Its legality is claimed, we believe, on the ground that the people have an independent with it something more than a sanction of the Topeka Constitution; it makes Kansas an independent nationality, like Mexico, and draws to itself all the property in the Territory. Of course, the assertion of such a right is an effort at revolution-a barren effort, to be sure, because the government, established under the Topeka Constitution, has never gone beyond a mere newspaper existence, and its executive is a wandering mountebank, who travels about the country loaded with titles but wholly bereft of the teast authority. The movement so far has been a sheer humbug. There is not a sane man in Kansas, and not an honest man in his freedom at a much less cost than even the whole Union, who attaches the least one-tenth of the expenses of the famous suit. weight to the movement or concedes to the His daughters, Eliza and Lizza, less consci-Topeka Governor and Legislature the small gentious about the matter, took advantage of est amount of authority. Perhaps it would be more accurate to justify their conduct under the general doctrines of liberty of speech; for they have done little else than speak, and that very absurdly and foolishly. 3. Granting the regularity of the Topeka Government—a concession that can hardly be made even for the sake of the argument -that proceeding at best, and this all must plainly see, was a mere snup judgment, which is unworthy of the least notice or credit. try telling who he is .-- St. Louis Paper. The idea of a thousand men forming a State Constitution for ten times their number, at this very day, and attempting to force their labors upon the people, is worthy only of Seventy Persons Killed or taken Prisonsuch abolition presumption and self-constituted wisdom and morality as we are taught to reprobate and hate as the very bane of our ulars of the recent massacre at Spirit Lake society. Even if the Topeka proceedings could be regarded as regular, they ought to be set aside as premature, and utterly unjust to the people of Kansas at the present time.

These points present the case, and leave us to consider what ought now to be done .---Meanwhile, there is a regular Territorial Government in Kansas-a Governor, Legislature, Judges, Secretary, Land and Indian systems. Emigration is rapidly filling the young State with bona fide inhabitants and citizens. The time approaches when, in obedience to settled principles, a State is to be organized and admitted into the Union .-The constituted authorities there have provided means for taking the Census, and for electing Delegates to a Convention, with a view of adopting a State Constitution. The aforesaid corporal's guard, composed it may be of the whole Topeka people, re-inforced by others of kindred sympathics, still urge that their snap-judgment has concluded the people, and that all are bound by the proceedings of the irresponsible town meetings which you sanction to the Topeka Constitution. The New York Tribune is foremost in urging that sham concern as the organic law of the people of Kansas, and it devotes about half its space to the enforcement of this idea. It advises the Free State men, which means all the Abolition emissaries. to with-hold their votes at the coming June election, and to fall back upon the Topeka humbug, as the Malakoff of Abolition strength in and out of Kansas. We remember nothing in American politics more absurdly ridiculous, or more absolutely unjust than this proceeding. A paper which professes friendship for the people, and sets up an almost arrogant claim to be their peculiar organ and defender, is thus engaged in the work of disfranchising ninetenths of the bona fide residents of Kansas, and under the captious plea that on a former occasion the tenth of their predecessors took the work of establishing their government into their own hands. Did folly ever go farther? Did presumption and injustice ever before so seek to enforce its own impotent behests upon any portion of the American people? The practical point in this whole matter is simply here: The people of Kansas, consulting equally their own rights and their own interests, now that they have the necessary members, will form for themselves a State Constitution. They are required to do so by every consideration of patriotism; and such consideration points to the necessity of administering to the Abolitionists a rebuke such as will hereafter satisfy them that they cannot be used as stool pigeons for such gamesters as Mr. GREELEY and Mr. WEED. —Daily Pennsylvanian.

ately gave the alarm. All the students, at the time had retired, excepting three or four, who were preparing their lessons for Monday, assisted by the Principal Prof. J. T. Stoddard. Prof. Stoddard, who was the first to reach the upper school room (which had been, that evening, as usual, occupied by the ladies as a study room) discovered that the under part of the roof of the centre building, and the book case, were on fire. Finding that it was impossible to extinguish the flames, he hastened to arouse the students from their slumbers, and to assist in rescuing them, with their property from the raging element .--manifested a self-possession seldom witnessed under such fearful circumstances; and put forth every possible effort to save their own and others' property. Through the united efforts of the teachers, citizens, and students, nearly all of the goods belonging to the pupils, and the greater part of the furniture of the buildings were saved.

The University was owned by the Principal, and was valued at $6000 or $7000. It cost much more. The insurance on them was $3000. Prof. Stoddard lost three or four hundred volumes of his private library, and some valuable MSS. on which there was no insurance. In his anxiety to see that every student was safely out of the buildings he visited every room; and thus neglected his own property; hence his greater loss. The origin of the fire is not definitely known; but is supposed to have taken in some way from the chimney.

The prospects of the Institution at the opening of this, its first term since it was owned by Prof. Stoddard, were very flattering, and all the inhabitants were delighted that the school had again opened under the supervision of its former Principal, feeling confident that its thoroughness and efficiency would again rival the best Institutions of a similar character in the State.

As an expression of the confidence reposed in him as a man, a scholar and a teacher of greatability, the citizens welcomed him again to their midst, on the 13th day of April, by giving him a "Public Dinner" which was presided over by the Hon. N. B. Eldred ; but their well' grounded hopes for the brilliant success of their long cherished Institution disappeared as the flames enveloped the University buildings. The people of the county are extremely anxious that the Institution should be rebuilt, and offer to render material aid to the Principal in its re-erection. We have reason to believe that still larger buildings made of brick, will soon be in process of erection. We are for the present comfortably accommodated in the Baptist church, which was kindly offered for our use. The interest manifested by the citizens of Bethany in the success of the school from its commencement;
