Murder of Professor Baehr.

We copy from the Pittsburgh Daily Union of Saturday last, the particulars of the murof Saturday last, the particulars of the mur-der of Professor Bachr, a gentleman known died from the effects of the blow he received to most of our citizens. He left this place some five or six weeks ago for Pittsburgh :---

This day week ago, we noticed the fact of an outrageous assault having been committed on Prof. Louis Baehr, of Baltimore, on Wednesday morning of last week, in the vicinity of the Scott House. The wounded man ling-'ered until yesterday afternoon, when he died at three o'clock. On Monday evening last, Mayor Weaver and officer Reed took James McKee, the person suspected of committing the outrage, before Prof. Baehr, who immediately identified him as the man. Yesterday morning, Mayor Weaver took down in writing the dying declaration of Professor Baehr, in which he most positively asserted that the man brought before him by Mayor Weaver, was the individual who struck him.

Coroner Alexander held an inquest on the remains, when the following evidence was elicited :

Mayor Weaver testified at length, giving the particulars of the outrage, as detailed to him by Prof, Baehr. Deceased said he had been to the depot to meet some friends he was expecting from the east; in coming down Liberty street, he heard music in the Athenaeum building, and seeing a man standing in the door he asked if they were singing up stairs; the man replied, a drunken man up stairs was making a noise; the man then told him he was a police officer, and directed him the way to reach the Scott House; when half way between Hand street and the hotel, on Duquesne Way, he was met by the man who demanded from him the loan of a quarter; he replied he didn't have any change, when the man struck him with a slung shot, and felled him; he managed to reach the hotel and go to bed. The Mayor then proceeded to state the identification of McKey by the deceased, as the man who struck him; also, as to the dying declaration of deceased, that McKee was the person who struck him. Charles C. Balsley, sworn-Board at Scott House; was lying on a sofa on Wednesday morning, between one and two o'clock ; heard a noise at the door, and went and left Mr. Bachr in ; he went up stairs to his room ; did not know he was injured until about two o'clock; he came to the head of the stairs, and called for a light, and when the porter came down he said Mr. Baehr was wounded. I went up to his room afterwards, and he showed me where he was wounded in the head; he requested me not to send for a doctor until daylight; he didn't think he was so hadly hurt; from what I recollect, he said he was passing up Liberty street, near the Athenacum, (witness then detailed the same story as told by Mr. Baehr to Mayor Weaver.) The porter, Daniel Brown, had washed his wound before I saw him ; he supposed he had been hit with a "handy billy ;" saw Mr. Baehr a few minutes after McKee had been before him, and he told me he believed Mc-Kee was the man who struck him. I asked him if that was the man, and he said "Yes, that is the man." Dr. Walter, affirmed-Was called to see Mr. Bachr on Tuesday afternoon last, and about eleven o'clock last night; on Tuesday, found him in bed; he was feverish, but did not appear to be in much pain; his pulse was between 95 and 100; found a wound on his head, but did not make an examination:

McKee to see Baehr; was present when Bachr made his dying declaration; he still adhered in his assertions that McKee was the person who struck him; assisted in making the post mortem examination at request of the Coroner. [The Doctor then proceeded to state the condition of the wound, in subwhich produced inflammation of the brain. Stacy Lloyd, of the Scott House, testified that the morning after Mayor Weaver took Mr. Bachr's testimony, the latter sent for me; he said the Mayor had been to see him, and he thought they would get the man who struck him; a day or two afterwards, he again sent for me, and told me the Mayor had got the man; asked him if he was certain of it, and he said, "Yes, as sure as there is a God in Heaven;" he said that was the man who showed him the way to the Scott House, wanted to borrow a quarter from him, and who knocked him down; he said his name was McKee.

Burning Fluids.

Not many years ago the only fluids employed in our country for household light were animal oils, obtained by perilous adventure on the stormy sea with monsters of the deep. At present, whale oils are in comparatively limited use for illumination, and are becoming more limited every year. Sperm oil has no superior among the burning fluids, but it has become so dear that cheaper substitutes have been sought and obtained. The most common of these is a compound of alco-hol and turpentine, commonly known by the name of burning fluid, which is very cheap and cleanly, possessing none of that greasy property which belongs to oils. This fluid was first brought into public use in 1830, when a patent (now expired) was obtained for it by Isaiah Jennings, of New York city. It is composed of about nine parts of highly rectified alchol and one of camphene, and is capable of burning in common lamps; were it not so volatile, no burning fluid could be more desirable. From its very nature, however, it must be used with great caution and care, because it is so liable to evaporate and become explosive by mixing with the atmosphere. Horrible accidents, causing death in many instances, have occurred from the explosion of lamps since it came into usc hence a safer substance is desirable.

