A GRAND OLD POEM. Who shall judge a man from manners? Who shall know him by his dress? Paupers may be fit for princes, 🍇 Princes fit for something less. Crumpled shirt and dirty jacket May beclothe the golden ore Of the humblest thoughts and feelings -Satin vests could do no more.

There are springs of crystal nectar Ever welling out of stone; There are purple buds and golden. Hidden, crushed and overgrown; God, who counts by souls, not dresses. Loves and prospers you and me, While he values thrones the highest But as pebbles in the sea.

Man, upraised above his fellows, Oft forgets his fellows then; Masters, rulers, lords, remember That your meanest hinds are men-Men by labor, men by feeling. Men by thought, and men by fame, Claiming equal rights to sunshine. In a man's ennobling name.

There are foam embroidered oceans. There are little reed-clad hills, There are feeble, inch-high saplings, There are cedars on the bills: God, who counts by souls, not stations. Loves and prospers you and me; For, to him, all vain distinctions Are as pebbles in the sea.

Toiling hands alone are builders. Of a nation's wealth or fame: Titled laziness is pensioned. Fed and fattened on the same: By the sweat of others' foreheads Living only to rejoice, While the poor man's outraged freedom Vainly lifted up his voice. Truth and justice are eternal, Born with loveliness and light, Secret wrongs shall never prosper. While there is a sunny right; God, whose world-heard voice is singing Boundless love to you and me, Sinks oppression with its titles, As the pebbles of the sea.

Mother's Prayers.—Said a young man who was far away from home and all its restraining influences, "Were it not for theremembrance I have of my mother's prayers, I should sink down into the depths of many a sin; but there comes to me the image of my mother with her earnest look, her sweet voice. I almost hear her in the distance praying only as true Christian mothers can pray. Mother believes I shall sooner or later be one of the followers of Jesus, and I believe her prayers, under God, are to save me."

Mothers, think well what this youth de clares; remember what fearful responsibilities rest upon you; God has placed them there.-Are you true to them?

Trinity." THE SECRET.-"I noticed." said Franklin. 'a mechanic among a number of others, at work on a house erecting but a little way from my office, who always appeared to be in a merry humor, who had a kind and cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold, gloomy or sunless, a happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his cheerful countenance. Meeting him one morning, l sked him to tell me the secret of his constant happy flow of spirits. 'No secret, Doctor, he replied. I have got one of the best of wives, and when it go to work she always has kind word of encouragement for me, and when I go home she meets me with a smile and a kiss; and then ten is sure to be ready, and she has done so many little things through the day to plea e me, that I cannot find it in my heart to speak an unkind word to anybody.' What influence, then, has woman over the heart of man, to soften it and make it the foundation of cheerful and pure emotions! Speak gently, then; greeting after the toils of the day are over, costs nothing, and goes far toward making home happy and SILERT INFLUENCES .- It is the bubbling spring which flows gently, the little rivulet which runs along, day and night, by the farm house, that is useful, rather than the swollen flood or warring cataract. Niagara excites our wonder, and we stand amazed at the power and greatness of God there as he pours t from the "hollow of his hand." But one Niagara is enough for the continent or the world, while the same world requires thousands and tens of thousands of silver fountains and gently-flowing rivulets that water every farm, and meadow, and every garden, and that shall flow on every day and night with their gentle, quiet beauty. So with the acts of our lives. It is not by great deeds, like those of the martyrs, that good is to be done, but by the daily and quiet virtues of life, the Christian temper, the good qualities of relatives and friends.

HE is the most thoroughly educated man who derives his knowledge not from books alone, nor from men alone, but from the careful and discriminating study of both. A truly learned man is liberal towards opponents, olerant of error, charitable toward frailty and compassionate toward failure. Only the ignorant and half educated are dogmatical, illiberal and intolerant.

A True Lady. - I was once walking a short distance behind a very handsomely dressed young girl, and thinking, as I looked at her beautiful clothes. I wondered if she takes half as much pains with her body?"

A popy old man was coming up the walk, with a loaded wheelbarrow, and, just before he reached us, he made two attempts to go into the yard of a small house; but the gate was heavy, and would swing back before he could get through. "Wait," mid the young girl, springing light-
