Letter of a Dying Wife.

The following most touching fragment of a letter from a dying wife to her husband, says the Nashville Gazette, was found by him some months after her death, between the leaves of a religious volume which she was very fond of perusing. The letter, which was lit-erally dim with her tear-marks, was written long before her husband was aware that the grasp of fatal disease had fustened upon the heart. How thankful we should be for the lovely form of his wife, who died at the early age of ninetcen:

"When this shall reach your eye, dear away forever, and the cold white stone will be keeping its lonely watch over the lips you have so often pressed, and the sod will be growing green that shall hide forever from then-how we love to dwell upon the your sight the dust of one who has often nestled close to your warm heart. For many long and sleepless nights, when all beside my thoughts were at rest, I have wrestled with consciousness of approaching death, now, in our sterner years, to dwell upon the until at last it has forced itself upon my mind; thoughts of boyhood. Now, that the troubles and although to you and to others it might now seem but the nervous imagining of a girl, yet, dear George, it is so! Many weary nights have I passed in the endeavor to reconcile myself to leaving you, whom I loved of business, we have no time to enact childso well, and this bright world of sunshine and heauty; and hard indeed it is to struggle on silently and alone, with the sure conviction that I am about to leave all forever and go down into the dark valley ! "But I know in whom I have believed,' and leaning on His arm, 'I fear no evil.' Do not blame me for keeping even all this from you. How could I subject you, of all others, to such sorrow as I feel at parting, when time will soon make it apparent to you! I could have wished to live, if only to be at your side when your time shall come, and pillowing your given to retrospective musings? Why should head on my breast, wipe the death-damps from your brow, and usher your departing spirit into its Maker's presence, embalmed in woman's holiest prayer. But it is not to be. and I submit. Yours is the privilege of blot out from the memory some scenes in the watching, through long and dreary nights, for the spirits final flight, and of transferring their hanny times to nonder over, as well as my sinking head from your breast to my Sathought, and the last faint pressure of the hand, and the last feeble kiss shall be yours, and even when flesh and heart shall have failed me, my eyes shall rest on yours until glazed by death; and our spirits shall hold one last communion until gently fading from my view-the last of earth-you shall mingle with the first bright glimpse of the unfading glories of the better world, where partings are unknown. Well do I know the spot, my dear George, where you will lay me; often we stood by the place, and as we watched the mellow sunset, as it glanced in quivoring flashes through the leaves, and burnished the grassy mounds around us with strines of burnished gold, each, perhaps, has thought that some day one of us would come alone, and whichever it might be, your name would be on the stone. But we loved the spot, and I know you will love it none the less, when you see the same quiet sunlight linger and play among the grass that grows over your Mary's grave. I know you will go there, and my spirit will be with you then, and whisper among the waving branches :- 'I am not lost, but gone before." A SINGULAR AND FATAL ACCIDENT-A Man Lives a Day with the Pop of his Head Cut Off --- An accident occurred in a pottery in the lower end of Fort street, in the outin the death of an employee of the establishment, which furnishes a most singular instance of the tenacity with which life clings, at times, to the human frame. The man, whose name we have been unable to ascertain, was engaged in the room where the machinery employed in cutting and pulverizing the clay is situated. This machine is a large wheel, with heavy knives or cutters placed at equal distances on its circumference. Some disarrangement of this wheel attracted the attention of the unfortunate man, who attempted to reach into the wheel and adjust it while it was still revolving. In this however, he miscalculated the speed at which the machineary was running, and before he could withdraw himself from under the knife, it struck him on the back of the head, low down in the neck, completely severing the upper and back portion of the skull. on a line close to the top of the cars, and cutting through and removing a considerable portion of the brain. The most singular circumstances was that the man, in this horribly wounded condition walked into an adjoining apartment where other workmen were, and afterwards walked to a carriage which he rode home in, surviving the accident nearly half a day. We doubt if another case of such extreme tenacity of life can be found in the records of accidents, but the actual occurrence of the above circumstances is vouched for by competent authorities, and is beyond a doubt.-Detroit Free Press AN EXTRAORDINARY HORSE STORY .--- The Bonham, (Texas) Independent tells of a horse which escaped from his owner in May last, and was found seven weeks after, a mile and a half from the house. He had twenty feet of rope tied to his neck when he got away, and this had become fastened to a bush, and kept the horse all that time. The horse had only twelve feet of the lariat to play upon .-only twelve feet of the lariat to play upon.— He had bitten off two elm saplings four inch-es in diameter, and eaten the stumps to the very ground and also the trunks and limbs happy time in the valley beneath, with their happy time in the selighs and the merry jingle of the sleigh-bells. A Scaup—The Chambersburg Spirit says can" horse of good size, and was fat when he escaped-when found he was a perfect skeleton. Great caution was observed in giving him water and food after he was found, and he rapidly recovered his flesh. LAZINESS A DISEASE .- Laziness is a bad disease, and like many other kinds, is often self-imposed. In the case of many individuals, it is an inherited malady, and consequently hard to cast from the system. But black hair, and rather extravagantly dressit is often the case that this disgusting temper is brought on persons by their own deliberate selfishness-by a vastly discreditable disposition to shirk the inevitable burdens incident to living a decent life. Laziness of this kind is one of the cardinal sins, and should subject the obnoxious offender to the discipline of the tread-mill. More particularly is laziness offensive in the young and healthy. To learn to work, and work cheerfully, is the central lesson of life. Begin to learn it early -eschew laziness as the most dispusting of all faults, and one that will surely end in hopeso insensible through laziness as to be, in the end, incapable of suffering. Nature is, in the event of a non-payment of her demands, a stern and merciless creditor.

THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, Dec. 8, 1858.

Locals. NG While musing on the past, many scenes of by-gone days recur to the mind, which bring back joy and gratitude to the many blessings which the Creator has endowed upon us. Thankful for the power of

George, some day when you are turning over | memory-thankful for the pleasant scenes the relies of the past, I shall have passed and pleasures of the past, which daily occur to our mind. Oh! how often we think of childhood's sunny hours. How dear to us thoughts of them now. When no earthly, care troubled our little brain-then-then we were happy. It makes us feel happy and cares of a busy world, are involved upon our mind-now, that we are one of the many who are daily occupied in the pursuits hoed's scenes over again, nor have we any desire, for years of discretion have taught us to think of more useful employment. Life is but a sunshine, no telling what moment a dark cloud may encircle our brow, and hide our face from the gaze of the world. The happiest moments of a man's life, says Sydney Smith, are while dwelling upon the scenes and sports of childhood. Who is not we not make ourselves happy by dwelling upon the thoughts of the past? True, it would be better for some of us, could we their happy times to ponder over, as well as vior's bosom ! And you shall share my last those whose past life has no act which they would stain from the Book of Life.

FORGER ARRESTED .--- On Sunday morning last, Michael Betz, of Lebanon county, was arrested at Mr. Whittaker's, on Warrior Ridge, by Joseph Shontz, a constable of Lebanon borough. It appears that about a year ago, Betz forged a note in his father-in-law's name, on the Bank of Lebanon, for $1500, and as it was about coming due, he left for parts unknown, whereupon, the officers of the Bank sent an officer of the law, after him. The officer followed him West as far as Kansas, then back again as far as Mr. Whittaker's, where he arrested him, while sitting comfortably behind the stove reading a book.

RELIGIOUS .- There will be a sermon delivered in the German language in the German Reformed Church, on next Saturday morning, at eleven o'clock, and in the evening there will be a sermon preached in the English language. At eleven o'clock, Sunday morning, the Lord's Supper will be administered by the Rev. Mr. Reid. Those wishing to join the Church, will make application to the Rev. Reid previous to that time.

A RICH FEAST .- On Thursday evening last, we visited, by invitation, the LADIES' OYSTER SALOON just opened and fitted up in handsome style, by Mr. E. C. Summers, opposite Jackson's Hotel. The oysters served up were large and very fine, and the table cxtras ahead of any we ever saw furnished in the best city Saloons. Give Mr. S. a call and judge for yourselves, of the accommodations he offers.

KA Teachers Institute will be held in this place, commencing Dec. 27th inst., and continuing for three days. We may expect continuing for three days. We may expect this meeting of Teachers to be one of more than usual interest, as learned and experien-ced gentlemen will be in attendance to take next in the proceedings part in the proceedings.

1 Our young friend, Harry Swivel, has been promoted to the post of baggage-master, between Harrisburg and Lancaster. May success attend him.

BROAD TOP DEER .- We have lately noticed several deer arrived by the cars from Broad Top region. They are said to be pleaty this season.

GREAT BARGAINS!!

When the officer made known his errand, "Why," says the fellow, "is'nt that fixed up yet. I am glad you come. I was going to walk home, when my foot got well." It appears also, that he has forged several notes previous to this one, on the same bank, and in his father-in-law's name, but was more successful than in this case, with which he went West and speculated in cartle, &c., but skirts of the city, some days since, resulting he was not very successful in his speculations. The fellow was not aware that the officer was after him, until he was arrested. By some means or other, he lost all the money he had with him, and we suppose he was stopping at Mr. Whittaker's to recruit, preparatory to starting on a "tramp" for home. He seemed very much pleased that the officer should come after him, and was willing to accompany him back. The officer brought him to this borough and lodged him in jail until Monday morning, when he proceeded with him to Lebanon. The officer was six weeks in pursuit of him, at a cost to the Bank of $200. Such rogues as Betz deserve the full extent of the law, and it would be nothing unfair, should be get what his crime so richly deserves. The officer deserves credit for his vigilant and untiring industry, in following the rascal up so closely.

is a combination of ingredients, each and every one apply-ing a perfect antidote to its apposite disorder. DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR in its effects is magical, because the time is so short be-tween discase and a permanent cure; and it is an extractor, as it draws all discase out of the alterted part. leaving na-ture as perfect as before the injury. It is scarcely neces-sary to say that no house, work-shop, or manufactory should be one moment without it. No Pain Extractor is gennine, unless the box has upon it a steel plate engraving, with the name of Henry Dalley, Manufacturer.
