AWARDS AT GRANGE ENCAMPMENT AND FAIR

VOCATIONAL EXHIBITS HAVE NEW FEATURE

The 1939 Grange Fair presented a new display idea this year in the form of small 3x3x3 booths. Individual students from the various vocational schools competed for the fifteen available spaces this year. The Grange Fair Directors donated $50.00 in prizes to encourage this modern trend in Vocational Agriculture. Each exhibit told some story, presented an idea, or taught a lesson in agriculture. Crowds of people were attracted by the many novel ideas and methods of display originated by the boys. All the booths were good but the first four prize takers were exceptional examples of display.

The All-County Booth by the Bellefonte high school Vocational department was 4x6x10. It had special lighting donated by the DeHaas Electric Company and Special Lime samples, all of which were donated by the Whitecroft Lime Co. The booth showed the relation of lime and phosphate to legumes. It was very fitting for this county due to the need of lime and legumes in the farm business.

EARL HOMAN WINS HORSE-SHOE PITCHING TOURNAMENT
Eighteen Centre county farm men and boys competed in the annual horseshoe pitching contest held at the Grange Fair, August 31. The contest was won by Earl Homan of Pa. Furnace who pitched against Paul Rudy of State College in the finals.

Each of these contestants won one 50-point game in the finals, thus forcing them to pitch a third game to decide the championship. Trailing Rudy with a score of 18-42, Homan rallied to win the championship. He will represent Centre county at the Farm Show in the State horseshoe pitching contest at Harrisburg in January.

Kenneth Houtz of State College, was third and J. A. McCordie of Julian was fourth. The other four in the finals were Eugene Gilligan, Mark Gilligan, Howard Harpster, and Gerald Burris.

FARM NEEDS BIG INCOME, COLLEGE ECONOMIST FINDS
Although in individual cases a watchful eye must be kept on expenses at all times, in a general way, relatively large gross receipts are fundamental in the successful operation of a farm business, J. E. McCord, agricultural economist with the Pennsylvania State College, concludes in analyzing several hundred farm records covering the period from 1930 to 1937.

Average annual gross receipts should not fall far below 25 per cent of the investment in a farm business if a profit from the enterprise is expected, McCord found. In other words, if the gross receipts from a farm business average $4,000 annually, the maximum amount one could afford to invest in the business would be $16,000.

Mrs. Henney's New Fall Millinery
Mrs. Lucy Henney announces a showing of new fall hats for women, misses and girls. You are invited to call and inspect the showing before making purchases elsewhere. Prices, as usual, are moderate.

This country is not at war, yet we already hear of prices on foodstuffs ascending. For instance, meats, as though they were not already too high, and sugar, are in for a rise. This paper hopes a concentration camp will be established for food profiteers.

The Centre Hall-Potter High School Alumni Association announces a dance for Friday evening, 22nd inst. Further details later.

New Fall Hats in at The Hat Shop. Hats of style and quality—the kind the well-dressed woman wears. Call and see them—Mrs. Lenore V. Burd, East Main St., Millheim. x37

WILL POLITICS BE DIVORCED FROM THE GRANGE FAIR?

An underground current appears to be forming in opposition to political programs by major and minor parties being held during the Grange Encampment and Fair at Centre Hall. Expressions were heard on Thursday from persons of various political faith that the great majority of farmers, tradesmen, etc. do not come to the gathering to hear politics discussed, but rather questions of better farming methods. Politics, it was claimed by these persons who were farmers, has its proper place at political rallies.

Even the candidates for minor offices were rated as being bores during the time of the Encampment and Fair, and ought to do their soliciting for political support at the homes of the voter, if personal contact is desired, or through some agency political in character.

Politics may not be eliminated from the Grange program at once, but there are undoubtedly sparks visible that may develop a flame that will accomplish it in time.

