

THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, Nov. 24, 1858.

Locals.

We direct the attention of the reader to the original article on dancing, or our fourth page.

The handsome dwellings of Theo. H. Cremer and Dr. R. A. Miller, are ornaments to the town.

That valuable property, "Mount Union Hotel," will be offered for sale on the 23d December next. See advertisement in another column.

We are making arrangements to connect with the "Globe Job Office," a general assortment of Stationery, School Books, Popular Literature, &c., &c.

We had for our Thanksgiving dinner, what we never had before—a fine Venison roast—a present from Major GARRETTSON, for which he has the thanks of our household.

John Fleener has taken his place in the Board of County Commissioners. Mr. Fleener is an active, industrious man, and can, and we believe will, make a popular officer.

Scarce with us—potatoes. Some of our patrons caught us by promising us a supply—upon the strength of which, we bought but few—now we find our box nearly empty and our prospects of having it filled very dim. Will some of our friends send us a bushel or two?

The Canal Commissioners will be at the Exchange Hotel on Wednesday evening, December 1st, for the purpose of settling old claims. All who have claims, had better "pitch in" at that time, as the Board will likely be abolished by the next Legislature.

We invite the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the British Reviews, and Blackwood's Magazine. The works are the best and cheapest in the country. The great inducements offered new subscribers should secure for the works a very liberal list from this section of country. Read advertisement.

"The Village Blacksmith," a large and magnificent engraving, and several numbers of the "Cosmopolitan Art Journal," has been received. The picture alone is well worth three dollars—but in addition to it, subscribers get the Art Journal, an elegantly illustrated quarto Magazine. For particulars call on the Company's Honorary Secretary, J. J. LAWRENCE. See advertisements headed "New Features."

Thanksgiving was pretty generally observed in town on Thursday last. The stores and other places of business were closed, and in the forenoon there was a union prayer meeting in the Presbyterian Church, conducted by Rev. S. Barnett and Still—and in the evening another in the Methodist Church, Rev. S. Reid, McLean and Orblison conducting it.

On Saturday night last, some villains without the fear of the law, burglariously entered the Boot and Shoe store of Levi Westbrook, by means of a false key, and took therefrom, a pair of boots, two pair of shoes, and about six pair of hose. No doubt had they not been frightened, by Mr. F. B. Wallace, who was awakened by their noise, they would have dealt more largely. In their hurry, they left behind them their key, which they are respectfully invited to call for, as Mr. Westbrook has no use for it.

On Saturday night last, a poor miserable wretch entered the Drug store of S. S. Smith, to ask for charity, and as he entered he took up a pair of woolen socks and put them in his pocket, and then asked Mr. Smith for charity. A bystander informed Mr. Smith of the transaction. Smith then searched him and found the socks in his pocket, and told him he would send him to jail, whereupon the beggar replied that "he didn't care a d—d," and that he would sooner go to jail than starve. He was not arrested however. Is there not a place provided for such people? Do we not pay taxes for that purpose? But we venture to say two thirds of the traveling beggars would rather go to jail than be sent to the Poor House.

On Friday night last, John Ambrose, convicted of larceny, and sentenced to three years imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary—and George Litford, convicted of the same crime, and waiting sentence—broke jail, by moulding a key which enabled them to get out of their cell, then by cutting and burning a hole through the ceiling of their room, they made their way to the garret, and got on the roof through the trap-door—then slid down the roof and got upon the wall of the yard, from the upper end of which they jumped to the ground and made their escape.

On the 15th inst., of consumption, Mrs. LUCRETTIA JANE SADDONS, wife of Peter Saddons, and daughter of Ferdinand and Martha Corbin, aged 17 years 7 months and 29 days. Ah! she is gone, and now in heaven She sings his praise, who died for her; And to her land a heap is given, And she's a heavenly worshipper. Of let us think of all she said, And all the kind advice she gave; And let us do it now she's dead, And sleeping in her lovely grave. And let us choose the path she chose, And let her voice again we see, Beyond this world of sin and woes, With Jesus in Eternity.

notice that in several towns, boys have been arrested and thrown into jail for their profanity, indecent language, and rovdism in general. A few days since, the boy Rogers was hung in New York, for the murder of a policeman. Rogers had been permitted to educate himself in the streets, like many of our fast young boys who may meet with Rogers' fate. Boys—young men—leave the streets, and prepare yourselves for a manly and useful life.

An Incident.

Mr. B.—, a young gentleman of fine talents, was years ago a chief clerk in a bank in Virginia. He was a good scholar, and a courageous and honest young man, but was the leader of an infidel club, and had nearly succeeded in throwing from his mind the last shackles of what he used to call the "nursery superstition," which was the religion his pious mother had taught him. On one occasion upwards of one hundred thousand dollars in bank bills had to be carried to Kentucky, and he was selected to carry it. As he was obliged to pass through a part of the country where highway robbery and even murder was said to be frequent, he arranged to pass it in the day-time. But he took the wrong road, and having lost himself, was glad to find a shelter anywhere. He rode about a long time in the forest, amid the darkness and chillness of a starless October night.

