Political.

From the Pennsylvania Democrat.

Consume Insolvency.

The Black Republicans of Pennsylvania have entered upon the present political campaign in the State with more than their accustomed impudence and boldness. They present a ticket containing the names of two of the most rabid Know Nothings in the country—Laporte and Phelps—and then with mock solemnity, ask the German naturalized citizens to give it their support. If this were done as a mere matter of fact, it would be a subject of merriment; but when the attempt is made to deceive the Germans, by introducing Know Nothings to their consideration, the thing assumes the character of an insult, which should be properly resented. Do the Black Republicans suppose, that we have forgotten the nefarious designs of the Secret Lodges? They must think that we have laid aside the ordinary impulses of human nature, or become totally oblivious of the injuries inflicted in secret upon naturalized citizens. We have a reasonable quantity of the milk of human kindness in our composition; but we should despise ourselves, were we so forgetful of the interests of our country and race, as to support the most proscriptive Know Nothings, under the guise of Republicans, or in any other fictitious character. Forgiveness is a very commendable virtue, and should be practiced whenever it can be done with safety to the individuals aggrieved, or the Nation. The viper that once inflicts a deadly sting upon the passenger, is never taken into his embrace or admitted to his companionship. Know Nothingism would have entirely destroyed the equality between our citizens, had it long remained in power. It has already alienated the affections of the native born from the naturalized, and is just as malignant in its designs as when it was first belied from the nostrils of Plato.

Who does not recollect with what pride and insolence the members of the Secret Order asserted, that naturalized citizens had no right to the same social distinction as themselves? Nor had they a right to the property which they acquired by their industry and economy. No—a new sort of Americanism was to be established. Naturalized citizens, under the doctrines of the Know Nothing Lodges, were to be nominally free, but virtually they would have been worse than slaves. The privilege to labor in this country was not denied them; but they could not enjoy the fruits of their industry. That belonged to the Natives who were to be seated on the highest seats in the political Synagogue, and possess all the places at the feast. The naturalized citizens might smell the flavor of the dishes, but were wholly interdicted from tasting the viands they contained. And yet these proscriptive knaves,—who desired to control the consciences of men—now have the unparalleled effrontery to ask naturalized citizens to support their candidates,—Laporte and Phelps,—who went through every degree of their infamous organization, and even now are at the head of the Order. It may be, that we may have mistaken German character and spirit; but if we understand the promptings of every manly nature, no matter in what clime it was educated, we must here assert, that it would be debasing to all the nobler instincts of humanity, for Germans to give the slightest encouragement to a secret political party, whose most violent efforts were made to enslave them both body and soul.

Why the Know Nothings should make such vigorous efforts to obtain the German vote for their candidates,—Laporte and Phelps—we are somewhat baffled to discover. We pride ourselves in our manhood and intelligence, and are quick to resent a studied insult or unwarrantable wrong. Our German sensibilities are aroused at injury as quick as men of other nationalities, and yet we are pertinaciously insulted daily, by appeals in behalf of candidates, who have never ceased their efforts to degrade us in the social scale, by putting us under the ban of inferiority. The Constitution of the country has made us equals, and the laws protect us in this equality, and bow our necks to the footstep of the oppressor? If such degradation is to come upon the Germans, it shall not be by our connivance. We therefore spurn the Know Nothing candidates—Laporte and Phelps—as abominations fraught with a moral and political pestilence.

And now the Battle is to Commence.

"The glorious old banner that Jefferson first raised," says the Boston Post, "and floated over the great heart of Jackson, is once more unfurled! On it is inscribed the names of Buchanan and Breckinridge, both of great intellectual power and of lofty personal character; both statesmen in the true sense of the word, and of comprehensive views; and both worthy to fill and adorn the high places of the republic. Such are the standard-bearers of the Democratic flag! Hang it on the outer wall of each Democratic citadel! Let Democrats, one and all, rally under its glorious folds, and close up in solid phalanx for the fight. Let not the error be committed of underrating our enemy. The sectionalism that would divide our country, and the Know Nothingism that would make our country not worth dividing, will array themselves in a formidable host. It will be as unscrupulous as it is dangerous. It will malign our candidates; it will traduce our cause. Let every Democrat lead a deaf ear to calumny, and a willing hand to defend their cause. There is something significant in the present condition of the country, in the location of the candidate for the executive chair. We have had Presidents from Virginia and from Massachusetts, from the South, from Ohio, from the Granite State, and from commercial New York. But on their elections there was no geographical division of parties as is now proposed. It is significant that in such a crisis as exists, the noble middle State of Pennsylvania should supply the President. She will send forth her great statesman with the olive branch to the North and to the South; and thus the State that has so long been the keystone of the Democratic arch will now be the keystone of the Union."

This Way Ladies!

