Platform scales for weighing cattle would pay every neighborhood of farmers. Buyers who estimate weights, and are experienced in weighing by the eye, are almost sure to get the advantage of the seller. - Old moments cannot be spent to better pecuniary advantage than in setting out vines, shrubs, etc. It is wonderful how much can be done "without feeling it," by those who take advantage of such opportunities for homestead improvements. - Butter keeps up to war prices, almost. CULTURE OF THE POTATO. - From an article written by Mr. E. Williams, the well known nurseryman of Montclair, N. J., we select the following remarks on the preparation of the seed and the soil: THE SEED AND ITS PREPARATION .-- If you were to see a farmer save his corn nubbins for seed, or select the meanest and most indifferent specimen of horse, cow or swine, from which to perpetuate his stock, you would which to perpetuate his stock, you would which to perpetuate his stock, you would doubtless at once set him down as a fool. Let us hope this practice is not prevalent; yet many otherwise intelligent farmers act about as sensibly in their potato growing; for they insist year after year in selecting small seed, and then wonder they don't succeed better: "potatoes don't do as well as they used to—shall have to buy potatoes this season!"—

like," and for the same reason that I would select the best ears of corn, the best and heaviest wheat, rye or oats, for sowing, would I select the best, largest and smoothest potatoes for planting, believing, as I do, that such potatoes are earlier, maturer and better developed than small ones.

True, such seed would bring a little more than small ones in the market, but a few dolper month, everywhere, male and female, to inthan small ones in the market, but a few dollars and cents gain there is no comparison to the gain I believe I get in the increased yield, continued health and vigor of potato crops.

I believe one chief cause of the failure and deterioration of the potato is the persistent use of small and immature seed. My experiments have led me to practice cutting seed to one or two eyes, to prevent overstocking, and to allow the growing tubers room to "spread themselves."

The Soil.—I generally follow corn with polators. If the corn was a small or the part was a small or the practice cutting seed to of the growing tubers room to "spread themselves."

PREVENTATIVE.

X., 1836. L.

THE GREAT Zingari Bitters. ZINGAPI Bitters.

This Wonwerful Remedy was discovered an introduced about twenty years agoby Dr. S. Cheop sus, an eminent Expitian physician.

He had long seen and felt the want of some remedy which would strike at the root of disease, and so prevent much of the auffering which the human family was then compelled to endure.

This great question was presented to his mind every day in vivil colors as he moved among the sick and dying, and observed the inefficiency of nearly all the remedient then in use. Thus he was led to think and experiment; and after the years study and labor, he presented to his follow-anan the wonderfulzi gari Bitters. The effect of this preparation in the prevention and cure of disease, was so marvellour and astorishing, that the most flattering marks of gogst fayor wars bestowed upon the Roll of Nobles, and a gold medal with the following inscription—Dr. S. Cheopens, the Public Benefactor—was presented to him by the Vicerty.

The preparation has been used in several cyldenics of cholers, both as a preventive and carative measure, and with such great success, that it has been introduced into nearly all the general hospitals of the old world.

FORKS AND BROOM-HANDLES, for wholesale and retail trade.

He hopes by prompt attention to business, to merit and receive a liberal patronage. Orders addressed to him at Gettysburg, will receive prompt attention.
