Newspaper Indecencies.

The fearful extent of indecency and vulgarity, which has been reached by many of our secular newspapers, is beginning to be sorely felt. These papers are even beginning | plants a tree is a public benefactor. There to expose and reprove one another. With what shameless detail are all the particulars of vulgar trials, with their vulgar testimony, paraded before the public. In this way, the pure over the land are daily insulted by the moral stench of the city degradation, and the morbid, beastly souls of the impure fed on new iniquities. The time was, says the Baltimore Patriot, truly, when these horrors and pruriences were confined, in fiction to novels from the French, and in fact, to the Newgate Calender, and works of a kindred stamp.-But that period has passed away, and now our leading newspapers combine the worst features of both, by seizing every opportunity of spreading before their readers the minutest circumstance connected with acts of gross licentiousness, as disclosed before the public tribunals, and of narrating with the most revolting particularity, the testimony of witnesses with respect to crimes still more awful. Not only indecent trials are thus reported, but the most abominable advertisements are to be seen in almost all our papers. While there are many who breathe freely and naturally in this kind atmosphere, there are many also, to whom the thing is growing into an intolerable evil. The extent to which the disgust of a large portion of newspaper patrons has risen, is not suspected by many papers which have been led gradually to grow in the desire of pampering to this wretched taste. We know persons who have stopped old and once favorite papers from no other cause. We know also others, who, from a desire to retain such papers on account of other qualities, are prompt to watch their appearance from week to week, and from day to day, in order to keep them out of the hands of their children, still delaying and debating whether to proscribe and send them back finally. The matter begins to come earnestly home to the business and bosom of all who | the Pennsylvanian.

Line upon Line--Here and There a Little. have wives or sisters, or daughters, or sons, "with eyes to read a newspaper, or ears to hear a newsboy." We join heartily with some high-minded journalists in saying, we are glad to see that many of the most respectable papers of the country, join in protesting against the publication of indecent trials, and all those low advertisements which, in many journals, insult the eyes of the pure. "What wonder is it, that the cause of good morals should suffer grievous injury, and the growth of the religious sentiment be impeded, when able but unscrupulous publicists, for a trifling pecuniary gain, daily pander to the morbid tastes of the community, and thus sap the very foundations of morality and virtue." It is only by comparing the present style of newspapers with those of former times, that the full and fearful degeneracy can be seen. We had occasion some time ago, in course of investigations pertaining to another matter, to examine old files of newspapers in the Philadelphia Library, when we were forcibly reminded of this downward tendency in the character and style of newspapers. What a dignity, gravity, classic-earnestness, and moral purity distinguished the papers of earlier days, from many of the wishy-washy sheets of the present day. We were struck particularly by the dignity kept up in the department of anecdotes. Not a single one after the style of our modern bar-room anecdotes, born in low ignorance, was to be seen; they were all dignified, instructive, conceived in the spirit of true wisdom, wit and humor .-We cannot forbear to remark, how wit and humor, so excellent in themselves, are degraded in most of our newspapers, even in those which are professedly devoted to the illustration of these powers, and which undertake to provide for this taste, low caricature, foolish sayings, and silly things, you have in abundance; but genuine wit and humor, scarcely once a month. These occur, not at all as the rule, but only by accident, as the exception. There is too much superficiality, too little earnestness and solemnity, to perceive, much less, to produce true wit and pure humor. If the wits and humorists of the old English School should happen among our modern newspaper pretenders to wit, they would suppose themselves to have happened into a lunatic asylum. As it is against the indecency of a great many of our newspapers that we are protesting, we will appeal to the reader's judgment, whether a large proportion of what is intended as witty and humorous, is not downright indecency—flat enough to suit the lowest taste. Who does not know papers in abundance, the editors of which get themselves up as the jokers of the community, making before their readers, day after day and week after week, the silliest attempts to be funny; endeavoring, so far as they can call forth imitation, to reduce the english language itself to a billingsgate level -giving a printed dignity to the common bywords and cant phrases of the bar-room, the street and the stable. Let the respectable portion of the reading community set their faces against these insults to all decency and good taste. It is an insidious and far-reachng vice. It grows in boldness if let alone. He that reads and endorses the shame, and so far encourages its continuance, there are left, in the midst of the polluted newspaper sardis, some noble exceptions which have not defiled themselves with the reigning indecency. Let such be patronized. If the morbid and vulgar will have and read the filthy rags of Tamuz, let them have them in lonely glory. SATURDAY, AUG. 1, '57.

Shade Trees.

mediately arrests in the summer seabe well's along our streets in the summer seastocks of Breadstuffs, and a general unwillingness to purhe walks along our streets in the summer season. A few of our streets present a sylvan aspect, which will hardly suffer in comparison with any in the State or land. Many of the trees are very large and stately, and ample in their foliage. Long may these leafy sentinels stand to grace and ornament the town.

We know of no better method of advertising real estate than by planting shade trees. Not only do they beautify but they enhance the value. Rely upon it, that upon every graceful tree you plant, you will have more than seven per cent, returned. What man of taste would care to buy a naked mass of brick and mortar, when he can purchase a bit of forest besides for a few dollars addi-

The maple is one of the best shade trees for city growth. It is not affected a particle by the extremes of heat and cold. It forms a beautiful head with clean glossy foliage, smooth bark, is free from all insects, and has a rapid growth. In five years, in a good soil, it makes a fine symmetrical head, with gracefully sweeping branches, and affords a dense shade. The American tulip tree is also very nice. Its great elegance of habit and striking beauty of leaf and blossom recommend it to any one who has an eye to fine proportions.-It requires a deep soil, with plenty of room to expand freely on all sides. It will not bear removing when large; but small trees grow rapidly when transplanted into deep

BY LEROY. 'Tis hard to bid our friends farewell;

To give the parting kiss; Although the smiles of peace foretell Their hopes of beavenly bliss. The heart still clings with tender love. To those so near and dear : We grieve to see them mount above. And fain would keep them here. Our brother dear, we mourn for thee, Cut down in youthful bloom: A mother's stay, a sister's hope, We bore thee to thy tomb. O! Comforter Divine, we ask Thine all sustaining grace; O! let us in our sorrow see Our Father's smiling face. Ah! yes, amid our bitter tears There comes a thrill of peace;

For death will in a few short years Our spirits too, release. Then mounting on the wings of love, Set free from every care; We'll soar aloft to heaven above. And greet our loved one there.

Medical Inhalation, lately used in the Bromton Hospital, London. The great point in the treatment of all human maladies, is to get at the disease in the direct manner, 297.
All medicines are estimated by their action upon the organ requiring relief. This is the important fact upon which Inhalation is based. If the stomach is diseased we take medicine directly into the stomach. If the lungs are diseased, breathe or inhale medicated vapors directly into the lungs, Medicines are antidotes to disease and should be applied to the very seat of disease. Inhalation is the application of this principle to the treatment of the lungs, for it gives us direct access to those intricate air cells, and tubes which lie out of reach of every other means of administering medicines. The reason that Consumption, and other diseases of the lungs, have heretofore resisted all treatment has been because they have never been approached in a direct manner by medicine. They were intended to act upon the lungs, and yet were applied to the stomach. Their action was intended to be local, and yet, they were so administered that they should only act constitutionally, expending their immediate and principal action upon the unoffending stomach, whilst the foul ulcers within the lungs were unmolested. Inhalation brings the medicine in direct contact with the disease, without the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is so simple, that it can be employed by the youngest infant the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is so simple, that it can be employed by the youngest infant or feeblest invalid. It does not derange the stomach, or interfere in the least degree with the strength, comfort, or
