

TERMS OF THE GLOBE.

Table listing subscription rates for different durations: For annum in advance, For six months, For three months, etc.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Table listing advertising rates: Four lines or less, One square, Two squares, etc., including rates for professional and business cards.

Select Poetry.

HOW SWEET 'TIS TO RETURN.

How sweet 'tis to return
Where once we're happy been.
Though never now life's long may burn.

Interesting Miscellany.

MR. BROWN'S MISHAPS.

Mr. Eliphazet Brown was a bachelor of thirty-five or thereabouts: one of those men who seem born to pass through the world all alone.

WILLIAM LEWIS,

—PERSISTENT—

Editor and Proprietor.

VOL. XIII.

HUNTINGDON, PA., SEPTEMBER 2, 1857.

NO. 11.

my name is Brown. And yet I don't think I am Jones.

“Well, sir, what are you waiting for? It is necessary that your wife be removed immediately. Will you order a carriage?”

“Where shall I drive?” asked the driver.
“I don’t know,” said Mr. Brown.

“Really, thought Brown,” “this is very embarrassing. I am not your father,” said he.

“Who was your father?” said the little one, surprised.

“I had occasion to overhaul some apples the other day. They were picked in the orchard, and on the same day, and were put away the same day; and some in flour barrels and some in linc barrels.

“Why, that is father,” was the child's immediate reply, as she confidently placed her hands in his.

“I never did,” on my honor I never did. I told her I would give her some candy if she wouldn't call me father any more.”

“You did, did you? Bribed your own child not to call you father! Oh, Mr. Jones, this is infamous! Do you intend to desert me, sir, and leave me to the cold charities of the world?”

Womany Accomplishments.

The following truthful and well-timed remarks we take from the New York Daily Times:

A recent English publication on the science of bread baking, states that in the county of Suffolk, England, every woman knows to make bread, and in the town of Bury, which has 60,000 inhabitants, there are but two public bakeries.

It is not the economy of bread-making which makes it so desirable that every woman should understand the art, but because it shows a familiarity with domestic affairs which is necessary to the economy and comfort of every household.

The hard case of this unhappy young lady is by no means a solitary one; and there is no doubt that there are a great many daughters of millionaires who would be very glad to change the slavery of the piano for an hour or two of recreation in the kitchen, and to whom bread-making would be a delight compared with the labor of learning music.

MEDICAL USE OF SALT.—In many cases of disordered stomach, a teaspoonful of salt is a certain cure.

In a fit, the feet should be placed in warm water, with mustard added; and the legs briskly rubbed, all bandages removed from the neck, and a cool apartment procured if possible.

FRIAR'S CHICKEN.—Cut up four pounds of knuckle of veal, season it with white pepper and salt; put it into a soup-pan and let it boil slowly till the meat drops from the bone.

To CURE A RING WORM.—The following receipt for the cure of ring worms is furnished by JOHN S. SKINNER, Esq., the veterinary conductor of the Flow, Loom and Sew.

“Too much of a good thing,” as the boy said when he fell in the molasses barrel.

Womens' Help for Farmers' Families.

A large part of our farmer's wives are over-worked. What with the boarding of the farm hands, the dairy, and all the other unavoidable parts of the routine of daily work, there needs to be extra hands to do it, and when these cannot be, or are not furnished, health suffers, the temper is often soured, the beauty of mind and soul is marred, and too often the worn-out mother fails to live out half her days.

The demand is likely to increase, while the supply diminishes. The same want is felt to a considerable extent by the farmers in their out-door work, though machines are fast lessening the evil here.

The most feasible plan that we can suggest is this:—Build a cheap, though comfortable house on one corner of your farm, fence off a few acres of ground to go with it, and rent this to some tenant who will be likely to supply your wants.

The advantages resulting from such an arrangement are numerous. You can easily spare the land, the fire wood, &c., indeed you would scarcely miss it, and would be sure to want more than the worth of it in work, and the convenience of having help at hand when wanted, must be great.

Under certain circumstances, it is well known that lime acts as an antiseptic, though under other circumstances it accelerates decomposition.

“Don't stay long,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

The Drunkard's Death.

What a spectacle is this? What a lesson does it teach? The destruction of man's corporeal frame, is not pleasant under any circumstances. The taking down his frail “clay tabernacle,” even when he hopes to enter a building not made with hands, in the upper skies, has something melancholy in it.

Friends gather around to take a last farewell, and as his tremulous hand is extended to bid them adieu, thoughts of the past and of the future send withering arrows barbed with the poison of death to his bursting heart and with one strong agonizing convulsion struggle his rained soul staggers into the spirals, to receive its sentence.

“I had occasion to overhaul some apples the other day. They were picked in the orchard, and on the same day, and were put away the same day; and some in flour barrels and some in linc barrels.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

“Don't stay long, husband,” said a young wife tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out.

Fall Plowing.

The advantages of fall plowing may be enumerated as follows:

1. In the autumn, the team having become injured to work through the summer, is more vigorous and better prepared for labor than in the spring, and other farm work is less pressing in its demands upon the time and attention than in that bustling period.

2. In the fall, low, moist lands are generally in better condition for plowing than in spring time. We say generally, for this season low, moist lands are decidedly moist at present.

3. Stiff, heavy soils, plowed in autumn, undergo, by the action of water and frost, a more thorough disintegration—clays are pulverized and crumbled, and heavy loams and hard pan lands are acted upon, in like manner and with like benefit.

4. Heavy, coarse swards, full of rank weeds and grasses, can be better subdued by plowing in the fall than in the spring.

5. Life is gone—property—waste—character blasted—wife and children beggared—there he lies upon his bed of straw, with parched lips, bloated countenance and blood shot eyes, the very personification of ruin.

6. The loss of vegetable matter and the gasses of the same, while in a state of decay, is another disadvantage.

7. Plow deep and narrow furrows—such will best secure the action of the ameliorating influences of frost upon the soil.

8. The advantages and disadvantages of this practice may be appropriately followed by brief directions for performing the work.

9. Do it in the best manner.

10. Throw up low lands in narrow beds and cut cross furrows and drains sufficient to carry off at once all surface water.

11. Plow deep and narrow furrows—such will best secure the action of the ameliorating influences of frost upon the soil.

12. Do it in the best manner.

13. Throw up low lands in narrow beds and cut cross furrows and drains sufficient to carry off at once all surface water.

14. Plow deep and narrow furrows—such will best secure the action of the ameliorating influences of frost upon the soil.

The Philosophy and Beauty of Manners.

Manners are the garments of the spirit—the eternal clothing of the being, in which character ultimately consists. If the character be simple and sincere, the manners will be at one with it—will be the natural outbirth of its traits and peculiarities.

When the cholera was at its worst in 1849 in New Orleans, an old negro boy had watched the yellow fever many times, at length got frightened at the havoc which the new disease was making among all classes.

“Who dar?” asked Sambo.

“What you want?”

“I have called for Sambo.”

“He not here! dat nigger is been dead dis three weeks.”

A Dead Nigger.

When the cholera was at its worst in 1849 in New Orleans, an old negro boy had watched the yellow fever many times, at length got frightened at the havoc which the new disease was making among all classes.

UNPLEASANT.—Scene—A private parlor.

Mr. Thompson, a rich merchant, spending the evening with his brother and wife. Entrance of Julia their daughter, a girl of six years.

“I don't love you at all!”

“I don't love you at all!”