CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GLOBE.

HABRISBURG, April 20th, 1857.

DEAR GLOBE: Last Friday, being a fine bracing day, a fair friend and I did ourselves the pleasure of running out to Mechanicsburg, for a look at the valley scenery of Cumberland; in a most expansive view of which is located the boarding school of the author I. D. RUPP. From the observatory of this institution, the vision sweeps unobstructed over many a fertile acre, from the Blue to the South Mountain.

This school has merits which make it well worth a visit from those who have children to send from home. Both sexes are educated in common; and the healthful influence of such association in the recitation, music and dining rooms, and upon the play-ground, is manifest in the neat and orderly appearance of the pupils, their considerate bearing toward one another, and the light of cheerfulness which seems to pervade the atmosphere and impart a fresher life to each elastic movement.

On Saturday evening, we enjoyed a lecture on National Poetry by Captain G. W. CUTTER, author of the "Song of Steam." It was a triumphant vindication of the high and holy uses of song, by one who has felt in the musical throbbings of his own breast, the truth that

"God o'er all hearts

Hath set the Poet's heart on high."

One of our recent novelties, Miss Julia Pastrana, has been paying her respects to Juniataans-with her hairy chin and protruding gums "grinning ghastly a horrible smile" at you.

In Broadway, New York, I had passed the sign which announced this anthropological wonder, a hundred times with indifference; but, in Harrisburg, I felt and yielded to a desire to look in upon and compare this natural curiosity with memoranda of the dog-chub and your asinine cotemporary of the auricular development. And now I am satisfied that, whatever else she may be, Miss Julia has nothing of the Digger Indian in her composition ; therefore her printed story is apocryphal. She seems more nearly related to my Rocky Mountain fellow citizens, the grizzly bears. There certainly is something exceedingly bearish in her manner. But I take it that she is, after all, only an "ugly nigger;" and were not the Wilmot Convention of so late date, her parentage might readily be traced to the Know Nothing and Republican amalgamation. It has been said, there is no deformity of nature without its atoning glory; so of the Pastrana-she dances gracefully, in her style much resembling the celebrated Russian, Yrca Mathias. Her singing, however, is rather on the operatic peacock order. But doubtless, you have all seen and heard her by this time, who are a prodigious fuss, and carrying a star-spangled banner almost capacious enough to swamp her. This miniature representative of the genius of Fulton upon his native river, arrived under our old turnpike bridge, with a and shadows is this of ours! band of music on board, one evening of last week ; and the riverside was soon thronged with eager spectators. Since, it has been all the go; and it is rather pleasant to paddle about on this noisy little skiff, among the woody islets of the Susquehanna-or would be pleasant, were not the weather so dismal. It rains, and hails, and sleets, and snows alternately, and sometimes simultaneously. I am weary waiting, longing for the coming of the Spring; and if something is not done to promote the growth of vegetation towards June, it wouldn't be bad if the comet should give our old planet a cabin passage to some summer orbit. Yesterday was wintry enough to freeze up even the indignation of an injured dog-chub; and tc-day is worse and more of it. Yesterday was Sunday with us; and Professor Schaff, of the Mercersburg Theological Seminary, preached Dutch and English in the German Reformed church. His sermons were those of a thinker and progressionist.---Among our clerical celebrities may be reckoned Mr. Bartine, the eloquent new pastor of the Locust street Methodist church. The Catholic, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, Moravian and Lutheran pulpits are also well filled. Our oldtime friend, Davy Williams, preaches to the Baptist congregation ; and Mr. Colder, son-in-law of Rev. Winebrenner, is pastor of the "Church of God." Mr. C. has been a missionary to China; and enjoys the reputation of an orientalist. He is my master in Sanscrit—a study that must be gone through with preparatory to that Journey in Asia, which has been my dream of years, and upon which I am bound to go as soon as the Pennsylvania Magazine is well established-and that it will be well established, seems now about as certain as anything in the future can be; albeit the venture has been made with many misgivings.

