New York, is one of the attractions of that RABER, of Reading, Vice Presidents; and N. DURBORAW, of Mountjoy, and John city. Mr. Hembold has built up an enormous trade and amessed a large fortune, which mables him, at fashionable watering places, to commete with the millionaries of the country. His success in business illustrates in a marked degree, the benefits of liberal and systematic advertising. He started in life eighteen years ago with a cash capital of but $2,000. He had the foresight and shrewdness to see that publicity was essential to success, and his first step was to invest all his surplus money in advertising. More than this, he had the pluck and persistency to follow up this idea, regarding judicious ad vertising as the best investment he could make; and to-day he expends probably five times $2,000 every week in advising the public of what he has to sell. That has been the key-note to the unparalled triumph by which his exertions have been crowned. It is said that he advertises in more than half the newspapers in the United States, paying liberal prices too. In one instance he offered the New York Herald $5,000 for a single page of that paper. Mr. Hembold knows the value of advertising-that every dollar thus expended brings a rich return—and hence he keeps at it; not fitfully, but regularly and systematically. And yet, with such facts before them. some business men hesitate to expend a few dollars in advertising their goods and wares, and then wonder that they have but few thirty years. Wherever they have entered the sick or omplaining household, their effects have even exceeded expectation, and so far surpassed all we have ever claimed for them by circular, card, or otherwise, that the public confidence in the medical qualities of the Bitters is unbounded. We do not fear the competition of the empirical throng who attempt to palm off remedies upon the people, which are not scientifially compounded, and are destitute of available qualities. Their empiricism will be discovered in the end, and the inefficiency of their preparations found out. We Rev. D. M.
