belong to that other million which makes the food, I propose to look a little at the other side The cry of protection to native industry has been so often and so long raised, that, to questhan heresy, especially in a citizen of Pennsylvania. The belief that it was the part of wisdom in our rulers to protect the manufacturing industry of the country has lived and grown stronger ever since the days of the revolution; and it is inherent in this system of legislation, that the longer you protect any one branch of industry by a tariffor otherwise, the greater will be the protection it must have in order to exist. But what I wish specially to call attention to, is the fact, that the popular clamor for protection has uniformally me farmers have been left without any such otective legislation. The working of this ale is as follows. Take the iron factors as an illustration. They say, we must have a protective tariff on iron, because we cannot compete with the makers of iron in England, who hire labor cheaper than we can, and yet the American farmer is expected to compete with the English farmer in the production of wheat, even though he must hire labor at correspondingly high rates. The effect of this is, to enable the iron-maker to pay higher wages than the farmer and thus drive the labor of the country to manufacturing and leave the farmer to do his own work or hire such labor as he can get at less prices than the manufacturers. This is precisely the condition of the farmers of this country at the present day; to make it pay, the farmer must do his own work, whilst he who expects to make farming pay by hiring labor at such prices as the manufacturers pay, will soon find the expense exceeding the income. The only way in which more labor can be employed upon our farms to do advantage is to decrease the price of such to advantage is to decrease the price of such articles as farmers and farm laborers consume and one of the best ways of doing this, is, to allow them to buy their iron, clothing, &c.,

Not content with protecting the manufacturing industry at the expense of the rest, they levied a direct tax upon the raw product of our southern farmers, and that too, at a time, when they were stripped of everything but their land by a long and devastating war .-Apparently, entirely ignorant of the fact that three cents a pound tax in America was three cents a pound premium in its production in India. The history of that enactment is too well known to need comment here; suffice it to say, that they who assisted in its passage, were equally active in its repeal, and if its effects were as short-lived as the act itself, i might be pardened.

taxing them for the support of manufacturers.

I know it is argued that the establishment

There is in this connection another fact de serving of consideration. It is a well known principle in political economy, "That every acrease in agricultural production, is accompanied by a more than proportionate increase in cost." To produce 40 bushels of wheat to the acre requires more than double the outlay required for 20 bushels to the acre, hence the profit per bushel is diminished. In this way a point is soon reached by the wheat grower, where the cost of production, and the value of the product are equal, a point obviously where the producer could not live. Hence agricultural pursuits in every country gravitate to a Official History of the War. tural profitableness at which they can be pursued, and he who attempts to supplant the agricultural customs of a country by what he may consider a "more thorough system of culture" will soon find ruin the result of his enthusiasm. Hence too comes the familiar fact, that most attempts at what is called fancy farming, viz: large investments in buildings, stock, drainage, commercial manures, &c., almost universally result in financial loss

Agricultural production can only be brought to a maximum by reducing the cost thereof to a minimum and this can only be done by cessing to put an artificially high price upon anything which the agriculturist consumes. In this connection, it may be well to notice the fact that England, which hires more labor on its farms than we do, and produces more food to the acre than we do, has always been known as the Apostic of Free Trade. A gentleman of rare intelligence upon this subject, writing from Central Illinois, makes the assument and with EXAUT REGULARIZIT, and to remain from Central Illinois, makes the assument, that the indirect taxes are made with EXAUT REGULARIZIT, and the remainding statement, that the indirect taxes is paid, by the farmers of that locality, to a locality, to a with all their direct taxes, amounts to a with a with all their direct taxes, amounts to a with a wi

Medical. THE GREAT CHOLERA. PREVENTATIVE.

THÉ GREAT Zingari Bitters. THIS WONWERFUL REMEDY was discovered an introduced about twenty years ago by Dr. 8. Cheop sus, an eminent Egyptian plysicism.

He had long seen and felt the want of some genically which would strike at the root of disease, and so prevent much of the suffering which the human family was then compelled to endure.

This great question was presented to his mind every day in vivideolors as he moved among the sick and dying, and observed the inefficiency of uearly all the remedies then in use. Thus he was led to think and experiment; and after ten years study and labor, he presented to his preparation in the prevention and cure of disease was so matvellowand aktonishing, that the most flattering marks of royal favor were bestowed upon him who discovered it. His name was placed upon the Roll of Nobles, and a gold medial with the following inacription—Dr. 8. Cheopsus, the Public Benefactor—was presented to him by the Viceroy.

The preparation has been used in several epidemics of cholers, both as a preventive and curative measure, and with such great success, that it has been introduced into nearly all the general hospitals of the old world.

The old asying that an onuge of prevention is worth a pound of cure, applies with marvellous force to cholera, and tintefore any remedy that will protect us against his terrible disease should be freely and persistently sued.

All pathologists now agree that the cholera poison acts ned.

All pathologists now agree that the cholera poison acts All pathologists now agree that the cholera poison acts on the system through the blood, and that any combination which acts on the exerctory organs, and keeps them in working order, must prevent a sufficient accumulation of the poison to exert its terrible effects on the organism This is true not only of cholera, but of nearly all other maizdies, especially the different forms of fever.

The Zingari Bitters is just such a remedy as the above conditions require. It acts on the organisof extretion and secretion, keeping up a perfect balance between them. This Bitters is composed entirely of roots and herbs, so nicely concected that every organ is acted upon an up not in tone. Its taste is pleasant and its effects prompt and lasting.

Numerous cases of the following diseases have been cured by it: Cholera, Diarrhora, Dysentery, Scrofula, Typhoid and Typhus Fever, Faver, Ague, Nervous Debility, Ausenia, Female Irregularities, Dyspejsia, Flatulency, Colic, &c.
