THE Congressional Committee on Re reachment submitted a Report to Congress on Monday concerning the "whisky frauds" throughout the counopponents, shows the commanding Thaddens Stevens was pro-eminently a try, and other interesting matters conposition the illustrious deceased had atnected with the revenue. Its disclostained in the councils of the nation .ures are sufficienaly startling to secure attention, and discreditable enough to disgust and discourage an honest taxgressional Globe. We must content the honor of his birth, Pennsylvania the payer of any political faith. The' report opens with the statement that which will be read with interest. many frauds yet exist in the revenue-Mr. DICKEY, after gracefully alluddepartment, in kind as heretofore, but ing to his obligations to Mr. STEVENS her legislative halls his first political prize, not to the same extent; and that what for kindness and aid rendered him in her people his constituents, her interests his is most needed to secure the proper onorcement of the laws is honest offihim in later life, saidcials. It then proceeds to arraign President Johnson, charging him not premises, but with retaining in office and befriending those who are known to be defrauding the Government: with removing others whose only offence was disagreeing with him on political questions, and with suspend ing prosecutions against indicted crim inals. The frauds practised by gaugers, their four sons. She was a woman of great of free speech and his influence over the store-keepers and distillers, and also compounding houses, are explained with some minuteness, and the defects of the law in relation to these particular matters pointed out. The frauds by settlement, compromises, etc., are also referred to, and better and plainer evialation in this respect is recommented. Considerable space is given in the report to the evidence of Mr. Commissioner Rollins. as explaining many important matters connected with the collection of the revenue. He states. substantially, that previous to the Philadelphia Convention the Commissioner had a potent voice in the appointment of the subordinate officers of the Bureau, but that since the Conven tion the sole power of appointment was with the Secretary of the Treasury and the clerks in his office, so that now the Commissioner has no more power with eference to the appointment of officers of the revenue service than if he were a clerk in the department-his only prerokative in the premises being the right conferred by law to recommend persons for the office of Supervisor.
