IN 1834, when the Democracy of that day celebrated the 8th of January, this was one of the toasts:

"Henry Clay.—Beneath the protection of a Senator's mantle he basely attacks character, and, hyena like, preys upon reputation.-Cease, viper, ye gnaw at a file."

In 1868, the Copperhead Democracy of the day, at an 8th of January celebration, hung his portrait in their banqueting the character of the management as well hall, and affected to revere his name. This shows the programme. If plavery can't be restored, the Southern "De Jeff. Davis, and has really pardoned mocrats" intend to demand payment for hundreds of officers and Congressmen their slaves. Northern "Demograts" must prepare to adopt one or the diher alternative. Of course, the Republicans are squarely against both. There is no safety for any Northern interest outside of the Republican organisation.
