BROAD Tor, June 29, 1857. DEAR GLOBE: Unexpectedness would seem to be a considerable element in the make-up of yours truly. Line upon Line--Here and There a Little. | Sherman's Valley and Broad Top Rail-

This road, lying between the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on the south, and the Pennsylvania Central Railroad on the north, will make when constructed, one of the most direct and favorable routes known from New York city to Cincinnati, St. Louis and all other important points in the great West .--It will also bring Philadelphia into closer connection with western interests and create a vast amount of trade hitherto considered as visionary.

It commences at the mouth of Fishing creek, about six miles above this place, on the west side of the Susquehanna river, at which point it joins the Northern Central and Pennsylvania Central Railroads, and runs directly west, intercepting in its course a number of small towns, from each of which a large amount of freight and passengers will inevitably accrue.

The lumber business is also an important item, and will greatly increase the local traffic, as there are thousands of acres of beautiful timber, now completely valueless for want of a market; and the immense mineral wealth of the section through which it passes, the unparalleled advantages which it pos-sesses in water power, and the fact of it bringing the Broad Top coal fields thirty miles nearer market than any present or proposed route, leave us in no doubt as to the practibility of its speedy completion. The distance from Harrisburg to Broad Top, by way of Huntingdon, is one hundred and twenty seven miles, whilst, by the proposed route, it will only be ninety-nine miles. The entire length of the road from the mouth of Fishing creek to the Pittsburg and Connellsville Railroad at Bridgeport, would be about one hundred and forty-one miles, which, when completed, will form the connecting link between New York and Cincinnati, the whole distance being only seven hundred and eighteen miles. From New York to Cincinnati, by way of Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland and Columbus, the distance is nine hundred and twenty-two miles, thus actually saving by the construction of this road, two hundred and four miles.

It will be seen, from the comparative distances, that this road possesses superior advantages over any other route leading from Philadelphia or New York to the West; and the completion of the Ohio and Mississippi and other railroads, promise a large accession of both Southern and Western trade, which will undoubtedly prove of great benefit to the State.

The maximum grade east is 52 8-10 feet to the mile, and the estimated cost per mile, including rolling stock, motive power, &c., sufficient to do the business of the road the first year after opening, is $26,000, making the total cost for one hundred and fortyone miles $3,666,000. The amount of business the second year will no doubt require an increase of the rolling stock, motive power, &c., say $1500 per mile, making the aggregate cost of the whole road, when finshed, $3,877,560.—Patriot & Union.

Democratic Triumphs.

It is a cheering omen to find in our exchanges the accounts of democratic triumphs all over the country. Wherever an election has been held since the great and decisive battle in November, 1856, when black-republicanism and blacker know-nothingism were cheering news that democracy is upward and | zette. onward. Whether these elections are held in the old States, or in the far-off, but mighty

In Iowa, where but one short year ago the dark banner of black-republicanism waved in dismal triumph, and the enemies of true republicanism exulted with almost fiendish pleasure, the "sober second thought" of the people has brought back that young State to the democratic standard, and given an earnest to the world that the days of fanaticism, treason and folly are numbered in that noble State. In Minnesota, too, we find the democracy of that growing Territory covering themselves with imperishable glory, by their splendid majorities for the democratic candidates who are to be entrusted with the important duty of forming a constitution for a future democratic State.

In the older western States the same cheerng prospects are observable; and democratic triumph succeeds triumph, in quick succession, so as to make the heart of the patriot leap with joy, as he recounts the progress of great truths over error, right over might, and eason over frenzy and fierce fanaticism.

