In a convenient and readable form it exhibits the inducements offered by Minnesota to persons seeking new homes, and includes official statistics illustrative of the marvellous growth and development of that young, vigorous and healthy state. Other publications to attract Immigrants usually deal in indiscriminate puffery and grossly exagerated statements. This gives a candid exhibit of facts, derived chiefly from the Mate Bureau of Statistics, and otherwise supported by scientific and disinferested restimony of the meal incontestible character.

After a short geographical and historical sketch, showing the central position of the state and the events of its young instory, follows a description of its beauty and fertility from the testimony of high military and iterary anthorifies; an exhibit of infineral resources; a description of its beauty and iterary anthorifies; an exhibit of infineral resources; a description of its beautiful lakes, rivers, timber, game and fish; a dissertation on the climate, ilinstrating its marvellous healthfulness and adaptability to agriculture; shows how the cultivated area grew from 1.90 acres in 180 to 1.600,000 acres in 180, with 3 surpuls of 14,000,000 bushels of wheat for export; gives tables of comparison, proving officially that Minnesota excels lowa and Olio in her average product of wheat, and all other, staples, except corn; shows a more ample and effectful water power than all New England, and that, while not a title of this power is yet used, the extent and value of manufactures have increased 215 per cent, in nine years. 8-Adm'r. of Geo.
