WE ACCEPT THE OFFER.—The editors of the Huntingdon Journal offer to wager $500 against $200 that neither of them ever voted illegally-and $500 against $200 that all they have said relative to the "mail" business is the solid truth. We accept both offers, with the understanding that the "Family Record" published in the Huntingdon Journal in June 1855 was correct so far as it gave the date when Samuel G. Whittaker came into the world. We make this provision in accepting the first offer, because it may be possible that the "Record" has since been slightly altered, or that the "Record" as published was false. Samuel could do either without disturbing his conscience in the least. Name your jury-but remember they are to be of better character than either of you-and we will place $400 in their hands. GAVE GENERAL SATISFACTION .- Snare's Prize Concert. J. P. Anderson took the highest prize.

The article in the last Huntingdon Journal relative to the recent action of the Presbyterian congregation, is replete with misrepresentation, falsehood, and injustice.-The editors stigmatize as a "bold and malignant misrepro sentation" the statement of the Trustees of the Church, and say that they were requested to do so!!

The item which appeared in our paper a few weeks since relative to the matter was given as an item of news, and not as they insinuate, futended to cast reflections, &c. It was written by ourself, but the malignancy of the drivelling wretch who wrote the article in the Journal led him to ascribe its authorship to a person who had nothing whatever to do with it. Consequently their contemptible abuse will recoil upon their own heads.

The article in the Journal is condemned by the Trustees and every high-minded honorable man in the congregation who is acquainted with the facts.

Our respect for the Pastor and the congregation, forbids our exposing the hypocritical professions of friendship by Brewster and Whittaker for both.

Affairs at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20th.—Mr. Simonton, the correspondent of the New York Times, was re-called to-day before the corruption investigating committee, and was informed that the Committee had come to the unanimous determination to insist on his answering the question, in substance: "You have admitted that members of Congress have approached you confidentially with the request that you procure them pecuniary interests in measures pending before the House. We ask you to give the names of such members." After some suggestions by the Committee to the witness, as to the extent of its duties and powers in such cases, Mr. Simonton answered substantially, "I do not here dispute the powers of the Committee. I have not declined to answer the question on that ground. I have all due respect for the House and the

My refusal is not based upon a desire to screen individual members, nor can it be supposed that an answer to the question would reflect discredit upon me. I have declined on a principle. I have read, in deference to the wishes of the Committee, the case of Auderson against Dunn, and after full deliberation as to what I ought to do, in view of that case, and from other considerations, have come to the determination that I must persist in declining to answer, no matter what the penalty I may incur, because to do so, would involve dishonorable breach of confidence." The President, in response to a resolution of the Senate, to-day transmitted a volumnious correspondence relative to the Venezuelian Government driving certain American citizens from the Aves Guano Islands. Mr. Marcy, in a letter to the American resident minister at Caraccas, dated present month, urges him to the settlement of this subject on the Government of Venezuela, saying it is no defence for the spoliation of our citizens of their property, their forcible expulsion, and their heavy losses, to say that the island belongs to some other nation than Venezuela, and that there are facts abundantly sustained by evidence, of the gross outrage upon the persons and property of our citizens, and of the heavy losses thereupon consequent.

Fashion in New York.

The Albany Atlas has a chatty female New York correspondent, "Grace" by name. In her last letter she talks in this wise:

In spite of high winds, cold weather, sloppy walking, and vindictive editorial remarks. hoops, crinoline and trains hold their sway. It is enough to cause many an economical heart ache to watch the progress to ruin of the rich moire antiques which start in pristine purity and gloss from Union Square, to literally sweep Broadway. If Eugenie were to be subjected for twenty four hours to inconveniences which her followers here bear so patiently, she would at once crush the trade in stiff skirts.

Brown is the color; the dress a shade lighter than the Fischer Russe cap and muff. Double skirts supercede flounces for the promenade, the edge of the upper skirt extends to the knee, and both are trimmed with blush, or an imitation of chinchilla fur, woven in with the material of the dress.

TEXAS AND ARKANSAS.—The emigration to these States from the older slave States is re- of the north track of the railroad. From the markably large, and seems constantly on the marks of blood on the cross ties and the apincrease. A recent number of the Memphis | pearance of the ballast it is evident that the Bulletin says: "We have never before observed so large a number of emigrants going westward as are crossing the river at this point daily, the two ferry boats (sometimes three) going erowded from early morn until the boats cease making their trips at night. It is no uncommon sight to see from twenty to forty wagons encamped on the bluff for the night, notwithstanding there has been a steady stream going across the river all day; and yet the cry is still they come. This emigration is from the older States, mostly Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and this State, all going to settle in Arkansas and Texas. Judging from these indications, the influx of population into these States will be larger this season than ever before, and of good substantial citizens."

Dr. Landerer, a medical man at Athens, announces that he has discovered a sovereign specific against sea-sickness. His remedy is to give from ten to twelve drops of chloroform in water. The chloroform, in most cases, removes nausea, and persons who have taken the remedy soon become able to stand up and get accustomed to the movement of the vessel. Should the sickness return, a fresh dose is to be taken.