In the recent result in the Old Dominion, that Gibralter of democracy, the combined elements of opposition to our principles have met with a signal defeat. In Pennsylvania we find the pitiful spectacle exhibited daily, of an abortive attempt on the part of the scattered fragments of the once powerful, but treasonable band of midnight conspirators, yelept know-nothings, to galvanize the monster into life for another contest with the friends of law, order and right: but we see in the distance the handwriting on the wall, so plainly, that "he who runs may read" the fate that awaits those who are engaged in this effort to rule, or ruin, if they cannot rule. The democracy of Pennsylvania, at this moment stronger than they were a year ago, will seize with giant grasp the traitorous hosts of black-republicans, and the wasted hordes of know-nothings, and with, to complete their fate, and furnish another evidence to the world that on the genial soil of Pennsylvania no political heresy can and that when Pennsylvania swings from her democratic moorings, then indeed is the republic in danger. The result in October next, in Pennsylvania, will but add another to the record of splendid victories so often achieved by the indomitable democracy of the land of Penn.

"NOTHING TO WEAR."-A lady recently passed through Baltimore en route to Washington, expecting to spend two days at the capitol. In the rush of travel two trunks, containing her wardrobe, were missed, and as she held checks for them she was requested to forward a list of the articles they contained, when she astonished the company with a bill amounting to $1765, and the next day added $300 more. Fortunately the trunks were found with all their contents safe. The catalogue of contents numbered 108 pieces, valued as follows: jewelry, $771, skirts and dresses, $490, under clothes, $43, handkerchiefs. laces and collars, $170; opera cloak, furs and glass, $413; fans, parasols and flowers, $53: toilet articles, $44; gloves, $21; gaiters, $23. KILLED BY THE COMET.—The Trenton State Gazette says that a woman residing in Ocean county, N. J., was frightened to death last week, by the idea of the Comet! At night she saw the light from a large fire in the pines, and was immediately possessed with the idea that it was the comet, that the earth was on fire and about to be destroyed. Her alarm was so great that she was thrown into convulsions, from the effects of which she died the same night.

The new tariff will go into operation on the 1st of July next, and as it reduces the imposts on nearly every article of import, it is expected that many of these articles will be reduced in price. The duties on imported liquors will be reduced from 100 to per cent., and the bonded ware-houses in New York are said to be so full that no more cargoes can be admitted till after the 1st.

A FITTING MONUMENT TO FRANKLIN .-The tomb of Franklin-if a plain flag-stone even with the earth can be so called—is concealed from public view by a venerable brick wall at the corner of Fifth and Mulberry streets, Philadelphia. The remains of the lightning philosopher are deposited there, in the old burial ground belonging to Christ Church. An appropriate monument has been accidently reared above them, in the shape of a telegraph post, and the lightning is at constant play over, if not under, the eye of the man who first chained it to the earth.

Poisoning From an Apple Butter Crock. -It has recently come to light that the long illness of Mrs. Joseph Alexander, from which she has just recovered, was caused by some apple butter, received from a friend in the country, which had been poisoned by the glazing of the crock. Mr. Alexander and some other members of his family were also affected, though not so seriously, and still feel the effects of it in a general prostration of the system. The glazing in crocks is well known to be of a poisonous nature, but is only injurious when loosened by the heated apple butrouted by the democratic legions, we have the ter and mixed with it .- Lewistown Ga-

Two of the children are still lying in a precarious condiion. The slaves are in jail.

> LOOK OUT YE GIRLS AND BOYS!-A case of breach of promise of marriage has recently been tried at Rochester, N. Y., (a great place by the way for novelties,) in which the following is given as the substance of the Judge's charge to the jury:

> "The Judge charged that it was not necessary to maintain the existence of a promise of marriage to prove that defendant in express words or terms made a promise to plaintiff. Any circumstance which usually accompany parties while holding the relation of an engagement of marriage, might properly be laid before a jury, and if sufficient to warrant the opinion that such an engagement existed, it was all the law required .-It is not necessary that there should be a promise of marriage in direct phraseologyno formal promise is required. Frequent visits of the parties-retiring from the society of others-seeking to be apart by themselves—expressions of attachment—presents -going together to places of amusementwalks and occasional remarks in hearing of others, are circumstances usually relied upon to prove that a marriage engagement exists, and if such are strong enough to produce conviction upon the mind, they are all that is necessary to answer the law."

Well Done, Minnesota!

