Sabbath-Bay Musings.

Christian Heroism. It is easy to die on the battle-field-to con-Front death there. There carthly prizes are won-stars, bright honors, are glittering nmid the sulphurous smoke; there earthly passions are to be gratified-my sister was wronged, my mother butchered, my little brother's brains dashed out against the wall. I am a man, and could believe the story told of our countrymen-how each, having got a bloody lock of the murdered woman's hair, sat down in awful, ominous silence, and, after counting the number that fell to each man's lot, rose to swear by the great God of Heaven that for every hair they would have a life .-Amid such scenes, with passions boiling, ven. geance calls for blood, hurling me, like a madman, on the edge of steel; and where the shout of charging comrades cheers him on, the soldier is swept on blazing guns and bristling bayonets, in a whirlwind of wild excitement. But to lie pining in a dungeon, and never hear the sweet voice of sympathy; to groan and shriek upon the rack, where cowled and shaven murderers are as devoid of pity as the cold stone walls around; to suffer as our fathers did, when calm and intrepid, they marched down that street to be hung up like dogs, for Christ's crown and kingdom, implies a higher courage, is a far nobler, manlier, holier thing. Yet thousands have so died for Jesus. Theirs has been the gentle, holy, heroic spirit of that soldier bov. whose story is one of the bright incidents that have relieved the darkness of recent horrors, and shed a halo of glory around the dreadful front of war. Dragged from the

So fit and useful is morning devotion, it ought not to be omitted without necessity.— If our circumstances will allow the privilege, it is a bad sign when no part of the morning is spent in prayer. If God finds no place in our mind at that early and peaceful hour, He will hardly recur to us in the tumults of life. If the benefits of the morning do not soften us, we can hardly expect the heart to melt with gratitude through the day. If the world then rush in and take possession of us, when we are at some distance and have had a respite from its cares, how can we hope to shake it off when we shall be in the midst of it, pressed and agitated by it on every side?-Let a part of the morning be set apart, if possible, to devotion; and to this end we should fix the hour at our disposal. Our piety is suspicious, if we can renounce, as too many do, the pleasures and benefits of early prayer rather than forego the senseless indulgence of unnecessary sleep. What! we can rise early enough for business. We can even anticipate the dawn, if a favorite pleasure or an uncommon gain request the effort. But cannot rise, that we may arm ourselves for the severe conflicts to which our principles are to be exposed! We are willing to rush into the world, without thanks offered or a blessing sought! From a day thus begun what are we to expect but thoughtlessness and guilt. Dr. Channing.

The Fulness of Christ.

The happiness we derive from creatures is like a beggar's garment—it is made up of pieces and patches, and is worth very little after all. But the blessedness we derive from the Saviour is single and complete. In him all fulness dwells. He is answerable to every condition. He is a physician to heal, a counsellor to plead, a king to govern, a friend to sympathize, a father to provide. He is a foundation to sustain, a root to enliven, a fountain to refresh. He is the shadow from the heat, the bread of life, the morning star, the sun of righteousness; all, and in all. No creature can be a substitute for him, but he can supply the place of every creature.-He is all my salvation, and all my desire; my hope, my peace, my life, my glory, and my joy. Whom have I in heaven but Thee? and there is none upon earth that I desire besides Thee. My flesh and my heart faileth, but Thou art the strength of my heart and my portion forever. I cannot be exposed, I cannot be friendless, I cannot be poor, I cannot be fearful, I cannot be sorrowful with Thee.

BRIGHT AND GLOOMY HOURS .- Ah! this beautiful world. Indeed, I know not what to think of it. Sometimes it is all gladness and sunshine, and heaven itself is not far off .-And then it changes suddenly and is dark and sorrowful, and the clouds shut out the sky. In the lives of the saddest of us there are bright days like this when we feel as if we could take the great world in our arms. Then come the gloomy hours, when the fire will neither burn in our hearts nor on our hearth, and all without and within is dismal, cold and dark. Believe me, every heart has its secret sorrows which the world knows not, and oftentimes we call a man cold when he is only sad.
