The Bucks County Post says: Notwithstanding the extreme scarcity of hands in this region, the harvest work has progressed rapidly. In this neighborhood Miss Watson, a delicate young lady of sixteen summers, with a span of horses, has cut twenty-five acres of wheat and forty acres of grass, and and will cut as many acres of oats in a few days the present week. It is a great triumph for human skill in the perfection of labor-saving implements. At this date Miss Watson can cut more lodged and tangled wheat with her span of horses and reaper in one day than your correspondent could have done in ten days forty years ago with a sickle, and who was then in the vigor of youth, and among the swiftest to wield that old-time implement. The goodness of God is manifested in the progress of improvements to lessen labor and toil of the farmer, for without labor-saving implements the present crops could not be gathered.