The Minnesota papers bring us gratifying accounts of the recent triumph of the Democ racy in that territory, in the election of delegates to form a state constitution. The St. Paul's Pioneer says, that in the "Stillwater District, the Democracy have elected their entire ticket of six delegates. St. Paul district has been equally successful, annihilating the Black Republican and all other opposition. The Democracy throughout the territory have elected thirty-five delegates, and the Black Republicans, only eleven, which may be set down as a signal victory. Minnesota sends greeting to the National Democracy of the Union, the glorious intelligence, that another star-a North Star-will speedily be added to the brilliant galaxy of Democratic States."

The opposition made desperate efforts to carry the election. Abolition orators were imported to preach treason and nullification; but in the districts visited by them, the Democracy have uniformly gained. Is not this a glorious commentary on the intelligence and patriotism of the people. The issues involved in the election were misrepresentedthe principles of the Democratic party misbut all to no purpose.

How WE LOOK IN GREEK.—A life of Wash- The Steamer Montreal Burnt---Two Hundred Lives Lost!

Quebec, June 27 .- The steamer Montreal was burnt yesterday, near here. Two hundred passengers were drowned or burnt to death. Mostly Scotch emigrants.

[SECOND DISPATCH:] MONTREAL, June 27.—The steamer Montreal, the account of the loss of which has already been telegraphed from Quebec, con-Homer, Demosthenes and Plato, as Diocketes | tained 500 passengers, and only 175 are known to have been saved-about 200 of the passengers have been drowned. It is believed, however, that many swam ashore, and were saved in other ways. The accident happened near Cape Rouge, between Montreal and Quebec.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The captain and crew of the Montreal are among the number saved. Later advices say that the number that perished will reach 350. [PARTICULARS.]

QUEBEC, June 27.—The steamer Montreal left at four o'clock, yesterday afternoon, for Montreal, with four or five hundred passengers, mostly Scotch immigrants, recently from Europe. Nothing unusual occurred until the Montreal reached Cape Rouges, 12 or 15 miles above Quebec, when the wood-work near the furnaces were discovered to be on fire. Quickly after the flames broke forth, causing the utmost consternation amongst the passengers. Every effort was made to arrest the flames, but to no purpose. Capt. Rudolph, finding it impossible to save the steamer, ordered her to be run toward the shore. The officers and crew exerted themselves, at the same time, to get out the life-boats. The flames spread with most astonishing rapidity, and the wildest confusion and despair prevailed throughout the ship. Numbers of passengers threw themselves overboard and were drowned. Fortunately, the steamer Napoleon, also for Montreal, was but a few miles advanced, taking a boat, and put back with all possible expedition to her assistance, the Napoleon succeeded in rescuing from the burning wreck 127 passengers. Capt. Rudolph and the purser of the Montreal were amongst those who threw themselves into the river; both were excellent swimmers, and succeeded in reaching the steamer Alliance, and were saved.

It is quite possible others succeeded in saving themselves by swimming, but as the steamer became unmanageable when a considerable distance from land, there is no doubt that most of those who threw themselves from the burning boat met with a watery grave .--Sixteen of those who were saved died shortly after reaching the deck of the Napoleon .--From present information it is believed that the total loss of life by this terrible disaster will not fall short of 300 or 400. The steamer Alliance arrived here this afternoon with 45 dead bodies. We have not been able to learn the names of any of those lost, except Mr.

Under the above caption the Goldsboro' (S. C.) Tribune of a late date, gives the following a prominent position in its editorial columns:

A swindling rascal, wearing the garb and address of respectability, came to our town last week, rented stables for a dashing establishment, engaged board, &c., &c., simply as a cloak to his swindling operations. He then learned the name of one of our best and most industrious mechanics, who, he had learned boarding house, and he—the swindler, would take the watch and pay the money. Mechanic went, swindler could not then pay the money, but wanted to wear the watch fill Manday.

JAMES SAXTON. dler took the 9 o'clock cars on Saturday, on his way north, leaving our friend the mechanic minus his gold watch.