We find the following advertisement in a Tennessee paper, and, for the benefit of our lady readers, give it a place in the Globe: HEARKEN! O YE PEOPLE. HARRIS' Patent Elastic, Self-Adjusting Everlasting, Self-Repairing, Never-Fading, Scintillating Hoops! First premium at the Stomp Creek Worlds Fair in 1856!!! Warranted not to cut in the eye!!! These wonderful hoops now in universal vogue, are vastly superior to the obsolete whalebone hoops which they have totally displaced from the beau monde. Made of the very best white oak and hickory timber by a secret electrical process known only to the inventor, they are warranted never to fail and ever to delight their possessors. As a refrigerating apparatus they are unequalled; and with a vigorous antipodal application of the fan, must have the effect of keeping the whole corporeal machine in the most comfortable equanimity of temperature. Being perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING, they accommodate themselves to any change of form possible in the nature of things, and hence have acquired in Paris and London, the designation of INSCRUTABLE. They are a perfect protection against public or private curiosity, and are a complete antidote to scandal and gossip. As a defence against rude and unexpected attacks to which ladies unprotected are liable, its appointments are perfect, and insure to its possessor the most entire safety. When a little worn they can be sold to cooper's at full half price, to be made up into common salt and flour barrels.

Grand Depot on Gay Street at Ballou & Co's. New Store, only agents of the inventor. All others are spurious. LOOK OUT FOR COUNTERFEITS!

How to GET A WIFE WITH A FORTUNE.—"Jacques Bonhomme," a Paris correspondent, relates the following anecdote, which he locates in that city:—

"A young man of fine family, though impoverished by the revolution, aspired to the post under government, to occupy which it was necessary to furnish a certain sum to deposit as security. Our hero could not obtain the requisite amount from his friends, and, at last, hit upon an expedient to put an end to the difficulty. He caused an advertisement to appear in one of the journals, as follows:—

"A young man, occupying an honorable position, wishes to marry a lady well brought up, and possessed of two hundred and fifty francs."

"Two hundred and fifty francs are but fifty dollars, and, as there are many women in the world who would be glad to purchase a young, handsome, and honorably connected husband, on such moderate terms, it was quite natural that the advertiser, in the course of the three days during which his notice appeared in the public, should have received many letters and applications. The young man addressed a note to each of the applicants, appointing a place and hour when he would meet them together, and politely inviting all to come and look at him. On the evening indicated, they came, and, it is said, the company numbered full two hundred women.

"When all had assembled, the young man 'organized the meeting,' and made a speech, in which he thanked those ladies for the honor they proposed conferring upon him. 'But,' said the self-possessed young gentleman, 'you must understand, ladies, perfectly well, that I cannot marry you all, moreover you are all so charming (many of them were horrible witches), "it would be utterly impossible for me to choose amongst such lovely creatures. This, then, is my proposition:—Consider me as an object put up at lottery. You number two hundred; make two hundred tickets at two hundred and fifty francs each, and the gross sum realized shall be the fortune of the lady who draws the lucky number, and whom I pledge myself to marry immediately."

"They hesitated a moment, but the youth was good looking, and the ladies were anxious to marry. One of them determined to accept the proposition, and the rest followed after, like a flock of sheep. As if to reward our venturesome friend for his courage, his fortunate stars directed that he should fall to the lot of a youthful and pretty girl, whose greatest fault is an unhappy passion for practicing on the piano. True to his word, the young man married her, and at last accounts, the couple thus strangely brought together were passing a pleasant honeymoon."

THE DISUNIONISTS.—The black republicans find their work of disunion flagging. The fires of patriotism still burn so brightly, the memories of the past are so dearly cherished, the blessings of the present are so truly prized, and the hopes of the future so highly appreciated, by the great body of the American people, that one by one the hopes of the disunionists fade away, their illusions of success vanish, and the unwelcome truth that they will prove to be the worst beaten party that ever pretended to succeed in a presidential contest stares them boldly in the face.—They may purchase rotten newspapers by the score, bribe venal editors, and, persuading Greeley to cease calling the Herald a "satanic" press, and Bennett to desist from pronouncing Greeley and his flock "nigger-whippers," induce them both to refrain from talking the truth of each other for the purpose of devoting all their energies to retailing falsehoods for Fremont, but all in vain. Their position is understood.—Evening Argus.

A correspondent writing from Jersey Shore to the Pennsylvaniaian, thus concludes his letter:—

"The cause of Democracy is progressing here, new accessions to the ranks are made every day. Since it has leaked out that Fillmore will not be voted for in November, and his friends sold by their leaders for wool, and Mary Poy's gold, hundreds of old line Whigs are coming over. The work goes bravely on."

"No sir! Mr. Smith you said you once officiated in a pulpit; do you mean that you preached?"

"No sir; I held the light for the man that did."

"Ah! the court understood you differently. They supposed that the discourse came from you."

"No sir! I only threw a little light up on it."

"No levity, Mr. Smith. Crier wipe your nose, and call the next witness."

An exchange paper has christened the supporters of the "wooly horse" candidate, the Free-monsters! This is a very appropriate name.