For some weeks past, when the weather has permitted the wholesome exercise of walking, my footsteps have sometimes been directed to Mount Kalma Cemetery, and as often as I have gone there, I have stood with sorrowful heart by Willie's Grave. During the past season, Death has raised many mounds all over this beautiful burial-placethe sickle of the Gray-beard has indeed gathered an abundant harvest of hoary heads, budding infancy, and manhood and womanhood in the bright consummate flowering of life-but it seems to us that the grave has not closed over another so fair a head, or destiny so rich with promise, as that of "the little boy who died." But why repine, as we support one another's feeble steps on through the dim valley of this world, because anon some lovely spirit of our pilgrim band finds its wings and bursts into the fulness of an angel's life? I never ramble along the paths of a graveyard, but that my soul saddens, because of the necessity to war with perishing mensuch handfuls of dust as there lie mouldering beneath the tread of the living. Yet such are the obligations which the journalist owes to society, that he must needs wear the helm and shield of a true warrior's soul, and oftentimes couch the bearded lance of satire; but let him beware, lest in low humiliating contests with the narrow-minded, he be drawn into the lists of personal vindictiveof a noble nature. Across the fields, within a short walk from --where man's glorious intellect is tranced and shrouded in living forms. Charles Fenno Hoffman is an inmate of this institution -incurably mad. Good Goo! what a light went out from our mortal firmament when his soul's sight was blinded. When a little child, I have sat at the feet of this Gamaliel of literature; nor can I ever forget the exquisite pleasure with which, in my tenth year, I read and dwelt upon the graphic pictures of his "Winter in the West." They shaped my early dreamings of the wide wondrous Valley of the Mississippi, and became incorporate with all my aspirations for the free life of a wilderness adventurer. And here is who wrote those glowing words-an emaciate, stricken type of life-in-death .----Other masters of the harp and pen, whom my boyhood wildly loved, and almost worshipped-whose songs were the music that | ure indebted for the glorious triumph which lulled my reveries through many a lonely summer day-Bryant, and Longfellow, and Clarke, and Irving-these I have met eye to eye, and in the friendly grasp of hands have second year. He has represented faithfully | felt the recognition they accord to a younger brother in the great army of letters-one who has not hoped to win their starry chaplet; yet would humbly seek to make his life, like theirs, a record of the Useful and Good. There seems to have been a fatality attending most of those whose names mingle with my memories of the West. Aubrey and Williams have sunk beneath the bullet But there are very many gentlemen among | and the knife; brave comrades were they in | past scenes of wildest peril. And young Benton, the only son of the old Senator, who became my room-mate at college, when fresh session. Though personally, I see nothing from his first boyish journey over the Plains, very objectionable in Dr. W., except that he | with Fremont-whose frequent delineations won't "explain" when the Journal wants of those blooming landscapes made them familiar to my mind's eye before I traveled

Yours truly, MAX. GREENE.

MECHANICSBURG, April 19, 1857. DEAR GLOBE:-Writing a communication for the Globe, appears to me much like anwering the letter of a friend, as it comes regularly to hand, containing all the important news from home ; and I was nearly blundering into an error, in beginning this, by aying that I was in good health, except a bad tooth-ache, and hoped you were enjoying the same blessing. But, speaking of letters, reminds me that I have not received any lately. Perhaps my correspondents are not equainted with my whereabouts; and, as they are all readers of the Globe, I will here inform them, that the address of their quondam friend is, Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county; and that all letters will be gladly received, and duly responded to by your obsequious and humble servant.