Swindler is about five feet, six or seven inches high, has light auburn hair, fair complexion, blue eyes, thin visage, is of slender form and genteel appearance. He wore a black frock coat, black pants, black figured vest, and a mixed straw hat; also a gold-like breast pin, a small vine crossing it, and a guard chain hooked to a button hole in his rest. He has a somewhat timid appearance, with downcast look, and is a downright villain, whom every honest man should delight to capture and bring to justice. Will the press generally, and our exchanges particularly, give the villain a lift, and request their exchanges to do the same. Let the press have the honor of catching him.

THE NEW ARCTIC EXPEDITION.—Capt. Mc-Clintock, the commander of the new expedition in search of what may be learned of Sir John Franklin, has addressed a letter to Mr. S. R. Grease, of this town, giving, in answer to inquiry, several interesting particulars of the proposed enterprise. We give an extract or two. Captain McClintock says: "I intend to sail, about the first of June, from Aberdeen, and proceed to Barrow Strait: ascertain that the provisions, stores, and boats left at Fort Leopold and Beeching Island by the recent searching expeditions are in good order, in the event of my having to fall back upon them; examine the state of the ice in Peel Strait, and, if practicable to proceed down it into the unknown area. Should I not succeed here, I intend to return to Fort Leopold and proceed down to Prince Regent's Inlet to Bellot Strait, and there make another attempt to pass into and through the field of search to Victoria Land, where I shall winter, and in the spring, before the thaw sets in, complete the entire exploration and search by means of sledges drawn by men and by dogs. Should I not succeed in reaching Victoria Land, I will return to Bellot Strait to pass the winter.

The means of accomplishing Lady Franklin's object, the completion of the search, and now placed at my disposal, are ample. The vessel is a three masted screw schooner yacht, with foretopsail and topgallant sail; the topsail reefs from the deck; she is decidedly a clipper—diagonically built, 132 feet long over all, 320 tons builders' measurement, with a light draught of water; trunk engines, of thirty horse power; crew numbering 50 individuals, including an Esquimaux interpreter. Almost all will be old shipmates of my own in former Arctic voyages; they shall be fed and clothed as in the government expeditions, and receive double pay. I therefore anticipate no difficulty in keeping up the same discipline as that which we found to answer so well in the three arctic expeditions in which I have served. The vessel will carry five weeks' fuel for full speed, and two and a half years provisions-being enough stated and slandered by these importations, to last us for a second winter, should we unavoidably be detained .- London Times.

medicine directly into the stomach. If the lungs are diseased, breathe or inhale medicated vapors directly into the lungs. Medicines are antidotes to disease and should be applied to the very seat of disease. Inhalation is the application of this principle to the treatment of the lungs, application of this principle to the treatment of the lungs, for it gives us direct access to those intricate air cells, and tubes which lie out of reach of every other means of administering medicines. The reason that Consumption, and other diseases of the lungs, have heretofore resisted all treatment has been because they have never been approached in a direct manner by medicine. They were intended to act upon the lungs, and yet were applied to the stomach. Their action was intended to be local, and yet, they were so administered that they should only act constitutionally, expending their immediate and principal action upon the unoftending stomach, whilst the foul ulcers within the lungs were unmolested. Inhalation brings the medicine in direct contact with the disease, without the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is so simple, that it can be employed by the youngest infant or feeblest invalid. It does not derange the stomach, or interfere in the least degree with the strength, comfort, or or leghest invalue. It does not the highest the stomach, of the free in the least degree with the strength, comfort, or business of the patient.

Other Diseases Treated.—In relation to the following diseases, either when complicated with lung affections or existing alone, I also invite consultation, I usually find them promptly curable.
Prolapsus and all other forms of Female Complaints, Irregularities and Weakness.
Palpitation and all other forms of Heart Disease, Liver

Complaints, Dyspepsia, and all other diseases of stomac and bowels, &c. All diseases of the eye and car. Nouralgia, Epilepsy, and all forms of nervous disease.
