief the greater the amount of politics played with relief funds. Handing virtually complete control of relief to the county boards, and handing them also the right to fire every relief worker for political reasons (by ending civil service), can only mean that the reliever will be completely at the mercy of the nearest ward-heeler. And as if that were not enough, the VanAlsbury bill would post the names of all relief workers for public inspection through thousands of relief by increasing residence requirements from one to two years, and compel recipients to work for relief, a question we will discuss in a separate editorial. Then, plumbing bottom in the sink-hole of political cheapjackery, is the proposal to abolish present blind pensions—AND REQUIRE THE BLIND (Continued on next column)

Deaths

MOKLE.—John Henry Mokle, well-known Bellefonte marble dealer, died Friday afternoon at his home in that place. He had been ill for the past six years and was confined to his bed in recent weeks. Mr. Mokle was a son of the late William and Mary C. Mokle and was born at Lemont February 22, 1879. His age at the time of his death was 60 years, one month and nine days. One sister, Mrs. Sally Smith of Centre Hall, and one granddaughter, Patty Lou Weaver, of Altoona, also survive. Mr. Mokle moved to Howard in 1898 where he learned the marble and granite trade from the late J. Will Mayes. After living in Howard for 35 years he moved to Bellefonte in 1933 where he purchased the business formerly owned by M. R. Johnson. For the past few years, during Mr. Mokle's illness, his son William has taken charge of the business. Interment was made in the Schenck cemetery at Howard on Monday, Rev. H. W. Hartwick of the Methodist church officiating. CUNNINGHAM.—J. Mitchell Cunningham, a prominent Bellefonte resident, died Friday morning following a stroke on Wednesday previous, after having been in ill health for several years. He was aged 73 years, 2 months and 23 days. Deceased was a son of the late Murtie and Elizabeth Powers Cunningham. There survives him his wife, formerly Anna Gross. He was a son of Frank and Dora (Stover) Snyder, born at Spring Mills on November 21, 1883, which makes his age at death 55 years, 4 months and 3 days. His wife, the former Mabel Hosterman, of Coburn, survives with three children: Dean Snyder and Mrs. Pauline Kopp, both of Tower City, and Grace, at home, as well as two sisters, Mrs. Edward High of Watsonstown, and Mrs. George Wheeland, of Sunbury, and four grandchildren. KANE.—Mary Elmira Kane, born in Penns Valley, a daughter of Jacob and Catharine Mowrer, died at her home in Bellefonte at the age of 76 years, 5 months. Her first husband was William Knapp, now deceased, and the second Edward Kane, who survives with two children born to the first union. They are Frank Peters and Charles Knapp, both of Bellefonte. Burial was made on Saturday in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte. (Continued from previous column) TO TAKE A "MEANS TEST." Humanizing relief? For INHUMANIZING it would have to hunt a long while to outdo this disgusting program. It is a program designed not to catch chiselers but to, first, reduce payments to the jobless below the subsistence level; second, put the jobless completely at the mercy of their local political bosses, and third, to submit them to humiliation which no decent man would put upon his dog.

MILLER.—Mrs. Frances Miller, widow of John D. Miller, former treasurer of Centre county, who died in Hublersburg thirteen years ago, passed away at the Masonic Home, Elizabethtown, on Sunday at the age of about 84 years, from a heart condition. Her maiden name was Frances Lucas. Funeral services were held from the home of Joel B. Stover at Zion on Wednesday afternoon, and burial made at Hublersburg, where the Miller family lived for many years. Rev. Musser of the Reformed church and Rev. Paul Keller of Snydertown officiated. A sister, Mrs. Georganna Frybarger, of Altoona, is the only immediate survivor of the Lucas family, and there were no children born to the Miller-Lucas union. For the past ten years she was a guest at the Masonic Home.

Egg Marks The Spot, Officer. Patrolman Harold Nickerson of the Detroit Police put his ticket book away when Betty Dane, Wayne University student, explained that her driving with an egg was only part of a sorority initiation stunt. She did it, too, without breaking the egg, by using a Chevrolet, in which vacuum from the motor supplies nearly all the power necessary in shifting gears with the new steering-column shift lever.
