11480 AN IMPROVEMENT BADLY NEEDED .- The side-walks to the Public Schools and Cemetery. It is to be hoped some improvement of these walks will be made before another win-

Marper's Magazine, Godey's Lady's Book, Peterson's Ladies' Magazine, and the Great Republican, for March, are for sale at Lewis' Book Store. These Magazines are the best published, and can be had regularly every month.

We have received a catalogue of the Cassville Seminary-and we should judge, from the long list of students given, that'the Institution is liberally patronized. Certain it is, the Faculty are fully competent, and as far as we have been able to learn, have given general satisfaction.

Snow.-On Friday and Saturday last, it snowed to the depth of about ten or twelve inches, but ere it had ceased to fall it began to melt faster than it fell, leaving the streets in a most deplorable condition; and at present writing, snow is only to be seen in spots, where the rays of old Sol could not pene-

The new dwellings of Theo. H. Cremer, Esq., and Dr. R. A. Miller, on Hill street, below the Court House, are nearly finished, and are beautiful specimens of the gentlemen's tastes in architecture. That of Mr. Cremer, is a house complete; perhaps the best arranged in every particular of any in LECTURE ON CHINA .- On Friday evening last, the Rev James Colder, of Harrisburg, for some time a missionary to China, gave a very interesting lecture in the Court House in this place, to a large and intelligent audience. Many stories of China, the correctness of which most of ar citizens have had doubts were repeated by him and given as orthodox.

Our Borough fathers have commenced putting up gas lamps at several points in the ancient borough. Light in our streets when the nights are dark, will be a great improvement. The next best improvement will be the election of officers who will rid our streets of the rowdies who make night hide-

Who will be the first Customers.—We have now on hand for sale, a magnificent Marriage Certificate. Several young ladies and young gentlemen have already expressed a desire to have their names occupy the blanks in the Certificates, and we should not be surprised if the desire to possess these handsome Certificates, should induce many to "hurry up the cakes." A supply always on hand for the accommodation of Clergymen and their customers.

We are gratified to learn that we are to have a continuous railroad from this place to Bedford. The road from Hopewell to Bedford will be let early in April, and it is confidently expected that by this time next year the Broad Top train will run through to Bedford, securing all the travel to the Springs to the Huntingdon route.

The Bedford Company fully organized last week, electing as President, Hon. Wm. P. Schell, of Bedford. We have not a list of Directors, and other officers, at hand.

A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT .- On Tuesday evening of last week, we beheld in the Heavens, one of the grandest sights we ever beheld .-The Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights were out in unusual splendor, and excited the admiration of our good citizens. We never before gazed upon them when they were so bright. We watched them long and silently, thinking of the wondrous workings of God. Some of our good old women-folks were superstitious, lest some evil was approaching, but we assured them that all was right, and that it was only the Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights.

. We had the pleasure of being present at an Exhibition in the church at Spruce Creek, on Friday night last, given by the school under the charge of Rev. John Brown. The young men composing the Huntingdon Continentals were also in attendance, and added much to the entertainment by frequently giving the audience a favorite song. The house was crowded, and all left well pleased with the exercises.

On Saturday evening the Continentals visited McConnellstown, by invitation, and gave a Concert in the Methodist Church, to a house filled to overflowing. Mr. Robert Mc-Divitt, of this place, being called on, delivered an excellent address on vocal music. After the Concert was over, they repaired to the house of Mr. Henry Barrick, where a most sumptuous repast was prepared for them, which was dispatched in true Ameri-

Mr. Lewis:—From Shade Gap, I took my way through the gaps of the mountains to Springfield. The southern part of Black-Log valley, sometimes called Lock's valley, is narrow, rugged, and at first sight would appear unproductive; but here we find the best quality of limestone, and every indication of MR. LEWIS:-From Shade Gap, I took my good soil. A considerable portion of Springfield and Clay townships requires patience and skill to render farming profitable; but it is certainly a mistaken notion to suppose the land poor, and unsuited to most kinds of grain. In Springfield, a "red-shale" abounds particularly in the central part of the township, which exhibits a more rapid decomposition of that rock, than any other that I have observed in any part of the country.-The washing of neglected fields exhibits a good depth of soil; and skill will certainly ead to its successful tillage. In both these townships, a little care of meadow lands would produce three tons of timothy to the acre, where only half of that amount is now produced-much of the product being wild grass. I have heard it repeated several times, that raising cattle was not profitable, because they must have grain to do well. North of us, where the winters are four weeks longer than here, good cattle are raised, by feeding timothy, sheltering, and a meagre allowance of grain or esculent roots. My observation in this part of our State has been extensive. and I am persuaded that, by a proper improvement of meadow lands, and by properly sheltering live-stock in winter, the farmers' interest will be greatly advanced. My opinion is not the result of careless observation, and if convenient, I shall soon offer an essay on the improvement of meadow lands. Springfield labors under an inconvenience occasioned by the crooked, bridgeless Aughwick. I forded this stream four times in one day, and felt competent for Pike's Peak or any other felt competent for Pike's Peak or any other place, as I left the river the last time.

blace, as I left the river the last time.

From Scottsville, I took my way towards

Clear Ridge and Sideling Hill

On the west Clear Ridge and Sideling Hill. On the west side of Clay, red-shale indicates a productive Genius of the Spring, by Maria B. Hawes, Gleam of Autumn's Golden Days, by Colman, Grave of Uncle True, by Colman, Grave of Uncle True, by Colman, Gra Gial Machree, an Irish Ballad, by Crouch, some fields once cultivated, are now nearly abandoned. This cannot be from a want of productiveness. In Clay, as in many other townships, attempts are made to cultivate the poorest kind of land, while valuable tracts, intended for the plaw and the state of the stat of this region is yet in its native state, and Hear me, Norma, Heary, by Rodwell, tracts, intended for the plow and the seythe, are left undisturbed by either. Two days ago, when I entered the township, the skies were clear as June, the blue-birds were singing in the groves, flocks roamed over the fields, and boys froliced among the sugar trees: to-day the world is dark with snow, the blue-bird is complaining from the thickets, and I have time to send you those few lines, though destitute of interest.

It has been my intention to offer a brief commentary on the road system, road making, hardships endured, and labor lost, but time May Breeze, by Kappe will not now admit of it; and I shall defer it until a more convenient season. Little kindnesses received, little incidents of familiar life, and the mineral springs of Clay, will be noticed in another letter.
