THE HUNTINGDON GLOBE, A DEMOCRATIC FAMILY JOURNAL, DEVOTED TO LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS, &C.

Mrs. Henry W. Miller, all had very good can-dles on exhibition.

Best hard soap, to Martha Anderson, 1 00 Second best, from Poor House, 50 Mrs. Jno. Read's and Mrs. Shoemaker's soap, were also very superior. Best flamel, to Jos. R. Curfman, 200 It was the only specimen exhibited; except that in the very fine display of articles from the woollen factory of William Curry; many of which are not in our list at all, and therefore, we did not place them in competition with household manufactory; but turn them all over to the committee on discretionary premiums.

Best quilt, to Mrs. E. Stewart, 2 00

Second best, to Mrs. Martin, 2 00 A quilt by Mrs. Jane M. Love, attracted attention by its fine work. A knit skirt, by Miss Nancy Nelson, and a knit uilt, by Mrs. Benedict, in her 84th year, deserve special notice, and a very good quilt was exhibited by Miss Mary Jane Hearn.

Best carpet, to Mrs. Jno. Read,

Second best, to Mrs. Sarah Thomas, 1 00 We did not place Mr. Curry's carpet in competition with these; it was a much finer article than any other exhibited, and de-serves, as do all his manufactures, the attention of the discretionary committee.

Best silk embroidery, to Lucy C. Hell, 1 00 Best ornamental needle-work, to Miss Esther Orr, 1 00

Second best, to Mrs. E. Miller,

There was a large number of specimens of needle-work, to which our attention was at-tracted, and we would be glad if the list of premiums authorized us to bestow more: among the many we deem worthy of notice, among the many we deem worthy of notice, collar and ottoman covers, by Mrs. Anna Massey, ottoman covers, by Mary Vanzandt and Julia Glazier; a covered chair, by Fanny Neff, another of worsted work, by Mary J. Scott, collars, by Nannie Whittaker, by Mrs. E. C. Wilson, toilot cover, by Mrs. Massey, lamp mat, by Mollie Hall.

We commend to special notice, a collar of linen thread, manufactured in all its process, from the flax, by Margaret Anderson, also a table cover, in worsted, by Mrs. Mary A. Brown, and think they deserve premiums. Best shell work, to Mrs. E. C. Wilson, 1 00

Second best, to Mrs. A. E. Massey, 50 Best wool socks, to Poor House, 50

We noticed, with pleasure, the display of paintings, and, although they are not em-braced in the subjects enumerated for our inspection, yet, as we do not see them upon any list, we cannot forbear expressing our commendation of them; a large oil painting of the "death of Hannibal," by J. G. Chaplin, and a winter scene in oil, and harvest scene, by Miss Martha Wilson, deserve special no-tice from the discretionary committee; and there are others, by Miss Bigelow, Miss Ben-edict, Miss Read, Mrs. Blair, and Miss Hil-debrand, which were very good debrand, which were very good.

We cannot here enumerate all the articles that would properly come under the class of domestic manufactures as allotted to us, but we saw specimens of fancy work, home-made linen, bread baskets, &o., &c., which have no premiums allotted to, them, and we feel that to do justice to the exhibitors, the Discretion-ary Committee should have their attention called to them. We would also suggest that the labors of the Judges of Domestic Manufactures, might be much more satisfactorily performed, if, hereafter, a division were made of the subjects assigned to them for examination. Under the present arrangement, it requires a full day, and even then the committee found it impossible to examine articles which came in after ten o'clock of Wednesday. This will account for such not being noticed in our report.