From some kinds of bituminous coal a subspiritous oil is now manufactured, which is fast coming into popular favor, owing to the etherial oil, and set fire to the inflammable improvements which have recently been fluid, which had the effect of roasting poor made in the means of purifying, and in the Towser until life became extinct, after the endurance of the most intense, agonizing lamps designed for burning it. It is but a few years since it was first discovered that sufferings which the human mind can conoil could be distilled at a low temperature from ceive. rich cannel coal, and now this oil is almost exclusively employed for lubrication in Great Britain, while it is extensively used both for sister, a bright, intelligent child, about six lubrication and illumination among our peo-

years of age. Having playfully bound her legs and arms with a clothes-line, he placed Vast beds of rich coal from which this oil can be obtained exist in Pennsylvania, Ohio her upon the cooking stove in the kitchen, and Kentucky, affording sources of supply heated to an intense degree, in order to prefor thousands of years to come. This oil pare dinner for the family. The shricks and passes over in a very crude state, incapable | yells of the agonized little victim were forof being generally employed for burning on its first distillation; but by the use of sulphurie acid, the bichromate of potash, several washings and distillations, it is purified so as | villain's crimes had now ceased to be a virto afford a most brilliant light in an argand burner. Coal oils are very peculiar; a very clear oil will come over in small quantities at a comparatively low heat during distillation; then, as the temperature is raised, a greater quantity comes over, but it is thick and viscid. All these oils are liable to become red in color by exposure to the air, and they have an offensive odor. It is a remarkable fact that, while all the animal oils may be burned in common lamps, very few of the vegetable oils can be so used. The great defect of most vegetable oils for burning, is their gummy nature, which causes them to clog up the meshes of the wick. and give out only a dull, reddish and smoky light. The two vegetable oils capable of burning in lamps, are made from the olive and the seed of the brassica napus (rape seed.) This oil is capable of rivalling sperm for giving a brilliant light. Patents have been taken out for purifying linseed, cotton seed and sun-flower seed oils, to adapt them for artificial light, but hitherto none of them have come into general use; the processes pursued to purify them have either been inefficient or too expensive. Rectified turpentine, under the name of camphene, which is very cheap, has been tried for illumination, and judgment passed against it. It requires, like coal oil, an argand burner, and even with the greatest care, it is liable to smoke, and fill up the meshes of the lamp-wick with resinous matter. Rosin oil, although very cheap, labors under the same disadvantages. Neither the olive nor the rape are cultivaand should be, for its beautiful oil, in our States, and the latter for the same objects all our States. In France and Germa rape seed is extensively and profitably cu vated. The oil exists ready formed in seed, and is extracted by pressure, like ot oils obtained from seeds. The seed is fi ground to meal, then heated to 200 degree placed in bags, and submitted to very sev pressure. As the oil comes from the pr it contains some mucilage, which must removed to fit it for burning. This is account plished by stirring about two per cent. vitriol among it, washing with water in va and afterwards filtering it. The sulphy acid unites with the mucilage of the oil, falls down as a heavy precipitate; the floats on the top of the water, after stand a few days, and is then drawn off by a sinl or tap. This oil, which can be employed common lamps, illumines the light-houses the French coast, which are said to be best lighted in the world. It is, at least, oil to which to direct attention, in order induce some of our people to introduce a u ful manufacture.-Scientific American.