For myself, to rot in one common earth, or to be burnt in ashes, and wait for another asking. We, as a general | sealed in an urn decorated with a label, anthing, are not in the habit of dunning, but nouncing my name, place of birth, qualities, etc., etc., etc.—these two alternatives seem to me equally devoid of charm, and plunge me into melancholy. For the present I bequeath the subject to my heirs. But another plan is proposed for disposing of the dead-a plan which is cleaner, more elegant and more chemical. By means of a hideous paraphernalia of crucibles, alembics, exhausters and poisons, the body is susceptiin a business way, and hope to be seconded | ble of being reduced to an indefinitely small solid substance, of which a ring may be made in variagated colors to wear around the finger. The disconsolate wife or husband, can thus preserve the souvenir of a dear departed partner to the end of their lives; and if the burden of their grief should push them to a desire to join the lost one, they would have but to crush the ring and swallow its pieces in order to accomplish a hasty and sure suicide. This mourning by chemistry, this petrifaction by death, has something so fantastic about it that one cannot avoid a certain titillation of curiosity in talking of it. It would be a conservation of relics by com> pression. A widow might have her husband mounted in the frame of a bracelet, which would recall to her the hymenial chain. A husband might mount his wife in a pin, which would be piquant. For the academicians an appropriate human conservation would be a garniture of coat buttons.

> There is still another process, which I only mention for the benefit of future historians. An eccentric Frenchman who filled, a few years ago, the functions of a dragoman at one of the large cities of the Orient, conceived the ferocious idea of making, of the venerated skin of his wife an article of wearing apparel, which I should name in Latin if I knew what the Romans called breeches.-But the process is savage. This species of sentimental tannery would have the air of irenical reprisals.

> THE MURDER OF YOUNG NORCROSS .- The last number of the Altoona Tribune contains full particulars of the late horrible tragedy near that place. We have already given the main features of the affair, but the following medical testimony, as elicited by the Coroner's jury, will be read with interest:

Dr. J. A. Landis, sworn-Have made a post mortem examination of the body of deceased; found a wound in his throat about 43 inches in length; there were no large or important blood vessels injured by this wound; the larynx or upper part of the windpipe was exposed but not cut; this wound was evidently produced by a sharp cutting instrument; ound another wound upon the right side of the jaw above the chin; this is a ragged and contused wound, producing a complete fracture of the lower jaw; another wound was found upon the right side of the face, commencing at the external angle of the eye, extending over the cheek 23 inches in length, producing a very extensive fracture of the all wound was found on the posterior part of the head to the right side, merely dividing the scalp without producing any fracture; a small wound was observed upon the bridge of the nose, producing an external and internal fracture of all the bones of the nose; there are some bruises and contusions of the skin about the lower extremities, which of themselves are of no importance. [The club found by the body, was here shown to the witness.] He stated that all the wounds except the one on the throat could have been produced by it; the wound on the side of the face was sufficient to have caused death: no fall could have produced such a variety of wounds; from a fall it is evident that the face would have been more bruised, while the wounds show that they have been made by a clean stroke.

Dr. D. S. Hays testified mainly as above. From the testimony it appears that Norcross was found about seven o'clock on Friday morning, in a ditch, a few miles from Altoona. He was on his hands and knees, and still living. He tried to speak, but nobody heard any words, except one witness, who understood him to say, "My God." He was placed on a locomotive, and taken to most certain to cure your feet entirely.—Extown, where he died in a short time. The Tribune says: "A light snow having fallen on Friday night, rendered it somewhat difficult for the jury to discover all the marks of blood which had been found on the day previous. After a little search, however, the place where the man had evidently first been knocked down and his throat cut, and where the razor was picked up on the day previous, was found by a quantity of blood on the end of a cross tie man was dragged from the north track across to the south track, and thence down the inside of the track some fifty-five feet, to the place where he was found in the ditch. Havjury started back to town. One of the jurymen having carried the club which was found near the body, on the morning previous, search was made along the way for wood that would correspond, (mountain beach) and singular as it may appear, a stick was pulled out of a pile of cord-word, about half a mile below where the man was found, which corresponded with the one carried by the juryman, in every particular. This although a slight circumstance in itself, convinced the jury that the person or persons had gone up

ARRIVAL OF THE JAMES ADGER. New York, Jan. 24.—The James Adger left San Juan on the 13th and put into Key West. She was detained there 32 hours. The purser reports that the cholera has disappeared from the Isthmus. There was but ittle sickness and no deaths on the Adger.

The sloop of war Cyane is at Aspinwall. Walker is represented as being in a better condition, having 1,200 able bodied men at Rivas, well supported with ammunition and provisions. Col. Lochridge with 300 men was still waiting at Punta Arenas the completion of a steamer to be ready about the 17th. The Adger encountered great fields of ice on her homeward passage between 37 and 39: The passengers of the Adger give a gloomy account of Walker's situation.

