Content and Discontent.

Two little girls went into the fields to gather flowers. They found buttercups, dandelions, violets, and many other blossoms. One of the children was pleased with everything, and began to pick such flowers as she met with. In a little while this girl had collected quite a bunch of flowers; and though some of them were not very handsome, yet altogether they made a beautiful bouquet.

The other girl was more dainty, and determined to pick only such flowers as were very beautiful. She disdained to gather the dandelions, for they were so common; and she would not pluck the buttercups, for they were all of one color, and did not take her fancy. Even the blue violets were not enough for her. Thus the little pair wandered through the fields till they were about to return home. By this time the dainty child, seeing that her sister had a fine collection of flowers, while she had none, began to think it best to pick up such as she could get. A Nemesis had come upon the fastidious one. She who would only feed upon "nightingale's tongues," was at last glad to get the smallest crumb. The flowers became so scarce that not even a dandelion, a buttercup, or a violet was to be found; and the over fastidious one had to beg a single dandelion of her sister, and thus they returned home. On telling their story to their mother, she addressed them thus:

My children, let this little event teach you a useful lesson. Jane has been the wiser of the two. Content with such flowers as came in her way, and not aiming at what was beyond her reach, she has been successful in her pursuit, and has brought back a beautiful bunch of flowers. But Laura, who could not stop to pick up buttercups and dandelions, because she wanted something more beautiful than could be found, collecting nothing from the field, was finally obliged to beg a dandelion from her sister. Thus it will always happen, my children, in passing through life. If you are content with simple pleasures and innocent enjoyments, such as are scattered freely along your path, you will, day by day, gather enough to make you contented and happy. Seek not, then, for costly enjoyments or extravagant pleasures; be industrious in gathering those which are lawful, and which are adapted to your situation. In this way you will cultivate a contented spirit and secure your own peace. If, on the other hand, you disdain enjoyments that are suited to your taste and capacity, you will be hard to please, and perpetual discontent will dwell in your bosom. Thus you will see that one course will result in something better than riches, while the other will bring evils that are worse than poverty.-The Moralista

The Beauty of the Heavens.

How delightful is it to contemplate the Heavens! They are "stretched out as a curtain to dwell in!" Not only as far as the human eye can see, but beyond the remotest boundary which the highest telescopic power can reach, does the etherial firmament extend! We can find no limit, no boundary. Millions of miles may be traversed from any given point of space, and still the heavens appear illimitable. And with what gorgeous splendor and magnificence is that curtain adorned! In every direction it is studded with worlds, suns and systems, all harmoniously moving in perfect and undeviating obedience to the Almighty will. The soul in such a contemplation is absorbed. Earth ceases to hold us with its silver chain. The mind, set free from grovelling pursuits, mounts up, as on the wings of an eagle, and soars away through immensity of space, surveying and admiring the innumerable revolving orbs, which like so many "crowns of glory," and "diadems of beauty," bespangle that firmament "whose antiquity is of ancient days," and which so powerfully attest that "the hand that made them is divine!" The immense distance of fixed stars claims our attention, and awakens the most enrapturing feelings in the mind.—
Reason is compelled to give the reins to imagination, which tells us there are stars so distant that their flight has been shining since the creation, and yet, amazingly rapid

READY-MADE CLOTHING, as light travels, no ray from them has yet reached us! "The heavens truly declare the glory of God," and, in beholding such a display of glory and beauty, we are deeply impressed with its manifestation of the power of the Creator, who sustains, upholds and preserves such myriads of ponderous revolving bodies, each in its orbit, moving in unerring obedience to His will.

STUDYING DIVINITY.—The object of the great Master, in sending forth men to preach the gospel, is to save the souls of the perishing; and a successful ambassador of Christ must know how men feel; he must enter into their sorrows and their joys; he must understand the perplexities of the business man, the anxieties of the farmer, the sorrows of the poor, and the temptations of the rich.-A man who has only studied divinity, is not fitted for the work of the ministry. He must have studied humanity, also—he must be a living, thinking man, with power to catch and transmit the electric current of sympathy, that God-given telegraph among human souls .- Ilxchange.

There are few men, who, were they certain of death on their seventieth birthday, would think of preparation. To-morrow may be the gate of an eternity, and they go on in their felly.

"After trying several different good machines, I preferred yours, on account of its simplicity, and the perfect ease with which it is managed, as well as the strength and durability of the seam. After long experience, I feel competent to speak in this manner, and to confidently recommend it for every variety of family sewing."—Mrs. E. B. Spooner, wife of the Editor of Brooklyn Star.

"I have used a Grover & Baker Sewing Machine for two years, and have found it adapted to all kinds of family sewings, from Cambrie to Broadcloth. Garments have been worn out without the giving way of a stitch. The Machine is easily kept in order, and easily used."—Mrs. A. B. Whipple, wife of Rev. Geo. Whipple, New Fork.

"Your Sewing Machine has been in use in my family the past two years, and the ladies request me to give you their testimonials to its perfect adaptedness, as well as labor-saving qualities in the performance of family and household sewing."—Robert Boorman, New York.

"For several months we have used Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and have come to the conclusion that every lady who desires her sewing beautifully and quickly done, would be most fortunate in possessing one of these reliable and indefatigable 'iron needle-women,' whose combined qualities of beauty, strength and samplicity, are invaluable."—J. W. Morris, daughter of Gen. Geo. P. Morris, Editor of the Home Journal.

Extract of a letter from Thos. R. Leavitt, Esq., an American gentleman, now resident in Sydney, New South Wales, dated January 12, 1858:

"I had a tent made in Melbourne, in 1853, in which there were over three thousand yards of sewing done with one of Grover & Baker's Machines, and a single seam of that has outstood all the double seams sewed by sailors with a needle and twine."

"If Homer could be called up from his murky hades, he would sing the advent of Grover & Baker as a more benignant miracle of art than was ever Vulcan's smithy. He would denounce midnight shirt-making as 'the direful spring of wees unnumbered."
