ENGLISH FARMING.

Crisp, Esq., one of the most noted breeders of short-horned cattle, of swine, and Suffolk cart-horses in that part of England. I spent several days under his hospitable roof, and gave his stock of animals a pretty thorough | the embankment against the sea. The emexamination. He farms about 3,000 acres, bankment extends 22 miles, and the "marshand has hundreds of cattle and horses and thousands of sheep. This proprietor usually gives no personal attention to his estates, so far as the rents are concerned but intrust all such affairs to a steward, who makes bargains with the tenants, and the lord | especially occupied my attention, and I have of the domain sometimes does not even visit at a fixed rate, which he pays half-yearly in cash; and although neither party is bound for more than the year, the tenant often occupies for his lifetime ; and his son takes the farm at his decease. Landlords are willing to give long leases, but tenants seem to prefer the yearly system, so far as I have observed.

The tenant farmer seems to go on and make the permanent improvements, often at great expense, and laysout his work as if he owned the fee-simple; and on the whole, homes are more permanent in this land of mere tenants migratory habits. The farmer pays a rent of (say) five dollars an acre annually for his land, and conducts his operations in his own way, provided he does not cut down trees, game, such as hares, partridges, and pheasants, which go where they please, and do as much damage as they like, unmolested.

A keeper-that is, a game-keeper-lives on the estate, whose business it is to protect the game, and catch the poachers who presume cred as the geese in Rome's capital. The them with reins and holding the plow himgame laws are, and ever have been, a fruitless source of crime and suffering, and always will be, till human nature is thoroughly | straight, so that I could not see an inch varichanged. On every estate where I have been I have noticed with indignation the ravages of these uscless animals called game, in the fields of the finest wheat, while neither farmer nor laborer dares even drive them away, on penalty of his lord's displeasure and the | er this statement will perceive that all the loss of his lease next year. There are no large barns for grain and hay in the south of England as with us, but those products which we so carefully protect are never housed. I have discussed the topic a good deal with farmers here and they have reasons for their course; some I cannot venture to answer. They say they cannot afford the expense of barns, and that if they could, hay would heat and burn up by spontaneous combustion if put in them. The climate there is much more moist than ours, and I think the storms are not so violent. Hay does not dry so readily nor injure so much in the stock as with us, and, on the whole, if English farmers like their own mode best, we will find no fault with their judgment; but I am sure it is poor economy for New Englanders to follow their example in that particular .---The low price of labor and the high price of building material in England make in favor A liberal discount to the Trade of stacks and against barns.

Upon one part of the estate we found brick and tile works, where all the operations of making, setting, and burning drain tiles were going on. This is a subject which has seen various machines in operation in severa farm in a generation ; the tenant occupies al places, and have narrowly watched the methods of laying out the drains and laying the tiles. I am more impressed with the importance of the subject to us at home. Much of our New England soil requires no draining, but much of our most valuable land, I am satisfied, would double in value, at small expense, by draining with tiles, when we can have them at a fair price and know how to use them.

I have not space now to speak particularly of the crops of wheat and other grain, nor of the culture of the root crops, nor of the magthan in the land of fee-simple owners, with | nificent stock of cattle, swine and sheep, nor of the plowing with those queer, old plows, straight furrows for half a mile, such as I never saw in America. We have had many talks about plows; but they have one arguplough up any pasture land, or disturb the ment in favor of their ungainly implement. Their work is far better than ours; and it is because they have better plows, or hold them better, and our farmers and plow-makers may settle that question as they can.-I have seen a man in England, with a yoke of oxen fastened in collars like horses, with to touch these animals, which are held as sa- blinders on and bits in their mouths, guiding self, striking out lands eighty rods long with no stakes except at the ends, absolutely ation in the distance. It is a common operation here to plow land into ridges for mangolds, drill four rows at a time with a horsedrill, and when the ercp is up to horse four rows at once. and other improved machinery. They have purchased the entire machinery business here-tofore carried on by J. M. Emerson & Co., also the Mont-gomery Works at Yonkers, on the Hudson, near this city, and with the experience and facilities combined in its organization are prepared to furnish machinery of all kinds at more liberal rates, than has ever been offered at any other establishment. The Combination Saw-Mill was patented October, 1856,