At length he saw a dim light, and he pushed his horse forward until he came to a poor, wretched-looking log cabin. It was now near ten o'clock. He knocked and was admitted by a woman who told him she and her children were alone—her husband had gone hunting; but she was certain he would return, as he always came according to promise. Here he was with a large sum of money alone, and perhaps in the house of one of those robbers whose name was the terror of the country. He could go no farther—that was to be done? The woman gave him supper, and proposed his retiring to rest. But he could not think of permitting himself thus easily to fall into the hands of the robbers. He took out his pistols, examined the priming, and determined to sell his life as dear as he could.

In the meantime the man of the house returned; he was rather a fierce uncouth looking hunter; he had on a dirty skin hunting shirt, and bear-skin cap, and seemed to be much fatigued, and in no very talkative mood, all of which boded our young infidel no good. He asked the stranger if he did not wish to retire; he told him no, he would sit by the fire all night. The man of the house urged him. But no, he could not think of such a thing. He was terribly alarmed, and expected this would be his last night on earth. His infidel principles gave him little comfort. His fears grew into a perfect agony. What was to be done?

At length the back woodsman rose up, and reaching over the stranger's head to a little shelf, took down an old book, and said, "Well, stranger, if you won't go to bed, I will; but it is my custom, always to read a chapter out of God's word before I go to bed." A load was at once removed from him. Though avowing himself an infidel, he now had full confidence in the bible; he was at once safe; he felt that the man who kept an old bible in the house, and read it, and bent his knees before his Maker, would do him no harm.—He listened to the prayers of the good man, at once dismissed his fears, and lay down at that rude cabin and slept as calmly as he did under his father's roof.

DEATH FROM A CHESTNUT SHELL.—A little daughter of Mr. West, who resides near Cooper's Furnace, Northampton county, while eating chestnuts, a few days since, got a piece of shell in her throat, which caused death in a very short time. The doctor was sent for, but before he reached the house, the child was dead. She was about eighteen months old. Care should be taken when such little ones are given anything of that kind to eat.

See advertisement of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative in another column.

MARRIED.

At the residence of the bride's mother, on the 17th inst., by Rev. J. Fletcher, Mr. JAMES McCORMICK and Miss BARBARA REED, all of Barre township, Huntingdon Co. On the 18th inst., by Rev. A. M. Barnett, Mr. JOHN SWANZ and Miss FANNY KIMS, both of this place. With the above notice, we received a handsome slice of the cake; for which the happy party have our thanks.

DIED.

THE "GREAT REPUBLIC" MONTHLY.—TO THE PUBLIC THE BOOK AND PERIODICAL TRADE, AND THE PRESS.—We have the honor to announce that we shall issue, on or about the 1st of December, next, a new and interesting work, entitled "THE GREAT REPUBLIC," which will be published in the early attention of the public and the periodical trade, the first number of a NEW ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE, to be called "THE GREAT REPUBLIC." It is intended to make this Magazine superior in every respect to anything ever before issued in this country. Its general scope of its character can best be understood by its name. It will be a MONTHLY MAGAZINE—no wise SECTIONAL OR SECTARIAN, and wholly IMPARTIAL. It will offer to the writers and thinkers of this Union a comprehensive and complete record of the highest ground of contemporary literature. It will aim to gather about it every variety of intellect. The scope of articles will be wide and original, covering, among other grounds, Essays, Sketches, Humorous Tales, Stories, Historical Incidents, Reviews, Critiques, Biographical Notices, &c., &c. The Magazine will be profusely illustrated in the highest style of art. The Literary department will present greater variety, combined with more thorough excellence, it is believed, than any other monthly or quarterly publication. The following authors and popular writers are included in the list of contributors engaged: GEO. D. PRENTISS, JOHN G. SARGE, CHAS. E. ALDRICH, EDWARD S. GURDY, EDWARD S. GURDY, CHAS. F. BRIDGES, W. H. CHASE, WM. H. C. HOOPER, GEO. W. PECK, J. M. COLEMAN, JOHN R. THOMPSON, FRED. S. COZZENS, J. B. REQUENOT, JOHN R. THOMPSON, U. S. A. LEVI REUBEN, THOS. DUNN ENGLISH, REV. J. G. COPELAND, REV. NEWELL A. PRINCE, HENRY B. HIRST, HENRY B. HIRST, THOMAS M. SMITH, ANNA C. BOTTA, LOUISA (Miss Lynch), MARIAN J. McINTOSH, ALICE B. HAVEN, MARIAN J. McINTOSH, MARY A. RICE, ADA M.