MILLER BARN AT BOALSBURG STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Struck by lightning at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon during a severe thunderstorm, the barn and its contents on the W. H. Miller farm near Boalsburg were destroyed by fire. The loss, estimated at $2500, was not covered by insurance.

Three horses and five pigs were removed from the barn and all cattle were saved since the animals were at pasture in the fields. Members of the Boalsburg Fire Company rendered every possible assistance.

BRUSH VALLEY REAL ESTATE SOLD AT PUBLIC SALE

The sale of real estate, the Edgar Stover farm, east of Rebersburg, held on the premises, resulted in Howard Walker of Rebersburg purchasing the farm upon which Lee Wolfe is now the tenant for $4,000. The other was purchased by a Mr. Snyder, of Leesport, for $2,200. This also included the former Detweiler homestead, farmed by Lee Weber, who tenanted the No. 2 farm.

LUCKY TETER AT THE GREAT ALLENTOWN FAIR

Lucky Teter and his Hell Drivers, the world-renowned aggregation of automobile and motorcycle stunt stars, will unleash their new 1939 version of automotive fury at the Great Allentown Fair on Friday, September 22.

For the solid hours, Teter, the world's champion daredevil, and his brilliant supporting cast of star stunt men will smash, crash, race and stunt stock model automobiles and motorcycles, reeling off twenty-eight breath-taking thrillers in rapid-fire succession.

More daring than ever before, Teter himself will contribute the outstanding feats. Heading his list of events is his celebrated car jump in which he will try to jump a regulation stock model sedan clear over the tops of a string of parked automobiles and then attempt to bring his car safely back to the ground.

A spectacular mid-air automobile crash through a huge flaming timber barrier is also included among the breath-taking stunts he himself will offer. Besides the many feats he will attempt, Teter is scheduled to give a demonstration of Hell Driving, which embraces such daring and intricate driving maneuvers as skill jumps, reverse spins, wing-overs and barrel-rolls.

His Hell Drivers, who represent the cream of the nation's crop of professional stunters, will provide many of the thrills. Ken Arnold and Able Daniels will deliberately crash two stock sedans head-on, remaining inside of the machines as they collide with earth-wrecking impact.

Dale O'Brien, young 138-pound strongman, will permit a three-ton transport truck to be driven across his unprotected body in a feat of strength and daring, while Daredevil Dillon will attempt his celebrated blindfolded motorcycle jump through a ring of fire.

Compulsory school attendance includes boys and girls up to the age of seventeen — not eighteen — years. But there are conditions under which compulsory attendance is eliminated at 16 years, 15 years and 14 years. Children under eight years are not under the compulsory law.

ANNUAL DEMOCRATIC PICNIC AT BLACK MOSHANNON DRAWS THOUSANDS

Making a strong bid to recapture the state of Pennsylvania at this fall's election, a militant Democratic group paraded to Black Moshannon State Park, Thursday, to stage one of the most successful picnics ever to be held in this section of the state.

Thousands of New Dealers and mid-week vacationists crowded the spacious Park to enjoy a full day's program that featured prominent speakers, flag raising ceremonies, band concerts and a brilliant display of fireworks.

United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey headed the array of speakers that bluntly attacked the eight-month old reign of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania under the leadership of Governor Arthur James. Lashing out at the Governor as the breaker of his campaign promises of last year, Senator Guffey asked: "Where is that tax reduction, Governor James? Maybe the Governor has forgotten that he went up and down Pennsylvania shouting that he was going to put the state government 'through the wringer'."

"It was going to 'bring out' all the extravagances and waste he'd been talking about. Maybe he meant it because he cried 'extravagance' so often that he may have convinced himself it was actually there. All you remember the black picture he painted, of the poor farmer and the poor business man groaning under the burden of taxation. You may recall that he pointed with theatrical horror to the tax burden of the Earle Administration. He couldn't find adjectives strong enough to condemn it. During the campaign, the Democratic tax program was 'ruinous, vicious, extravagant'."