Our school is fastly filling up. There are now between fifty and sixty students in attendance; so you see there are a great many of the same opinion as myself, that is, that the Cumberland Valley Institute is situated in one of the most pleasant places in the State; and, under its present management, the facilities for learning are not easily surpassed. The other morning, while "laboring" through" a noun of the third declension, which, like old yarn, contains a great many Blank Deeds, Mortgages, Judgment and Common Bonds, ends, I was agreeably surprised by the announcement of the arrival of my excellent friend, Max. GREENE, Esq. He looks well, and does not appear to be in the least frightened at the recent threats of the "chubs."---We spent the day pleasantly, of course. According to his custom of "seeing all that's to be seen," wherever he is, we went up on to the observatory of the Academy, to take a view of the surrounding country; and afterwards strolled out to the cemetery,

To view the place, where the monster Death, Brings great and small, by its blasting breath.

He expressed himself as highly pleased with our institution, and the appearance of the town, and promised, before he left, to favor us with an address, when he would visit us again.

We had a visit this week from one of your Sam and Sambo editors, in the capacity of a book agent. He appears to be quite contented in the pursuit of this business; and I have not the least doubt it is a good deal pleasanter than attempting to gull the Americans of Huntingdon county into the support of the Union. alias the Republican ticket. The citizens of Mechanicsburg are quite a progressive people. Their streets are now being laid with water pipes. They have built a reservoir, and brought water from a considerable distance, at a great expense, to supply the town with fresh water. It would not be a bad idea for the citizens of the "ancient borough" to follow suit. I had intended to give you a description of my room and its contents, in some of these rambling epistles, and would do so here, but feel more disposed to cover my ears with both hands and put out, as there is some one practising on a melodeon immediately over head. making a noise equal to sheet-iron thunder : and right across the hall, two boys making attempts to play on the violin, producing about as discordant music as forty cats in a dark night, so that writing any more at this ness, and forget to exercise the magnanimity time, is out of the question, but as this is not study hour, every one is privileged to amuse himself as he pleases, and I shall leave Mount Kalma, is the State Insane Asylum them to play for their own edification, and I will go out and join some of the students who are engaged in a game of ball.

Mr. Reed will accept the place to their great satisfaction. They have offered to give him full powers-he to act, in fact, in the place of the Government for the time being. He goes empowered to use the naval force for the protection of our interests, and to unite with other nations in attempts to procure for the commercial world, by peaceable means, enlarged commercial intercourse with China .---Moreover, he is allowed to choose any frigate or ship of war in our service, for his special use, not in conveying him to China, but for occasional residence while there. He will probably find it more safe and comfortable to ive on shipboard than on the land."

DIED.

At his residence, on Broad Top, Huntingdon county, Pa., on Sunday evening, 12th inst., after a short illness, Mr. EDWIN H. BRADLEY, aged 28 years, 4 months, and 12 days. Each day, some pearl drops from the jeweled thread of friendship; some lyre to which we have been wont to listen, is hushed forever. Each day the chills of death passes o'er some family circle, and blights and withers some object of the tenderest love. Yet such is life. Man is the crea ture of a moment; as it were, a flower which blooms only to decay.

In the death of Mr. Bradley, a large circle of relatives and friends are called to mourn the loss of one who had won the esteem and love of all who knew him. We who knew him and mourn his loss most, enter deeply into the feeling that he is safely sheltered in the arms of his Savior.

We will breathe a silent prayer, And lift our streaming eyes to heaven, For we know his Spirit's there.

better able to decide upon her qualities than I. As to that addition to the show which was spoken of in your last number, I suggested as much to the keeper when here, that no modern menagerie could be considered complete without it; and through your intervention it is trusted that the negotiation for the quadruped will prove entirely successful.-Should its "worthy friend" be caught also, it would be a long dog's age before such a three would meet again in the same cage.-The like has not been witnessed since the days of Baalam even until now.

Our legislators on Capitol Hill are double teaming it of late-holding sessions from nine in the morning until one, from three to five in the afternoon, and from seven till ten at night. Not a little of strong talking has been done latterly on the question of the sale of the Main Line; members occasionally insinuating as hard things of each other as bellicose editors have been known to say-away from the Juniata, of course.

