Kansas and Where We Are.

The Kansas question seems to be coming to a point. The President has sent in his message, recommending its admission as a State under the Lecompton Constitution .-We have no hesitation in declaring that the Democratic party of Pennsylvania revolts at the idea of that recommendation coming from the President, elected by their suffrages. The Democrats of Pennsylvania are always open and avowed in their policy, and always in earnest. They were in earnest in the campaign of 1856, when they contended for the right of the people of Kansas to settle freely and fairly their own institutions in their own way. They have been in earnest in standing as a bulwark midway between the extremes of Northern and Southern fanaticism, and insisting upon the faithful observance of Constitutional rights and guarantees by all the States in the Union. They are in earnest now in believing that Fraud and Treachery have been busy, and are yet active in endeavoring to force upon the citizens of Kansas a Constitution condemned by the voice of a large majority. And they are fearfully in earnest with the determination that no such scheme or fraud shall be consummated with their concurrence. Wo-betide that Pennsylvanian who looks for a future, and casts his voice or his vote to sustain the President's recommendation. We speak in earnest, and we know we speak the undivided sentiments of the Democracy of this county. We have heard them of all ages, and kinds, and classes, regretting-yes regretting-with an ill-suppressed feeling of shame, that a Pennsylvania President should ignore the great principle upon, and by which, the proud old party fought and won the victory of 1856. Those whose voices eloquently battled for it on the stump-those whose weight of years and character were given to it-those whose youth and enthusiasm rallied them around the standard of popular rights, all unite in asking with emphasis-"Was popular sovereignty worth

our efforts, the struggle, the battle, and the victory; and is it thus to be trampled under foot by those to whose keeping we have committed it." We wish the atmosphere of Pennfusal to exercise that right, in the face of the evidence given us by every Democratic Governor sent there, that they have been cheated and defrauded of a fair election. If you will force the crisis on us let it come. But when we are to decide between the frauds of pro-slavery men, and the rights of wronged freemen, there can be no doubt about which side of that question the Democracy of Pennsylvania will take, and the response will be a fearful one. We are freemen, and we will see that freemen have their rights under the laws and Constitution of the land, and our representatives in Congress had better look to it, that they have not to render an account for assisting in the betrayal of them.

The News.

The Banks of Philadelphia, on Wednesday, formally resumed specie payments, without any previous announcement of their intention. They had been in suspension since the last week in September, but for some time the suspension has been merely nominal.

The Philadelphia American says the aggregate of gold in the banks throughout the Union is now, as made up by returns near to January 1st, and since that time, fully eightyfive millions of dollars, or twenty-seven millions more than at the 1st of January, 1857 Then the total in all the banks of the United States, as made up at the Treasury Department, was $58,350,000; now, exclusive of States reporting $8,000,000 of specie in January, 1857, the footings are $76,500,000 all from recently published returns.

The Democratic Legislature of New Jersey, on Thursday last, by a vote of 41 to 17, passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Lecompton Constitution, having been rejected by a large majority of the people of Kansas at an election recently held, at which the question of its adoption or rejection was directly submitted to their vote, in the opinion of this Legislature, Kansas ought not to be admitted as a State under that Constitution.

Resolved, That the Governor be, and is hereby requested to forward certified copies of these resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

The Kansas question in the Departments

The Kansas question in the Pennsylvania Legislature was, on Thursday last, postponed until the 10th of March. When the hour arrived for offering original resolutions, Mr. Owen, of Phila., offered the following:

Resolved. That the committee to which were referred the various resolutions on Kansas affairs be, and the same are hereby, instructed not to report on the same until the 10th day of March next.

This resolution was opposed by Mr. Calhoun, the chairman of the committee, and advocated by Mr. Owen and others; but it passed upon a call of the yeas and navs .-The names of those Democrats who were ready to meet the question and voted against the resolution, are printed in italics.

The Northern Democrats in Congress opposed to the Lecompton Swindle will, in a day or two, issue an address, to the people of the United States, setting forth at large, the reasons which, as fair and honest men, compel them to differ with the Administration of Mr. Buchanan on the Kansas question. ## Fearful Fight in the House.

From Washington we learn that a fight came off in the House, on Friday night last. At an early hour in the day Mr. Harris, of Illinois, offered a resolution to refer the President's Kansas Message and the Lecompton Constitution, to a select Committee of thirteen, which is to report upon the alleged frauds in Kansas; but a vote upon the same was resisted by the Lecomptonites during the day and night, and at 6 o'clock next morning, after being in session eighteen hours, both parties without coming to a vote, agreed to adjourn until next Monday morning, when the first business should be the consideration of Mr. Harris' resolution.

At 2 o'clock in the morning while many of the members were dozing at their desks, the House was thrown into a violent excitement and fearful scene of confusion. It appears that while Mr. Grow, of Pennsylvania, was walking down the aisle on the Democratic side of the Hall Mr Keitt of South Care side of the Hall, Mr. Keitt, of South Caro- yeas, 21, nays, 65. # Great Men in Kansas.

We learn by a recent Kansas letter to one of the Cincinnati papers, that the board of commissioners to investigate election frauds, which held its session at Leavenworth City, brought to light some singular facts in relation to the poll books of that notoriously bogus district, Kickapoo. For instance, on the original poll book of the vote on the constitution, Dec 21st, 1857; which book is now on file in the county recorder's office in Leavenworth, it was discovered that James Buchanan, President of the United States, cast the 270th vote for the constitution with slavery. If we ignore the inconsiderable fact that Mr. Buchanan, at the time of casting this ballot, was some thousands of miles to the castward of Kickapoo, the performance is not strange, but perfectly in keeping with his devotion to the " peculiar institution."

Next on the list of distinguished names appears, as the 276th voter, Wm. H. Seward, of New York; next, 323d, Thos. F. Marshall, of Kentucky; 714th, Geo. W Brown, editor Herald of Freedom; then, 859th, John C. Fremont; and immediately after, the celebrated John Hernden!

Then comes in the 876th voter; J. W. Den_ ver, Governor of Kansas, who had only taken his place as Governor the day before, and was then in Lecompton, fifty miles distant! And the next phrase presented is a "Thirty Years' View," Thomas II. Benton appearing as the 915th voter. And now it was dark. the polls being kept open till half-past six, when, alas! for frail humanity, for the "compunctious visitings of conscience," in slips Horace Greeley, and stealthily deposits his ballot as the 980th voter! It is now six and a half o'clock, and the curtain rises on the last act of the drama, and in steps, in all his majestic proportions, Edwin Forrest, as the ten hundred and twenty-sixth voter! This is Mr. Forrest's first appearance on a Kansas

Mr. Fetter read in place, a bill to release the bail of Daniel Zeigler, a defaulting Treasurer of Mifflin county Mr. Schell, in place, read a bill incorporating the Somerset Coal and Iron Company. Considerable time was spent in discussing Senate-bill No. 83, introduced by Mr. Buckalew, relative to the management of the North Branch canal. The bill makes it the duty of the Canal Commissioners "to make all necessary arrangements for prosecuting the works and improvements upon the said line, in order to the bringing of the same into early use." Mr. Schell offered to amend by making it the duty of the Commissioners to report at as early a day as possible, the probable amount of money necessary to be expended on said canals. Mr. Turney moved to add a proviso, that the Commissioners shall not make any contract for repairs or for any other purpose until a statement shall be submitted to the Legislature—which with the addition of "except such as are absolutely necessary"—was agreed to. The amendment of Mr. Schell as amended was agreed to. And the bill as amended passed second reading.