"Was the program repealed? It was not. Was it modified? It was not. Was it changed? It was not. Word for word, line for line, item for item, dollar for dollar, the so-called 'ruinous, vicious, extravagant' Democratic tax program was re-enacted by the Republican anti-tax crusaders. Arthur James hasn't cut taxes. He hasn't cut budgets. And I venture to predict that when the biennium is over his total payroll expenditures will be far in excess of anything that the Democrats spent."

"Arthur James, you may recall, was very sympathetic last year with the WPA worker because he was getting so little to live on, and because he didn't have a regular job in private industry. Well, you know the torus in Congress took care of the WPA worker all right, by slashing the heart out of the WPA appropriation. And you know what Arthur James meant when he talked about a job in private industry. He meant just nothing. There were no jobs, and he knew it. But it was a good campaign slogan—'jobs' instead of relief or WPA—and that was all he cared about."

Herbert P. Goodrich, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, and candidate for the State Supreme Court, told the picnic crowd that "government activity should not be feared. The government in this country is not a tyrannical force seeking to bind us. The government is ourselves. The things we do, hospitalization, relief, old age pensions, and social security, are things that we are doing together. Government is only ourselves, united together to do the things that are the best for all of us. Let us not be frightened when people tell us of governmental activities. We are the government. We elect the men that run it and we can change it when we want to."

Edward Jackson Thompson, candidate for judge of the Superior Court presided over the speaking program that also included Mrs. Kathryn S. Flohr, president of the Pennsylvania Women's Democratic Clubs and Harold Flannery, candidate for Judge of the Superior Court.

The address of welcome was given by William H. Hooper, treasurer of the Philadelphia Young Democratic Club. The Philadelphia high school band and the Osceola high school band played afternoon and evening concerts.

The flag raising ceremonies were in charge of Boy Scout Troop 49, Burton Vroman, scoutmaster. Mr. Vroman delivered the address.

The peanut scramble was won by Dick Smiley, while Joe Hassinger captured first prize in the watermelon eating contest.

The fireworks display, featuring brilliant aerial bombs, climaxed the day's program.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruffner of Altoona had a peculiar experience on entering the Slack camp, at CCC camp 62, one night during last week. Messrs. R. S. Hagan, J. F. Wetzel and D. S. Daup returned from New York City early Friday morning, having left there on Wednesday. The only injury inflicted was a severe bump on the back of the head which caused the girl much pain throughout the day. The accident happened on Grange Park to the front of the Roy Dutrow tent, near headquarters.

Robert Blazer, employed on the Camp farms, was at his home near Old Fort during last week but returned to remain until all crops are harvested. Almost 300 boys were at the camp, all of whom are provided food—meats, eggs, vegetables, butter and milk—direct from the camp, operated in connection with the farm. The camp is located about 20 miles north of the town of Tunkhannock.

F.B.I. MEN TO LEAD CLINIC FOR PENNSYLVANIA POLICE

Uncle Sam's ace detectives—the G-men—will come to the Pennsylvania State College campus next Monday, September 11, to offer scientific pointers to police officers of Pennsylvania's towns and cities.

The "crime clinic," first of its type in the country, is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association in conjunction with the Extension Services and the Institute of Local Government of the College.

With the enrollment limited to 25 carefully-picked officers, a wealth of information on finger prints, collection of evidence, blood stains and other crime-fighting methods will be explained in classroom and laboratory.

H. C. Rountree, of the College Extension Service, said most of the instruction will be given by the trained personnel of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Members of the college staff will assist in the laboratory.

Practically all phases of scientific detective work will be covered during the clinic, which runs from Monday through Friday. Microscopic study of hairs and textiles will be included on the final day.

Any properly qualified police officer in Pennsylvania may apply for admission to this school," said Mr. Rountree. "The students will then be selected by the police association and the college staff."

It's quite in order to start counting the shopping days remaining until Christmas.
