The careless manner in which many farmers spleet sped and more particularly aped of our cereals has the effect to les son the yield to an extent beyond the belief of such. The fact that wheat rakings are as good as any for seed have the proof in the good crop that may follow yet such chousing seed has also proved beyond a doubt that varieties have derestail so rapidly that they had to be shandoned in a few years after their inedication. The best and earliest spots should be chosen and left ripen well, and when threshed should be well cleaned leaving the large perfect grains for sow-ing; frequent change of seed from a distance is desirable. Such a course will idieness, were spent in the advancement of agriculture—if the people were as intent on preserving their farms from deerioration, as they are in "preserving the Union," and settling the manifold vexed questions of the day; if they were half as carnest in battling with briers and weeds, and poor fences and bad soils, as with their political opponents, should we not be better off as a nation and as individuals?

Why is England to-day the garden of Europe, unless it is because every acreis so widely cultivated? Why is even barren New England made so productive, unless because of the industry and intelligence of her agriculturists? Well has one said: "The fields ought to be the morning and evening theme of all Americans who love their country. To fertilize and improve their farm, ought to be the prime tenaporal object of every owner of substantial soil. All national aggrandizements, power and wealth may be traced to arriculture as its ultimate source.-Commerce and agriculture are only subordinate results of this main spring .--We consider agriculture as every way subsidiary not only to abundance, industry, comfort and health, but to good | morals, and ultimately even to religion itself." We shall always sing, "Speed the plough!" We shall always regard the American farmer, dressed for his employment, and tilling his grounds, as belong-

SAVE YOUR PLUMS.—I have had some experience in the raising of plums. In my former efforts, when I let them take care of themselves, my trees produced nothing but a crop of worms and disapcointment. But for the last three years I have succeeded in raising as fine and full a crop of plums as could be desired. My treatment was this: In the spring, as soon as the blossoms began to fall from the fruit, I prepared a large sheet-iron on which were placed a few chips or any tiling that would burn readily, and after they had commenced burning freely, smothered the blaze down with grass, which produced a dense smoke. This I would carry around under the trees, and perfectly befog the entire top, every branch, with smoke. I made this application of smoke each evening and morning, and continued it until about the first of July. Fresh grass should be frequently added, so as to continue a heavy volume of smoke.

I think the advantage derived from the smoke is from the coating which it deposits upon the fruit, leaves and branches, and producing a scent which is offensive to such insects as are wont to prey upon the young fruit. But whatever the effect of smoke may be, it has been a successful protection to the fruit during my three years' experiment. I always gave my trees a thorough smoking; I doubt the success of homeopathic treatment in such cases.—F. Malay.

WASHING STEMS OF FRUIT TREES .-The bark of fruit trees lives for several years. In the apple we do not know exactly, but we believe about six years.— Annually a new bark is formed next the wood, and consequently the outside bark of a six year old tree was formed six years before. After six years (about this,) the back dies and forms what is called rough bark, and this rough or dead bark remains on many years, getting thicker from the under side, with each year's accrimulations.

Writars on tree-washes make no distinction between the different stages—hence apparent contradictions are common, which the reader cannot reconcile.

For instance, a correspondent of the Canada Farmer says he nearly ruined his orchard by washing the trees with monn or says he nearly ruined his orchard by washing the trees with monn or says he nearly ruined his orchard by washing the trees with monn or says he nearly ruined his orchard by washing the trees with monn orchard by washing the trees with soap sude as strong as he could make it, and putting on about half a paifful to the tree, and a neighbor killed his trees entirely by sutting soap gresse upon them to keep

by putting soap greens upon them to keep from grawing the bark.

The mes no doubt put on young, the bark, which it would no bark, which it would no bark the bark to bark the who had recommendad a had no doubt tried it on old trees 1100 CORDS WANTED disjough back, to which it would be a mary if it that one should know the reain as well as the rules,- I. Mochan.

THE GREAT CHOLERA PREVENTATIVE.

X. 1866. L. THE GREAT

Zingari Bitters. THIS WONWERFUL REMEDY was discovered an introduced about twenty years ago by Dr. S. Cheop sus, an eminent Egyptian physician.

He had long seen and feit the want of some remedy which would strike at the root of disease, and so prevent much of the suffering which the human family was then compelled to endure.

This great question was presented to his mind every day in vivid colors as he moved among the sick and dying, and observed the inefficiency of nearly all the remedies then in use. Thus he was led to think and experiment; and after ton years' study and labor, he presented to his

and after ten years' study and labor, he proseuted to bis

this preparation in the prevention and cure of discase was so mervellous and astonishing, that the most flattering marks of royal favor were bestowed upon the Roll of Nöbles, and a gold medal with the following inscription
—Dr. S. Cheopsus, the Public flenefactor—was presented to him by the Viceroy.

The preparation has been used in several epidemics of cholera, both as a preventive and curative measure, and with such great success, that it has been introduced into nearly all the general hospitals of the old world.

The old saying that han ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, applies with marveilous force to cholera, and therefore any remedy that will protect us against his terrible disease should be freely and persistently sued.
