The action of the canvassers, in thus ignoring the popular will and invalidating an election pronounced by all parties to have been conducted with marked fairness, of course produced much exitement in Richmond, and shows the imperative necessity for the stringent anactment recently passed by Congress, to protect the rights of citizens and prevent frauds in elections. Even the Bichmond Whig (Democratic) denounces the act of the canvassers as one which ought to be "universally repudiated." and says the certificate issued by them ''is not worth the paper it is written on." But that matters little. It was necessary that the Bebel Capital should be controlled by Democrats, and we presume Ellyson and his colleagues will not hesitate to avail themselves of these fraudulent certifi-
