BE Courteous.—To be courteous is simply to be civil and obliging, and even condescending to our equals and our inferiors .-And it is no bad trait in a man's character. if he is seen to be courteous in his intercourses and the transactions of his business with his fellow-men. Indeed, this is one of those traits in human conduct, which serves very much to draw men together-to fill their hearts with friendly feelings one towards another, and to inspire them with a disposition to assist each other when it may be necessary so to do. That man stands greatly in his own light, who neglects to cultivate and maintain this very spirit; for it is this which will invariably secure him the respect of those around, and enable him to succeed and prosper in his business. To prove this statement, allow us to call attention to the following anecdote:

One day, a certain gentleman was passing up one of the principal streets of an Eastern city, when he met a wealthy, a very courteous old Quaker. Addressing him by name, said he-" My friend, will you please tell me the secret of your success in business?"-The old gentleman instantly replied-"Courtesy." "And what next?" said his inquirer. "Courtesy." "And what next?" he continued. "Courtesy." "And is this all?" said he. "Fes"-replied the old Friend .-"I have made my fortune by being courteous. When I was a young man and did business for others, I always made it a point to be courteous, and obliging, and I never lost anything by being so. And when I commenced business for myself, it was on a very small scale, for I was poor, and had only myself to depend upon; yet I always took good care to treat people as I wished them to treat me. When I met them on the street, I was courteous. When they came into my store, and wished to look at my goods, instead of cutting them off with a short word or a gruff answer, I tried to be courteous. And when a neighbor came to me, and wished me to do him a favor, if it was in my power, I always tried to treat him courteously. And now, when I look back over my life, and search for the secret of my success, I cannot fail to find it in that little word courtesy.

MATHEMATICS REDUCED TO A SCIENCE .-Mr. Editor:- Having observed in your last issue, an offer by a certain professional gentleman, to solve problems for $25 each, and being a good deal proud of my mathematical abilities, besides having a natural and innocent desire to increase my pile, I have concluded to put my abilities, aforesaid, in the market, and do therefore offer to solve all problems in Arithmetic, Algebra, Geom-Navigation, or Astronomy, at the reduced sured, or no charge made. A reasonable share of public patronage is respectfully so-

WASTED TIME.-This is one thing, says a practical cotemporary, that the twilight of a year should find earnest people thinking about. With the brevity of life, written in the mould of graves and sounded on every breeze from the belfry, for the text, the sermon may be easily wrought from every one's experience. Think of the wasted hours!-How many in downright idleness-in the leaden lethe of unneeded and unwholesome sleep-in aimless lounging-in cold-blooded time-killing! How many in selfish longing and bitter grumbling at Fate! How many in silly, vain, injurious conversation! How many in unpleasant and unprofitable and peace destroying reading! How many in dizzy and blind pursuit of Happiness in places where she never folds her heaven-gilded wings! How many, thus, in the glare about him, and he was cherished as a treasure to be acand turmoil of festive halls, over whose threshold Sincerity and Truth and Good De- ble in a child of his age. Beloved and beautiful, he has sire are never taken; at feasts that foment gone to his grave as a dew-drop, which leaves the lily in passion and foster pride and conduce to nextmorning anger and bitterness; at dreary ceremonials over which ostentation presides and not affection, Fashion and not feeling; at entertainments of coarse and degrading tendency, where Innocence is made to blush, and Purity to gather close her spotless robes! How many in utter prostitution of the high faculties of God's giving! How many in stony indifference to the pure beauties and delights of Nature, and contemptuous disregard of her many lessons! Every heart has an account like this to settle. Only fools will put off the day of reckoning. Better now than by-and-by, when there shall be no clean page left in the Book of Life.

Some of our young people had quite a party out at the Warm Springs on New Year's evening. They came rather unexpectedly on the proprietor, but he soon had everything in ample order, and the young 'uns "pitched in" and enjoyed themselves amazingly for a short time, and after partaking of a magnificent supper, returned home, greatly delighted with the sport of the even-

To Business Men.—In recommending people to advertise daily, weekly, monthly, perpetually, an exchange gives the following

1st. It gives the appearance of a desire to do business on fair and liberal terms.

