BY J. S. GITT. I wish I were a little child. As gay, as giad, as free, As happy, careless and as wild, As once I used to be!

Oh, then I loved the glowing skies, The green and vine-clad bowers-I loved to chase the butterflies All day among the flowers. I loved to wade the noisy stream

I loved to hear the merry wren. Upon my window-sill. Each morn pour forth its lay again-I love to hear it still!

And sit upon the porch and watch Its glittering hues for hours. The tiny feather on its wing Was beautiful to me-I loved to hear the flutterer sing

MAKE YOUR HOMES PLEASANT. Endeavor to make your homes both attractive and comfortable. Don't be so aborbed in business or so miserly as to forget home comforts. Home should be made the most attractive place on earth, for both parents and children; then if their hearts are right, they will not desert it for enjoyment in forbidden places. Endeavor to make everything handy, convenient and in good taste. Procure home comforts for yourself and family. Don't be afraid of a little amusement and recreation at home. Young people must have it, older people need it .-
