large farms in other States, we have conclulard. Then there is a tool house, a carpenter not behind her sister States in large farms or good farming.

The farm of Mr. Gentry contains seven thousand acres of land, three thousand five hundred acres of which are under excellent fence, and in a high state of cultivation. It is divided, chiefly, into lots of forty acresmaking over thirty miles of fence on the farm. The fence is mostly made of rails, with stakes and riders, and kept up in the best condition. There is, however, a mile and a quarter of post and board fence on the farm, and some two miles of Osage Orange hedge, which, has not yet been turned out.

There are on the farm sixty-five large gates, of the best construction, and about the same number of draw-bars. The gates and bars are made in a large carpenter shop, in rainy weather, when all the hands can be employed at nothing else. All of the implements are put in repair at such times, and many of the simpler ones manufactured. About twothirds of the farm consits of high rolling prairie, of an excellent quality of soil, and the remaining third is in timber, immediately adjoining the prairie.

There are fourteen hundred acres of the farm set in blue grass, seven hundred and fifty acres in clover and timothy meadow, three hundred and twenty acres in corn, one hundred and sixty acres in oats, twenty acres in Hungarian millet, and the balance of the farm under fence is in woods pasture.

There are on the farm twenty-seven large, artificial ponds, many of them of much depth, affording stock an abundance of water at all seasons of the year. During our visit, three stone masons were employed in erecting large stone pillars in various parts of the farm, at the outlets of streams, in which large water gates were to be hung, so that in case of freshets, which are common on large prairies, the gates would open by the action of the water, and close when the water had passed and prevent the fence from being washed away, and the escape of stock from one field to another.

One of the most striking features observable is, that on this immense farm, not a single weed is to be seen. Even the fence corners, those common receptacles of all that is foul, on most farms, are as clean of weeds as the city lawn. What do farmers, who who have but two or three hundred acres under cultivation say to this? Here are upwards of thirty miles of fence, without a weed or briar surrounding it, while many farms, with only a mile or two of fence, raise enough weeds to seed the whole neighborhood! The whole farm is a pattern of neatness. The hands pass over every field, as often as it is necessary, and pull up every burr, briar and weed that darcs show itself. This has been done for many years, until the

Mr. Gentry has been a large sheep grower. Some fifteen years ago, finding the market dull for horses and mules, he concluded to try sheep. He accordingly procured from Kentucky some 400 head of the best Saxon and Spanish merino ewes as the foundation of the future flock. These he raised for a number of years, increasing the size of his flock, till it ranged for many years, from two thousand eight hundred to three thousand head. He went to great expense in procuring the best bucks, and, by judicious management, obtained a very superior flock. For the last four or five years, he has been crossing his flock with the French merino, paying as high as one hundred and fifty dollars per head for the bucks. He has some imported bucks of this breed now on his farm. He thinks the French merino superior to the saxony or Spanish merino, as possessing more constitution, greater weight of carcass, much greater weight of wool, though not of as fine a quality, yet sufficiently so to command as high a price in market. He has had the very best success in raising sheep—his flock.

The Liver is one of the human body; and when it the powers of the system sulmost entirely action of the Livera for the functions; when the storage and the human best that the whole greater weight of the saxony or Spanish merino, as possessing more constitution, greater weight of carcass, much greater weight of wool, though not of as fine a quality, yet sufficiently so to command as high a price in market. He has recently reduced the size of his flock to about 1000 head, for the purpose of giving more attention to raising mules. He is already quite extensively engaged in this business, but intends to give it more prominence hereafter.

There are kept constantly employed on the farm, twelve grown hands, and six boys .-Our readers may wonder how so large a farm can be so well managed by this small number of hands. It was a wonder to us until we saw the perfect system of Mr. Gentry's plans. Everything moves like clock work .-There is a time for everything, and everything must be done in its time. There is no hurry and flurry-but everything moves along evenly and quietly. Each piece of along evenly and quietly. Each piece of work is attended to till it is done. But this system is not the only secret of his success. All of the best labor saving implements and machines are used by him—so that with one man he is able, in many kinds of work, to perform the labor of ten men. By this means he is able to accomplish this vast amount of work.

But the next question is, will farming on such a magnificient scale pay? Of course it will. Any kind of honorable business, managed as well as this farm is, would pay large profits. Upon our inquiry, Mr. Gentry informed us, that the gross receipts from this farm last year, amounted to over twenty-seven thousand dollars.

Value of Clover Hay.

II. Capron, of Illinois, who has been largely concerned in the dairy business, (having sold sixty thousand dollar's worth of milk in a single year,) informs the Country Gentleman that he made accurate experiments to test the value of timothy and clover hay .-These experiments, extending through a period of two years, were accompanied with an accurate weighing and measuring, and the food was changed, timothy to clover, and vice versa, once a month, and the results were that the clover hay yielded ten per cent. more than the timothy. It will be observed that this was not a single experiment, but a series of experiments, extending for a long period. It is proper to state that the clover was well cured.

ANN ARDOR, November 6, 1856.

PROF. O. J. WOOD—Dear Sir: I have heard much said of the wonderful effects of your Hair Restorative, but having been so often cheated by quackery and quack nostrums, hair dyes, &c., I was disposed to place your Restorative in the same category with the thousand and one loudly trumpeted quack remedies, until I met you in Lawrence county some months since, when you gave me such assurance as induced the trial of your Restorative in my family—first by my good wife, whose hair had become such assurance as induced the trial of your Restorative in my family—first by my good wife, whose hair had become very thin and entirely white, and before exhausting one of your large bottles, her hair was restored nearly to its original brown color, and had thickened and become beautiful and glossy upon, and entirely over the head; she continues to use it, not simply because of its beautifying effects upon the hair, but because of its healthful influence upon the head and mind. Others of my family and friends are using your Restorative, with the happiest effects; therefore, my scepticism and doubts in reference to its character and value are entirely removed; and I can and do nost cordially and confidently recommend its use by all who would have their hair restored from white or gray to engined color and beauty. all who would have their hair restored from white or gray (by reason of sickness or age,) to original color and beauty, and by all young persons who would have their hair beautiful and glossy.

Very truly and gratefully yours,

SOLOMON MANN.

FRIEND Wood: It was a long time after I saw you at Blissfield before I got the bottle of Restorative for which you gave me an order upon your agent in Detroit, and when I got it we concluded to try it on Mrs. Mann's hair, as the Furest test of its power. It has done all that you assured me it would do; and others of my family and friends, having witnessed its effects, are now using and recommending its use to others as entitled to the highest consideration you claim for it.

Again, very respectfully and truly, yours, SOLOMON MANN.