Hair Restorative, but hav-ing been so often cheated by quackery and quack nos-trums, hair dyes, &c., I was disposed to place your Resto-rative in the same category with the thousand and one loudly trumpeted quack remedies, until I met you in Lawrence county some months since, when you gave me such assurance as induced the trial of your Restorative in my family—first by my good wife, whose hair had become very thin and entirely white, and before exhausting one of your large bottles, her hair was restored nearly to its very thin and entirely white, and before exhausting one of your large bottles, her hair was restored nearly to its original brown color, and had thickened and become beau-tiful and glossy upon, and entirely over the head; she continues to use it, not simply because of its beautifying effects upon the hair, but because of its healthful influence upon the head and mind. Others of my family and friends are using your Restorative, with the happiest effects; therefore, my scepticism and doubts in reference to its character and value are entirely removed; and I can and de word cordially, and confidently, recommend its use hy

Dr. Hardman treats Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dr. Hardman treats Consumption, Bronchitts, Aéthum, Larryngittis and all diseases of the throat and littigs, by Medical Inhalation, lately used in the Bromton Hospital, London. The great point in the treatment of all human maladies, is to get at the disease in the direct manner.— All medicines are estimated by their action upon the organ requiring relief. This is the important fact upon which Inhalation is based. If the stomach is diseased we tako medicine directly into the stomach. If the lungs are dis-eased, breathe or inhale medicated vapors directly into the lungs. Medicines are antidotes to disease and should be applied to the very sent of disease. Inhalation is tho application of this principle to the treatment of the lungs, for it gives us direct access to those intricate air cells, and tubes which lie out of reach of every other means of arb ministering medicines. The reason that Consumption, tubes which lie out of reach of every other means of at-ministering medicines. The reason that Consumption, and other diseases of the lungs, have heretofore resisted all treatment has been because they have never been ap-proached in a direct manner by medicine. They were in-tended to act upon the lungs, and yet were applied to the stomach. Their action was intended to be local, and yet, they were so administered that they should only act con-stitutionally, expending their immediate and principal ac-tion upon the unoffending stomach, whilst the foul ulcers within the lungs were unmolested. Inhalation byings the medicine in direct contact with the disease, without the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is so simple, that it can be employed by the youngest infant or feeblest invalid. It does not derange the stomach, or in-terfere in the least degree with the strength, comfort, or

Mr. Bachr at the reques came to see brother of McKee; the friends of McKee being anxious to get him out of jail on bail; they wanted my opinion whether Mr. Bachr was out of danger, in order to bring McKee out of jail before the Court, in spite of the Mayor. Called last night at the request of the friends of deceased; I gave no positive opinion on Tuesday as to his condition .--Found him in a hopeless condition on Thursday night; he was delirious; was satisfied he could not recover ; found the skull fractured, and a piece of it driven into the inner table of the skull itself; found a piece of the skull penetrating into the membrane of the brain; took the piece out previous to his death, but it was to late to do him any good; the fracture was, unquestionably, the cause of Mr. Bachr's death; made a post mortem examination and found great difficulty in separating the membranes of the brain from the skull itself, on account of its strong adhesion resulting from the injury; found the membranes of the brain highly congested, or overcharged with blood; there was a clut of blood at the side of the fracture, on the membranes of the brain, and below them on the brain itself; the brain itself was highly charged with blood, more than a healthy brain should be; the membranes appeared to be the part which suffered most from congestion; the fractured part of the skull was the right occipital bone, near to its junction with its mate; the fracture itself extended about three inches through both tables of the skull, from below the tentorium down to near the foramen magnum; this fracture extended throug both plates of the skull, and along its track the membranes of the brain were more congested than the rest; the membranes of the brain were not lacerated by the fractured portion of the skull. Did not find any other injury on the head, nor on the body, except on the right shoulder; it was a severe contusion; might have been occasioned by a fall when struck down.

Dr. W. M. Kern, sworn-Was called in to see Mr. Baehr on Wednesday morning, 9th inst., about daybreak ; found him sitting up in his room, and he informed me he had been struck by some one; found that he was in a sensible condition; prescribed for his injuries; made an examination of his wound, and found that I could'nt get my fingers on his skull; dilated the wound, and made examination with my fingers and probe; found a fracture on the superior layer of the occipital bone about two inches from the right ear; went on and treated the case, and he did not manifest any peculiar derangemet of the system ; his pulse was natural; visited him in the evening, and he was sitting up; the next day his pulse rose up to 120; then bled him, and ordered leeches to his head; from the first kept ice on his head; before I left him, his pulse fell to 80, and he was better. On Saturday he was very well; had no fever, and his pulse was natural; he admitted his friends contrary to my advice; on Sunday he was also very well, and sat up reading; that evening his pulse commenced rising; continued the antiphlogistic treatment; yesterday morning I requested a consultation, and called in Drs. McCook and Gross; concluded to prosecute the antiphlogistic treatment.