The combination Saw-Mill was patented October, 1856, and is now generally acknowledged to be the cheapest, and most practical, and efficient lumber manufacturing machine in the world. A number of them are in successful operation in different sections of the country, Canada, Cula, and South America, and wherever their merits have been tested they are being adopted by lumber manufacturers in preference to all other mills.
 The following letter expresses the general opinion of those who are using the Combination Mill: MESSUS, EMENSON & Co.—Gentlemen: I have tried the saw-mill purchased of you, and will say that it performs well, and more than meets my expectations. I am well pleased with its performance. I set it up on a small stream that afforded constant water about as thick as my little fuger, which was much more than sufficient to supply the boiler. We are able to cut 3,000 feet of beautiful lumber in 12 hours, with something less than one coil of wood.— It is the very thing we have so much needed in our county for a long time. With a little trouble and expense, we are able to nave it from five to ten milles per day, and set it up in the heart of the timber, which saves the great hurden of hauling the logs a long distance to the mill.

The company has purchased and described in the Scien-raugement, which is illustrated and described in the Scien-

In Mr. Crisp's farm-yard I saw an original of the farm yards in which Landseer and Herring and other painters of animals so much delight. Around in some order, though with no great regularity, are huge stacks of wheat, barley, hay, and straw, as large as goodly sized barns, all neatly thatched and trimmed.

There is a donkey, quietly meditating on the better condition of half a dozen carthorses that are standing to their knees in straw, cating rye, grass and clover from the rack; and there are a dozen black pigs, of two months, with their mutual relative, rooting about the feet of the horses. Flocks of ducks are waddling about the same yard, and hensand chickens mixinto the scenc in crowds. A big dog is chained to the gate, and a smaller is barking to any stranger that approaches. Under the long, tile-roofed shed a dozen carts keep company with as many longhandled, long-nosed, long-beamed plows.

A steam-engine is puffing away, quietly and busily, with a threshing machine. Two or three men are passing up the sheaves from the rick, and two women on the top of the thresher receive it and untic the bands, while two more men are pitching the straw on to a new stack, about as large and as high up as a forty-foot barn; while on top of the same stack a boy is mounted on a horse of near a ton weight, riding constantly about to tread down the straw. The horse and rider remind down the straw. The horse and rider remind you of an equestrian statute on a very large pedestal; and as the horse is gradually rising higher and higher, you wonder how he is ev-er to get down again, seeing that the stack is perpendicular on every side, and fifteen feet

DR. GUSTAV LINNARD'S Tuste Restorative Troches, the Great Substitute for Tobacco.

It is a well known and incontrovertable fact that the use of Tobacco is the promoting cause of many of the most se-vere MENTAL AND PHYSICAL DISORDERS to which the race of man is subject, as careful analysis and long and painful experience have clearly proven that it contains certain marcotic and poisonous properties most dangerous in their effects, which by entering into the blood derange the functions and operations of the Heart, causing many the compared that argue to be gavianced downed. o suppose that organ to be seriously deceased. TOBACCO affects also the entire nervous system, manifosting itself—as all who have used the noxious weed will hear testimony—in Lassitude, Nervous Irritability, Water Brash, Dyspepsia, and many other disorders of a similar THE TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES are designed to counteract these baneful influences, and have proved com-pletely successful in a multitude of cases, and wherever used. Being harmless in themselves they exert a benefi-cial effect upon the entire system, restoring the taste which has become vitiated or destroyed by great indulgence, com-pletely removing the irritation and accompanying tickling sensation of the Throat—which are always consequent upon abstaining from the use of Tobacco, and by giving a healthy tone to the Stomach, invigorate the whole system Persons who are irrefrievably undermining their con-stitutions and shortening their lives, should use these Troches immediately and throw off the injurious and un-pleasant habit of Tobacco Chewing. These Troches or Lozenges are put up in a convenient and portable form at the low price of 50 Cents per Box.--
