PENSIONS FOR FEDERAL WORKERS

The average worker outside the Federal employ looks with envy upon such employees, especially those of the Postoffice Department, who after a number of years of pleasant work are retired on a pension sufficiently large to take care of their economic needs.

The answer given by such employees usually is that a deduction from their monthly pay throughout the years has built up a fund to provide for a part of this pension.

We would be in no position to defend ourselves too strongly on this point, but that the above statement is the "bunk" is proven by no less an authority than the former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, who in an address in New York, April 30, 1938, said:

"While theoretically employees are supposed to bear a share of the cost of this pension system by a deduction from their monthly pay, as a matter of fact salary schedules have been adjusted with a view of absorbing this deduction, so that virtually the Government is defraying the entire cost of the retirement system."

SURPLUS FOOD PRODUCTS GO TO 10,500,000 EACH MONTH

The annual report of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation reveals the great progress made by the New Deal in correcting the evil of need in the midst of plenty. By means of the Food Stamp Plan, School Lunch Program and the distribution of food commodities to State welfare agencies, thousands of tons of the agricultural surplus have been brought to people who were in need of them and who, without the employment of these methods, would not have been able to secure them.

By means of the free school lunch program 29,000,000 pounds of commodities were distributed in 14,000 schools for the benefit of 900,000 children. State welfare agencies received for distribution to needy and unemployed persons farm products of about forty kinds in the amount of 56,500 carloads. Among the commodities were such important items of diet as butter, skim milk and evaporated milk, eggs, oranges, grapefruit, apples, peaches, raisins, prunes and many kinds of vegetables.
