Serious complaints have been made concerning the neglect of the edu children in the aims and poor houses of some of the counties of the State. They are per-mitted to grow up in idieuess and ignorance, and when sent upon the world to earn a living are better prepared to receive lessons of vice than these of, usefulness. The directors of these institutions should be compelled, by law, to send such children to the common law, to send such children to the connoun schools or provide proper schools for them, and it should be made the duty of commun sch of superintendents to supervise and an force the execution of the law.

The estimates for the year ending June 1. 869 will be found fully set forth in the report of the superintendent. From that re-port it will also be seen that there are in operation thirty-nine orphan schools and homes, having in charge an average of two thousand nine hundred and thirty one pupils for the year ending November 30, 1867, at an aver-ige cost of one hundred and forty-eight dollars and forty-three cents per annum. These schools have doubtless reached their maximum numbers, sixteen years being the ige at which the orphans cease to be chargeshe to the State and they will henceforward lecrease in the following ratio, viz: 374 will reach that age in 18:8; 329 in 18:9; 348 in 1870; 403 in 1871; 479 in 1872; 460 in 1878; $21,642.573 3 416 in 1874 and 344 in 1875 after which there probably will not be more tuan 6.10 remain-The above assets will be available as foling in the schools. Getyphare, June 20 1847-17 Bardware, Cuttery, Ar.	most genial men I ever met and seemed so not alone to us, but to his students and to all about him; and our enjoyment of Rome is greatly due to his kindness. At Naples I attended Presbyterian church twice, and heard an excellent sermon from a Massachusetts traveler. On Saturday after our arrival we visited Pompeti; and what shall I say of the silent city—so suddenly be- reft of all its life—brought to utter desolation in a moment! We walked through the streets of the city, amid temples to the gods, and palaces of men, and through tenantles- houses, and shops whose signs were yet posted on the walls as they were 1800 years ago! The paved streets were worn into rut by the carriages that once (in the time of Christ, and before it) rolied over them. The fountains were standing in the highways where now there were none to drink from them. Here and there were window grates inf molted, and on every door-sill could be traced the melted fron from what had been the hinges of the doors. Here was the The atre for Tragedy; near by one for Comedy and away off, the Amphitheatre. Here way whole skeletons of men and beasts the it were overtaken by the sudden destruction, as ad who miserably perished. Your attention is particularly invited to the want of uniformity and constant change of books in the public schools. These are matters of serious luconvenience and needless expeuse to the poot, and might easily be re medied by judicious legislation. The chief aim of our system of common schools is to place the advantages of an educa-tion within the reach of all the children of the commonwealth; and when it is considered that intelligence and virtue are the principal sateguards of our free institutions, this system arnestly claims the fostering care and wise

In 1864 the Legislature made an appropri tion for the purpose of having prepared and published a complete history of the military operations of the State in reference to the lat war. My predecessor appointed Samuel P. Bates, Esq., for the purpose of consummating the provisions of that act, who proceeded to collect the necessary materials and to prose cute the work.

Although the country has again been restored to peace, the people continue to feel a deep interest in all that relates to the struggle which so recently convulsed the mation. Good schools cannot exist without good teachers, and good teachers can only be busined by using the proper means to prepare them. Recognizing those facts, the Legisla-ute of 1857 passed a general Normal school aw, dividing the State into twelve districts, and looking forward to the establishment, in each of them, of a Normal school.
