THROUGH THE WORLD.
Some hearts go hungering through the world,
And never find the love they seek;
Some lips with pride or scorn are curled,
To hide the pain they will not speak.
The eye may flash, the mouth may smile,
The voice in gladness tremble and thrill,
And yet beneath them all the while
The hungry heart be pining still.
These know their doom, and walk their way,
With level steps and steadfast eye,
Nor strive with Fate, nor weep nor pray;
While others, not so sadly wise,
Are mocked by phantoms evermore,
Fair to the eye, but at the core
Holding but bitter dust and mire.
I hear them gaze from wistful eyes,
I mark their sighs on fading cheeks;
I see them tremble in unsteady steps,
For none the grief that never speaks.
And no one who is not so sadly wise,
Is mocked by phantoms evermore,
Fair to the eye, but at the core
Holding but bitter dust and mire.
