THE CURRANT. Compared with its value and the numbe of uses to which it is applied, the current is a neglected fruit. "The first correct rec ord we have of the current as a fruit under cultivation was about A. D. 1600; but once introduced, it increased rapidly in favor, and growing so readily from cuttings or PATENT MEDICINES A LARGE ASSORTMENT. shoots, it was found in the garden of every stranger." Every owner of a lot plants a few currant bushes, and as a rule every owner of a lot neglects their cultivation. Usually they are given a position as close to the side COLGATE'S, AND OTHER SUPERIOR SOAPS. of a fence as possible, and if they grow and FORNEY'S HORSE POWDERS. THE BEST AND produce fruit in abundance, all very well; if they do not fruit abundantly, the owner remarks that currents don't seem to do in my graden.

No other fruit bearing plant in the whole list, fruits so well or endures so many years under complete neglect as the current; and we believe no other fruit has in itself valuable qualities for so many uses as the current. It thrives in any soil, shade or sunshine, and if planted in varied exposures may be had in eating over two months. As a dessert fruit it is cooling and grateful to the stomsch, ornamental and attractive on the table, valuable for its medicinal qualities—being used, to allay thirst in febrile complaints, to lessen an increased secretion of bile, to correct a putrid and scorbutic state of the fluids, to strengthen the stomach and excite appetite. It is used for tarts and pies when green and can be kept fresh for years in bottles. Ripe, it is not only used as dessert, but is made into jellies and wines, and can be distilled into brandy.

As a crop for market, planted four by four feet, the current yields from one hundred and fifty to two hundred bushels to the acre; and if sold in Market, usually brings about two dollars a bushels. Made into wine and the product sold at two dollars a gallon, it has returned over $600 to the acre. - Ohio Farmer.

astonishment that so many farmers appear to be indifferent to the kitchen garden,-There are many vegetables like celery, lettuce asparagus, rhubarb and many others that might be named, that are absolutely indispensable in their season upon every well-supplied table. They are healthful, as well compared to the state of the citizens of Littletown and vicinity at the lowest market rates, consisting in part of as palatable, and no farmer should deprive his family of an abundant supply of them. Besides, the garden, if conveniently located, as it should be, near the house, need not occupy an unreasonable amount of time, but offers a place where many an odd hour may be filled up with pleasure as well as profit. There is no estimating the saving which might be effected by greater attention to the garden. The fact is, the farmer is better situated to have upon his table every luxury in the way of vegetables and small fruits, since he can produce them himself, than any other class of people, but in point of fact how few avail themselves of the advantages of this position What is more healthful than rhubarb, of pie-plant, in its season, and yet how few gardens contain it! Who would deprive his family of celery, and yet how few gardens give it any place.

LIVE CATTLE WEIGHED BY MEASURE. The only instrument necessary is a measure with feet and inch marks upon it. The girth is the circumference of the animal just behind the shoulder blades. The length is the distance from the shoulder blades. The superficial feet are obtained by multiplying the girth and length. The following table contains the rule to ascertain the weight of the animal: If less than one foot in girth, multiply superficial feet by eight.

If less than three and more than one, multiply superficial feet by eleven. If less than five and more than three multiply superficial feet by sixteen. If less than seven and more than five multiply superficial feet by twenty-five. If less than nine and more than seven, multiply superficial feet by thirty-three. If less than eleven and more than nine, multiply superficial feet by forty two. Example: Suppose a pig to measure in girth two feet, and length one foot and nine inches. There would then be three and a half feet, which, multiplied by eleven, gives

Is WHITE CLOVER PASTURE GOOD FOR SHEEP?-Having kept sheep for six years, principally upon white clover, I can recommend it as being durable and affording about one-third more food than other grasses, and it will stand closer feeding, and sheep will do well on it. I have shout ten acres that have been seeded eighteen or twenty years. It was sown with prairie grass, which is long since extant, and the clover still flourishes, the ground has never been broken, and it has often been remarked that my pastures will sustain more stock than any pasture of its size in the neighbrhood. It also makes good hay for sheep. I mix white clover seed and sow for meadow; it sods over better and yields all of one-third more per acre, and makes much better hay for sheep. I wintered sixty-five sheep on hay thus mixed without feeding any giain, and lost none after winter set in, and none are poor and weak .-My lambs have need of but little care, their ms all being in good condition. The above sheep kept better than flocks in the vicinity that have had hay and grain without white clover .- Wisconsin Farmer.

says: "The value of fish, and in particular the hard and sweet varieties of flesh, such as in trout and shad, is of great importance, for it furnishes in the phosphorus the elements of brain-food, and becomes an absolute necessity in the advanced intellectual development of our people. The truth is and it is only appreciated, that social and intellectual progress are based upon varied and abundant supplies of food; and it may be stated as a law, that there never will be any high civilization where the diet of a people is limited to a few kinds of staple food, no matter how favorable these may be for establishing what is called a condition free from disease. From this it is evident that the rice diet of the people of tained in the acrid food of the people of the tropics, will not permit any of these nations to rise above the barbaric,"

To purify a room, set a pitcher of water in the appartment and in a few hours it will have absorbed all the respired gases in the room, the air of which will become purer, but the water utterly filthy. The colder the water is the greater the capacity to contain these gases. At ordinary temperature a pail of water will absorb a pint of HARDWARE carbonic acid eas and several nints of carbonic acid gas and several pints of ammonia. The capacity is nearly doubled by reducing the water to the temperature of ice. Hence, water kapt in a room awhile stock consists in part of the st is always unfit for use. For the same reason the water from a pump should always be pumped out in the morning before any of it is used. Impure water is more injuri-

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything woo so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of year, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for inciplent consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision sgainst sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this untitle to them.

Although sottled Consumptic n is thought incirable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed at the disease exemed at the disease exemed. still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed at tited, have been completely curred, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pecforal. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obtained of thom, under the Cherry Pecforal they subside and disappear. HAIR The Great Desideratum of the Age A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, an effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair s soon restored to its friginal soler and the gloss and restness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its also. Nothing can restore the hair where BOOTS AND SHOES the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for useful ness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent aldness. Bree from those deleterious substance which make some preparations dangerous and injuriens to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but no harm it. If wanted merely for a
