Medical.

Mrade Epiroes .- The relatively high prices of most articles of food will doubtless timulate the next season larger agricultural enterprises than we have witnessed the past few years. While the commercial events of the past year fully establish the fact that there has been considerable over production in most branches of skilled industry, it is equally plain that the cereal and provision crops of the country do not bear their relative proportion, so far as quantity is concerned, to the other products of labor, and are wholly inad- the 7-30's, allowing premium and interest. equate to the present exigencies of commerce and consumption. Hence in many instances, they still maintain the extreme prices current during the war, while nearly all other commodities have been greatly reduced in value -some of them below the actual cost of pro-

This state of things, indicating a departure from a well balanced and healthy system of national industry, cannot long continue without working great mischief to the general welfare of the country and all its material intercorn raising, the wheat raising, the potatoes raising community from the over-crowded cities and large towns where business is overdone. We want more farmers, and we want farmers to plant more, to sow more, to raise more cattle, to hire more help. In no other way than by increasing the agricultural productions of the country can the full tide of prosperity return to our country. Cheap and abundant food is the primary and indispensable condition of success to the productive industry of every nation, and without it there can be no permanent and solid development in any of its branches. The recruits for the ranks of the tillers of the soil must be drawn chiefly from abroad and from our large cities. The commercial classes, which are largely over-stocked, should furnish their full quota, and the thousands of able bodied young men who are now out of employment, and looking in 'vain for fortune to smile upon them in the unproductive and uncertain walks of mercantile life, would do well, when the Spring opens, to turn their faces resolutely towards the undeveloped fields of the rural districts, where the sure reward of honest industry awaits

I believe that the next season is to witness the results of a movement like this. Let every farmer, then, prepare to co-operate in it -by enlarging his field of operations-plowing more, sowing and planting more and inesting more. His reward will not fail him! J. S. G. POULTRY MANUER—HOW TO SAVE AND USE

17.—Poultry manure, one of the most valuable fertilizers made upon the farm, is too often allowed to go to waste. The hens and turkeys roost upon trees, under the shed, in the tofore pertaining to a well regulated Bank. wagen-house, or wherever it happens. To save the manure, these birds must be taught to roost in one place. Turkeys readily take to elevated poles near the house or barn, and these should always be provided for them .-Sweep up their droppings every few days, and put in a box or barrel, and keep dry. Hens Corner of Baltimore and St. Paul streets, will roost under cover, and a hen-house should always be one of the farm buildings. The floor, if not of boards in a loft, should be such that it can be cleaned easily and frequently. It is well to keep plaster or dried peat under the fowls. Put the sweepings in old barrels as fast as they accumulate. In a dry state they will keep a long time without much loss. U. S. 1881 BONDS. It is customary to mix these droppings with wood ashes, without much attention to definite proportions, at the time of planting, and drop them in the hill for corn and potatoes.-If care is taken to keep the seed from contract with the manure, they produce very satisfactory results. But this is not the best way of using it. Two or three weeks before planting, mix the contents of the barrels with about three times their bulk of moist loam or peat under cover. When the mass is well heated, shovel it over, and mix with it as much more loam or peat, and let it lie until wanted. This may be worked into beds prepared for garden seeds, or dropped, a handful to the hill, for field crops, and it will always tell a good story LIME AROUND APPLE TREES.—The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "We have known some some farmers make it a regular practice for a succession of years to throw caustic lime around their apple trees in the spring and summer. We once noticed that a tree standing in the immediate vicinity of our dwelling had all at once put forth with renewed energy, and we were at loss for some time to define the cause. On examination we found that a quantity of lime, which had accidently been UNION PACIF spilled, and rendered worthless by becoming mixed with the refuse on the stable floor, had been thrown at the foot and around the tree, and to this, as the principal cause, we immediately accredited the revivescence and renewed fructification of the tree. Taking the hint from the incident, we purchased twelve casks of lime, and applied half a bushel to each of the trees in our orchard, and found that it produced immediate beneficial effects. Not the health of the tree only. but the quality of the fruit also was greatly improved. This application will be especially beneficial in soils where there is a redunlancy of vegetable matter. We would advise our farmers in some places, especially in new forest lands recently cleared, and on low lands, to make trial of this experiment and see whether it is not deserving of the high recomendation it secures."

BED YOUR STABLES .- A horse, remarks the Rural World, will get tired of standing and treading on a hard floor; so will a cow, a neep, a man. A soft bed feels easy—gives rest. And yet we neglect the bedding of our stables, to a great extent. Injured limbs and | men always in readiness, and work excented wit other aliments, especially of the hoof, are the results often of a neglect here, as has been clearly enough shown, and as any man can clearly enough see, if he gives the subject a a moment's thought. Bed with straw which is plenty, or sawdust, or tanbark, or shavings. | G. C. CABHMAN. The dryer these materials are the better. Every day remove the moistened bedding, and re-place with new. Such a floor, well bed ded adds greatly to the warmth of a stable, and thus becomes a fodder saver. The small noles and crevices in a floor, with a good bedding upon them, will let little or no cold through, and will drain .the stable. Rather have a ground floor than a hard naked plank. -American Farmer.

A wash composed of lime, salt, and fine and or wood ashes, put on in the ordinary way of whitewashings renders the roof fifty er cent, more secure against taking fire from lling cinders, in case of fire in the vicinity. It pays the expense a hundred fold in its pre-serving influence against the effects of the eather. The older and more weather-beaten the shingles, the more benefit derived.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Rural American given the following zemedy for lice on cattle. Take 12 good sized potatoes, pound them fine, put them into two and a half gallons of oroughly, and then let it coo and apply it as a wash to all animals having at his old stand, on West street, Gettysburg, and is read and therefore any remedy that will protect us against his terrible disease should be freely and persistently sued.

The Cottage Gardener, of Landon, says earthing up potatoes diminishes the produce and cheaply as it can be done at any other establishm and retards the ripening of the tubers. Long experiments in England have proved this fact that billing up the potato will reduce the business to sent a liberal share of public patronage.

All pathologists now agree that the cholera polson acts on the system through the blood, and that any combination which acts on the excretory organs, and keeps them in working order, must prevent a nufficient accumulation of the polson to exert interrible effects on the organism. This is true not only of cholera, but of nearly all other nalodies, especially the different forms of fever.

The Zingari Bitters is just such a remedy as the above conditions require. It acts on the organisor exertion and secretion, keeping up a perfect balance between them. The Bitters is composed entirely of roots and herbs, so nicely concated that every organ is acted upon any put in tone. Its taste is pleasant and its effects prompt and lasting.

Numerous cases of the following diseases have been cured by it: Cholera, Diarrhees, Dysentery, Scrofsia, Typhoid and Typhus Pever. Fever, Ague, Nervous Debility, Anaemia, Female Irregularities, Dyspepsia, Flatniercy, Colic, &c.
