

The Housekeeper.

The Mistress of a Family. [Miss Malock, in her admirable book, "A Woman's Thoughts about Women," writes thus in the chapter bearing the above title.]

"I once heard a married lady say, with great glee and satisfaction: 'Oh, Mr. — saves me all trouble in housekeeping; he orders dinner, and goes to the butcher's to choose it, too; pays all bills, and keeps the weekly accounts; he never wants me to do anything.' Thought I privately, 'My dear, if I were you I should be very much ashamed both of myself and Mr. —'

"When a house boasts of both master and mistress, each should leave to the other the appointed work, and both qualify themselves rightly to fulfil the same, abstaining as much as possible from mutual interference. A man who can trust his wife or his housekeeper should no more meddle with her home concerns than she should pester him with questions about his business. No doubt countless occasions will arise when he will be thankful and glad to take counsel with her in worldly cares; while she may have to remember all her life long, and never think without a gush of gratitude and love, some season of sickness or affliction, when he filled his own place and hers too, ashamed of no womanish task, and neither irritated nor humiliated by even such mean household cares.

"A lady of my acquaintance gives it as her sine qua non of domestic felicity, that the 'men of the family' should always be absent at least six hours in the day. And truly a mistress of a family, however strong her affection for the male members of it, cannot but acknowledge that this is a great boon. A house where 'papa' or the 'boys' are always 'pattering about,' popping in and out at all hours, everlastingly wanting something, or finding fault with something else, is a considerable trial to even feminine patience. And I beg to ask my sex generally—in confidence of course—if it is not the greatest comfort possible when, the masculine half of the family being cleared out for the day, the house settles down into regular work and orderly quietness until evening?

"Also, it is good for them as well as for us, to have all the inevitable petty domestic 'bothers' go over in their absence; to effect which ought to be one of the principal aims of the mistress of a family. Let them, if possible, return to a quiet smiling home, with all its small annoyances brushed away like the dust and cinders from the grate—which en passant, is one of the first requisites to make a fire-side look comfortable. It might be as well, too, if the master himself could contrive to leave the worldly mud of the day at the scraper outside his door; however, as these chapters do not presume to lecture the lords of creation, I have nothing more to say on that score.

"But she who, the minute an unfortunate man comes home, fastens upon him with a long tale of domestic grievances real or imagined—how the butcher will never bring the meat in time, and the baker keeps a false account of loaves—how she is sure cook is given to drink, and that Mary's 'cousin' had his dinner off 'our' mutton yesterday—why, such a lady deserves all she gets: cold looks, sharp speeches, hasty plunges into the convenient newspapers; perhaps an angry cigar—walk with no invitation for her company—or the club. Poor little woman! sitting crying over her lonely fire, not owning that she is wrong, but only that she is very unhappy, and very much ill-used, might one recommend to her notice one golden rule?—'Never pester a man with things that he cannot remedy and does not understand.' Also, for her own benefit as well as his, a harmless rhyme, true enough of minor vexations, whatever it may be of the greater grief it so philosophically disposes of:

"For every evil under the sun There is a remedy—of there's none: If there is one, try and find it! If there isn't, never mind it!"

"And when he comes in again, honest man! perhaps a little repentant, too, there is but one course of conduct which I recommend to all sensible women, viz: to put her arms round his neck, and—hold her tongue."

shade. Inverted 4-inch flower-pots are excellent for this purpose; they may be taken off at night. The dews will so invigorate them, that the shade will only be required for a few days. Sometimes in September they may need a good watering; but this should never be attempted unless a thorough saturation of the bed is given; and in a few days after, the hoe and the rake should be employed to loosen and level the surface, which the heavy watering will, in all probability, have caused to bake and become very crusty.

Strawberries are best grown in beds about four feet wide for the convenience in gathering the seed, and giving them the best of cultivation. About three rows in a bed, and the plants one foot apart in the row, will be a good arrangement.—Gardener's Monthly.

GROVER & BAKER'S CELEBRATED FAMILY SEWING MACHINES.

New Styles—Prices from $50 to $125. Each Charge of $5 for Hemmers.

495 Broadway, New York. 730 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

These Machines sew from two spools, as purchased from the store, requiring no re-winding of thread; they Hem, Sew, Gather, and Stitch in an operation, finishing each seam by their own operation, without recourse to the hand-needle, as is required by other machines. They will cut cloth with a fine, sharp, and even edge, and even if she works for one cent an hour, and are, unquestionably, the best Machines in the market for family sewing, on account of their simplicity, durability, ease of management, and adaptation to all varieties of family sewing, including either heavy or fine work with equal facility, and without special adjustment.

As evidence of the unquestioned superiority of their Machines, the GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY beg leave to respectfully refer to the following TESTIMONIALS.

"Having had one of Grover & Baker's Machines in my family for nearly a year, and had it in my pleasure in commending it as every way reliable for the purpose for which it is designed—Family Sewing.—Mrs. Joshua Leavitt, wife of Rev. Dr. Leavitt, Editor of N. Y. Independent.

"I confess myself delighted with your Sewing Machine, which has been in my family for many months. It has cut cloth with a fine, sharp, and even edge, and even if she works for one cent an hour, and are, unquestionably, the best Machines in the market for family sewing, on account of their simplicity, durability, ease of management, and adaptation to all varieties of family sewing, including either heavy or fine work with equal facility, and without special adjustment.

"After trying several different good machines, I preferred yours, on account of its simplicity, and the perfect cut which it made, as well as the neatness, firmness, and durability of the seam. After long experience, I feel competent to speak in this manner, and to confidently recommend it to all who are desirous of procuring a Sewing Machine. I have used a Grover & Baker Sewing Machine for two years, and have come to the conclusion that no other machine has ever worn out without the giving way of a stitch. The Machine is easily kept in order, and easily used.—Mrs. A. B. HARRIS, wife of Rev. Dr. Harris, Editor of N. Y. Christian Advocate.

"Your Sewing Machine has been in use in my family the past two years, and the ladies request me to give you their personal and hearty commendation, and to state that they have never had any trouble in the performance of family and household sewing.—Robert Johnson, New York.

"For several months we have used Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and have come to the conclusion that no other lady who desires her sewing beautifully and quickly done, would be more fortunate in possessing one of these reliable and useful machines, in sewing, than we are. It is a valuable and beautiful, simple, and durable, and easy to use.—J. W. Morris, daughter of Gen. Geo. W. Morris, Editor of the Home Journal.