The seizure of the Transit Route and steamboats by Spencer is confirmed.— Spencer states openly that he acted in behalf of Vanderbilt. No injury was offered the passengers of the captured boats, but they were escorted to Greytown where the steamer was boarded by an officer from a British man of War, who ordered the baggage of the men to be put off immediately. Spencer kept the American flag flying from his steamer, although he made captures in the name of Costa Rica.

President Mora, President of the Costa Rican government, had issued a proclamation granting a pardon to Walker's men and a free passage back to the United States .-Many of Walker's men, both officers and privates, were descring. They all tell hard stories of their sufferings from hunger and sickness. Walker was still at Rivas with 600 men; another account says 1200. Spencer states that the Costa Ricans have 1500 troops posted along the route. They were also in strong force at Seraqui, and have guns posted on both shores.

The report that Gen. Henningsen had fought his way out of Granada and joined Walker is confirmed, as also a rumor that Gen. Chilton with a large body of men had pronounced for Walker at Leon. Walker, it is said, took Rivas without rifles, had advanced to Leon to occupy that GREAT SNOW STORM IN ENGLAND .- The moors of Yorkshire, have been visited for the past few days by one of the most severe storms of wind and snow experienced in that locality for a very long period. The storm set in on Christmas night, with a severe frost and a heavy downfall of snow. In the neighborhood of Skipton its effects are very disastrous, and they have been experienced with more or less severity throughout the whole of the Cravan district, by which the farmers have sustained serious losses. The high prevailing winds drove the snow like an avalanche before it, and the sheep had to be dug from drifts three and four yards in depth.-One farmer, who had nearly 500 sheep out, has scarcely recovered a tithe of them alive. On Coistone Moor, 30 sheep were taken out dead from one of the drifts; on Embsay Moor, 9 were found huddled together in a similar hole; on Gracoc Fell, a large number were either smothered in the snow drifts or frozen to death. Indeed, throughout the whole neighborhood, similar disastrous losses have been experienced by the farmers. The keen cheek bone, extending under the orbit of the frost has still continued at night, with partial eye and reaching to the base of the skull; a | thaws during the day.—London Times, Dec.

> A MAN SAWED IN PIECES.—We find the following paragraph in the Nebraska Advertiser of the 20th ult: "On Saturday, the 8th inst., a Mr. Smith suffered a most horrible death at Smithfield. in Woodbury county. He was engaged as a sawver in the new steam mill at that place, and whilst gigging back the carriage got his foot caught by the saw, which split his leg nearly the whole length before he could withdraw it, then by an unaccountable destiny his body fell across the log, before the saw and was severed in the middle, most horribly mutilating, in fact cutting the body into numerous pieces which were gathered and decently interred. The deceased left a wife and two children."

FROSTED FEET.—Heat a brick very hot and hold the feet over it as closely as it can be held without burning. Cut an onion in two, and dipping it repeatedly in salt, rub it over the foot. The juice of the onion will be dried into the foot, and effect a cure in a very short time. If this is done for a few times it is alchange, Ma At London, a few weeks since, a man was playing with a cat, when the animal seized one of his fingers with its teeth so tightly that he had great difficulty in shaking it off. At night he became unwell, and afterwards went into St. Bartholomew's Hospital, where the injured finger mortified, and he died.

Colored Emigration. The new colonization ship Mary Catharine Stevens, lately sailed from Baltimore and Norfolk, with over 200 emigrants for Liberia. A colored Pennsylvanian, named Thos. ing obtained all the information required the M. Chester, went in her as a cabin passenger. This young man emigrated to the African Republic several years ago, and returned only to avail himself of the generous offer made by a friend of Africa to furnish means for his collegiate education. Having availed himself of it he now goes back, prepared for increased usefulness, and with the intention of making Liberia his permanent home. It is strange that more of this class of our population do not give up their preference of poverty and degradation over freedom and independence and admitted nationality on their own continent.

COST OF CONGRESS.—The disbursements of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives, for the pay and mileage of members, amounted up to Saturday morning to $1,401,314, or over $100,000 per month for the assembling of the present Congress.

THE FANATIC.—The Rev. Theodore Parker sent the following sentiment to the Garrison

"The triumph of Freedom in America-Peaceably if we can, forcibly if we must." How this blatant moon-calf would howl and run were this question of "force" really

NEW BOOK FOR AGENTS. NEW BOOK FOR A GEN 1 B. THE LIFE and TIMES of ALENANDER HAMIL-

THE LIFE and TIMES of ALENANDER HAMILTON; by Sanuel M. Snucker, A. M., author of the Life and Reign of Nicholas I, of Russia, &c., &c.

This is the only complete and reliable biography of this great man. He was the intimate personal friends of the Indianal Reignal.

This work includes a history of the times and men of the Revolution, and many incidents not heretofore given in history. It has all the charms of romance, although prepared from the most reliable and authentic sources, and should be in the hands of every American who reveres the great and good men of our Revolution. A sketch of Burna is also given, and an account of his miserable end.

Agents wanted in every part of the United States, for this and other valuable works, to, whom the largest commissions will be paid. Copies sent by mail, on receipt of the price, $1.