2d. It is a compliment to the community in the nature of an invitation, to call upon you, which they will generally attempt, either out of curiosity or out of gratitude for the trouble of telling where they can find the articles they may be in search of. In either case you may make a trade if you are reasonable, and if not, you will find out the state of the market, and govern yourself

3d. To advertise liberally, to have your name continually before the public in connexion with your business, shows that you are neither ashamed of your name or your

4th. It looks like enterprise, and most people prefer to deal with enterprising men rather than crusty old fogies, who stand behind their counters or in their work shops, sulkily defying the world to deal with them if they choose, or dare to leave it alone.

5th. It supports newspapers, which in turn affords immense benefit to humanity.

If these reasons are not sufficient, we ask our readers to look at the fact, that hardly a man flourishes without advertising, and those who advertise the most, are the most flour-

THE FIRST OF THE SEASON.—For a few days past, we have had tolerable good sleighingthe first of the season. On Monday night, we had another fall of snow, which, we presume, will improve it very much. Who does not love to hear the tintinabulations of the merry sleigh bells? We predict rich sport for our young people, if the sleighing improves, and an abundant harvest for our Livery stable proprietors. "Go it while you're young, little ones, for when you are old you can't," and "never mind the weather, when the wind don't blow," or the chilling blast, as it sweeps by, peering into every nook and corner, as though in search of some hidden treasure, but "go in lemons," if you do get

Runaway.—On Thursday last, a horse attached to a sleigh, while passing along the street, in charge of two boys, became frightened and unmanageable, and dashed up the street at a frightful speed, running against a post, which detached the shafts from the sleigh. Fortunately, no one was hurt. Persous should be careful how they trust boys with horses, for when they become frightened, there is no telling what danger may occur. The horse and sleigh belonged to Judge

An answer of some kind in- Hope our sporting gentlemen will not give it up, but at the first favorable opportunity show their skill shooting at a target, blindfolded, with an auger, and wheeling a wheelbarrow at a stake, blindfolded, sixty yards, and hit the mark every time, "over the left."

ORE THAN 500,000 BOTTLES SOLD IN THE NEW ENGLAND STATES IN ONE LEAR.—The Restorative of Prof. O. J. Wood for restoring hair perfectly and permanently, has never yet had a rival, volume after volume might be given from all parts of the world, and from the most intelligent, to prove that it is a perfect Restorative; but read the circular and you cannot doubt; read also the following:

The Hair.—People have for centuries been afflicted with bald heads and the only remedy, heretofore known, has been those abominable wigs. By a recent discovery of Professor Wood these articles are being fast dispensed with, but a great many persons still patronize them, because they have been so often imposed upon by Hair Tonics of different kinds. To all such persons we carnestly make the request, that they will try once again, for in Wood's Restorative there is no such thing as fail. We know of a lady who was bald, who used the article a short time, and her head is now covered completely with the tiniest and most beautiful curls imaginable. We know of numerous cases where hair was rapidly falling out, which numerous cases where hair was rapidly falling out, which it restored in greater perfection than it ever had been be-

It is also without doubt one of the best articles for keeping the hair in good condition, making it soft and glossy, removing dandruff, and has proved itself the greatest enemy to all the ills that hair is heir to. est enemy to all the ills that hair is heir to.

It is the duty of every one to improve their personal appearance though some may differ in regard to the ways of doing it; but every one will admit that a beautiful head of hair, either in man or woman, is an object much that the strength of the latest that the second property of the strength of the latest that the second property is an object much to be desired, and there are no means that should be left intried to obtain such a consideration .- Woman's Advo-

Ear Ache, Piles, Soro Eyes, Gout, Swellings, Rheumatism, Scald Head, Salt Rheum Baldness, Erysipelas, Ringworm, Barber's Itch, Small Pox, Measles, Rash, &c. To some, it may appear incredulous that so many diseases should be reached by one article; such an idea will vanish when reflection points to the fact, that the salve is a combination of ingredients, each and every one applying a perfect autidote to its apposite disorder.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR in its effects is magical, because the time is so short between disease and a permanent cure; and it isan extractor, as it draws all disease out of the affected part, leaving nature as perfect as before the injury. It is scarcely necessary to say that no house, work-shop, or manufactory should be one moment without it.

No Pain Extractor is genuine, unless the box has upon it a steel plate engraving, with the name of Henry Dalley, it a steel plate engraving, with the name of Henry Dalley, Manufacturer.