Apropos of legislators, some penster has been sketching them in the columns of the Pennsylvania Inquirer. As a specimen of how he does it, permit me to segregate from his portraiture of the Huntingdon representative :

"Among the members not yet mentioned in my sketches, is Dr. WINTRODE, of Huntingdon county. He is full six feet in height, and powerfully but symmetrically built. IIe is, I presume, thirty-five years of age. IIc has a large fine type of head and face. His hair is of a light hue, and his eye large and blue. He is one of the finest looking men in the House. Gentlemanly and kind in his deportment, yet he is withal somewhat quiet and reserved in his manner. Ilis step and bearing are firm, and indicate that he is a man of resolution-one who when he determines upon anything will be certain to carry it out-only gathering strength from opposition. When he speaks, which is seldom, without any pretensions to oratory, he explains himself clearly and well. This is his the interests and wishes of his constituents. He is in politics an American, and adheres strictly to his party."

Although the Doctor and your obedient are politically at loggerheads, we meet upon the common basis of a mutual appreciation of oysters and pretzel; and upon these occasions, I have found him urbane and companionable. the Democracy of Huntingdon, some one of whom we should be glad to welcome here instead, at the opening of the next Legislative him to.

Hon. Wm. B. Reed.

The President has conferred the important appointment of Minister to China, on the Hon. William B. Reed, of Philadelphia.-This is a high honor well deserved, and we are gratified that the eminent services rendered to the Democracy in the recent struggle for the Union and the Constitution, by the leaders of the Old Line Whig party, are duly appreciated by Mr. Buchanan. Mr. Reed as heretofore occupied a prominent position in the Whig party,—but when that party was broken up by the inroads of Know No-thingism and Black Republicanism, he, in common with many other true patriots of his party, rallied in their strength to save the Union from danger and destruction; and to their noble conduct, are we in a great meascrowned our efforts in the recent Presidential election. The Old Line Whigs, therefore, had strong claims upon Mr. Buchanan and the Democratic party, and that the President fully appreciates the obligations we are under to them, is clearly indicated by the tender of responsible foreign missions to Messrs. Clay and Reed.

The mission to China, especially at this particular crisis, is one of immense importance and responsibility. The President, we doubt not, has been peculiarly fortunate in his selection. Mr. Reed is a thoroughly educated and highly accomplished gentlemanof great firmness, sagacity and prudence .---The vast interests of our country and the honor of the nation will be safe in his hands, and we have no doubt that, as a Diplomatist, he will fully come up to the standard of either of his contemporaries.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Reed will accept the appointment thus kindly tendered him by the President, and that the whole country will have the benefit of his ripe judgment and eminent ability in that important Mis-

HURCH RASCALS.—SIX CENTS REWARD.—Left my board, (at which he has set with an air of self-importance, until his accounts amount to seventy-five dollars,) on Sunday, the 8th of February, be-tween the setting and rising of the sun, a certain animal in human shape, who calls himself MOSES NICKOLES, (he probably will assume another name,) described as follows,

Said Nickoles had on, when he left, a black cloth cap, black coat and pants, none of which were much the worse of wear, and were not paid for, black straight hair, thin black whiskers, (if he has not shaved them off.) deep black

This notice is not intended to have the scamp apprehen-ded, but to caution the public, and especially my brother Tradesmen, against the impostor. And to add insult to injury, I have every reason to be-lieve that the said Nickoles, influenced and decoyed from my employ, a young Irish boot maker, who also left in-debted to me some sixty dollars. Said Nickoles left san-dry other bills unsettled, among which is one of §5 or $10, due a poor negro woman for washing, which, of itself, is sufficient to brand the villian with infamy. He attached himself to the Church, to enable bim more fully to prac-tice his rascality upon the people here. He is a shoe ma-ker by trade, and works on women's work. So I bid you all beware of the black-hearted villian. DAVIS K. DUCK, Boot & Shoe Merchant, Wellington, Mo. April 22, 1857.
