

TWO BARNS BURN IN COUNTY DURING FRIDAY NIGHT

Two barns were burned on Friday night—one near Hubbersburg and the other in Buffalo Run Valley near Myers Cemetery. The loss was heavy, with some insurance.

The Nittany Valley barn was owned by Neva Yearick and tenanted by Elmer Motz. Mrs. Motz was the only member of the Motz family at home at the time the fire was discovered.

In addition to the farm machinery and equipment there was destroyed about 100 bushels of wheat and two silos but no farm stock.

The Howard fire company, well equipped for such an emergency, managed to save buildings nearby by burning structures by using water from a well. The fire at the barn was too far advanced to be overcome when the company reached the scene. The loss is estimated at $5000.

The Buffalo Run barn fire occurred at about 2:00 o'clock Saturday morning. The barn belonged to Mrs. William Brennan and the farm was tenanted by Lewis Spicer. In addition to the barn proper, the flames consumed the pig pen, a poultry house and other outbuildings. Several dogs and calves were also burned, together with all the farm implements.

TRESSLER ORPHANS' BAND ON 25TH ANNUAL TOUR

Tressler Orphans' Home Band is on its twenty-fifth annual tour and will travel over six thousand miles and render over seventy-five concerts before returning to the Home in September. This year's band has thirty-five young members between nine and seventeen years of age, with the average about fourteen years. They offer a program that is very interesting and of real musical value, many of the numbers being new and late arrangements for band that have just been published. Vocal and instrumental solos, quartets and many novelty features will help make up the program. For the third year, Prof. Paul J. Fisher is the director.

Poor Tony Galento! He isn't given a Chinaman's chance against Joe Louis, next Wednesday night in the heavyweight championship bout in New York. Sports writers who have seen him in training declare he will be "wide open," and lead with his chin while guarding with his tummy. That ton of flabby substance, after one sock by Joe's mighty arm will shake worse than the well-known "bowl of jelly." But remember, there's big money in it.

The State chain store levy is ruled unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court. It has not been decided whether or not the case will be carried to the U. S. Supreme Court. The measure was supposed to produce two millions and a quarter revenue which was to boost salaries of school teachers receiving less than $1000 per annum.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Eugene Mowery of Old Fort and Miss Sylvia Sautsman, on Saturday night, by Mrs. Nettie Sautsman, mother of the bride.

NAME CANDIDATES FOR JUDGE DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATION WILL SUPPORT AT PRIMARIES

The State Democratic executive committee met yesterday (Wednesday) to decide on candidates for the supreme and superior courts the party organization will support at the municipal primary Sept. 12.

The meeting was called under party rules requiring it to recommend candidates for state-wide offices in advance of each primary.

The seats to be filled are those of Chief Justice John W. Kephart, of the Supreme Court, and Judges William H. Keller, Thomas J. Baldrige, and Wm. E. Hirt, of the Superior Court.

Kephart is ineligible for re-election. Republican leaders expect that the three sitting Superior Court judges, all Republicans, will seek re-election. Governor James appointed Judge Hirt to the Superior Court bench seat from which he resigned soon after he took the oath of chief executive.

The names of a number of Democrats have been mentioned for both State benches but only one, Judge J. H. McCann of Cambridge, has announced his candidacy.

Judge Sara Soffel of Allegheny county a registered Republican, however, has announced she would seek the nomination on both Republican and Democratic tickets.

Democrats mentioned for the judicial nominations include former Attorney General Guy K. Bard of Lancaster county; Speaker J. Ellwood Turner of Delaware county; Judge Curtis Bok of Philadelphia; Judges Ralph Smith and Michael J. Muzman of Pittsburgh, and Rep. Herbert B. Cohen of York. Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives.

Justice Kephart has endorsed Judge Marion D. Patterson of Blair county, for the Republican nomination to succeed him. Dauphin County Bar Association has suggested George Ross Hall of Harrisburg as a possible candidate for the highest court in the state.

FARM PROGRAM HEAD URGES FARMERS TO IMPROVE PASTURES

Many thousands of acres of Pennsylvania's pasture land, neglected in the past, are expected to be improved through applications of lime and superphosphate under the 1939 Farm Program, according to James Walker, of Somerset county, chairman of the State Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Chairman Walker stated that within two weeks since the plan to supply lime and superphosphate to farmers for pasture treatment was first announced, orders have been received for approximately 55 carloads of these materials from various counties. "Indications are," Mr. Walker stated, "that the program will result in getting farmers started on the road to developing one of the most important parts of a well-balanced farming operation."

In this connection the State Chairman urged farmers to consider their pasture land as one of their most important crops and to treat it as such. It is especially important in Pennsylvania, he pointed out, where livestock feeding is such a vital part of our farming operations.

Mr. Walker explained that any farmer who wishes to secure lime and superphosphate now for pasture treatment may do so by making a small cash deposit to cover local handling charges. The balance of the cost of these materials may be paid for later from the money he will earn by carrying out these pasture improvement practices under the 1939 program. He urged all farmers who are interested to consult their County Agricultural Conservation officer or their community committeeman in order to get complete information.

BIRDS BECOMING MORE PLENTIFUL EACH SEASON

At least in Centre Hall song birds are becoming plentiful. Due to the fact that a number of lawns, front and back, have been made attractive to them. A number of colony houses have been erected for martins and others of the feathered tribe more easily persuaded to nest in boxes, hollow limbs, on trees covered with thick foliage, in thickets of shrubbery. The bird bath is also an incentive to induce nesting nearby, and so are also lily ponds and the like. Quiet, except for the martins, is a condition attractive. Food supply is another. Food producing shrubbery and trees are eagerly sought.

Birds aside from the robin, sparrow, starling, an occasional wren, were indeed a rarity in this section. Now we have a much larger variety of bird habitation. In addition to the most common birds named above may be seen cardinals, the male being the prettiest of all in the bird family here the chattering martin, golden robin, flicker, humming bird with its iridescent plumage, bluebird, roller, chimney swift, blue jay, cat bird, peewee song sparrows, eastern goldfinch, chickadee whelp-poor-will, etc.

GOOD PITCHING OF MARTZ AVAILS NOTHING VS. "GAP"

Peter Martz pitched 2-hit baseball against Pleasant Gap at Centre Hall on Thursday evening but four costly errors on the part of his teammates made his good work go for naught. Pleasant Gap, the league leaders, won the game 5 to 1, and loom big as probable first-half winners at the finish around July 4. They are definitely the locals' thorn in the side in the league race, having taken both games from Centre Hall so far this year.

George Martz's error at short played a big part in the locals' downfall. The box score of the game:

Close Call With Rebersburg

A last-minute batting rally saved the Centre Hall team in its struggle with Rebersburg on the local field on Saturday afternoon. After getting away to a good lead—5 to 1—Centre Hall saved ground gradually to the visitors until Rebersburg forged ahead in the ninth 6 to 5. Then with two out in the last stand, the locals forced over two runs to take the contest 7 to 6 and thereby kept Rebersburg in the cellar position with nine defeats and no victories.
