TERMS OF THE GLOBE.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING. 1 insertion. Four lines or less,... One square, (12 lines,). Two squares,.....

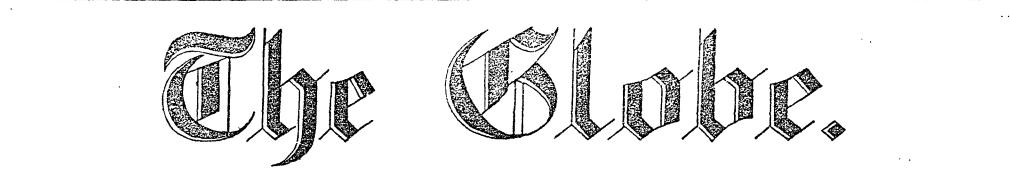

cording to these terms.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Fellow-Citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives :

Our deep and heart-felt gratitude is due to that Almighty Power which has bestowed upon us such varied and numerous blessings throughout the past year. The general health of the country has been excellent; our harvests have been unusually plentiful, and prosnotwithstanding our demerits, we have much reason to believe from the past events in our history, that we have enjoyed too special protection of Divine Providence ever since our origin as a nation. We have been exposed to many threatening and alarming difficulties in our progress; but on each successive occasion the impending cloud has been dissipated at the moment it appeared ready to burst upon our head, and the danger to our institutions has passed away. May we ever be under the divine guidance and protection !

Whilst it is the duty of the President "from time to time to give to Congress information of the state of the Union," I shall not refer in detail to the recent sad and bloody occurrences at Harper's Ferry. Still, it is proper to observe that these events, however bad and cruel in themselves, derive their chief importance from the apprehension that they are but symptoms of an incurable disease in the public mind, which may break out in still more | East and the West, will meet in the Territodangerous outrages and terminate at last in | ries on a common platform, having brought | one State, in accordance with its laws, canan open war by the North to abolish slavery in the South. Whilst for myself, I entertain no such apprehension, they ought to afford a solemn warning to us all to beware of the approach of danger. Our Union is a stake of such inestimable value as to demand our constant and watchful vigilance for its preservation. In this view, let me implore my coun- a foregone conclusion. Mcanwhile the settrymen, North and South, to cultivate the ancient feelings of mutual forbearance and good-will towards each other, and strive to and prosperity will not be endangered or re-allay the demon spirit of sectional hatred and tarded by violent political struggles. strife now alive in the land. This advice proceeds from the heart of an old public functionary whose service commenced in the last generation, among the wise and conservative statesmen of that day, now nearly all passed away, and whose first and dearest earthly wish is to leave his country tranquil, prosperous, united, and powerful. We ought to reflect that in this age, and | Kansas and Nebraska act, they " especially in this country, there is an incessant flux and reflux of public opinion. Ques- as their constitution may prescribe at the tions which in their day assumed a most threatening aspect, have now nearly gone from the memory of men. They are "volcanos burnt out, and on the lava and squalid of both houses of the late Congress. scorize of old eruptions grow the peaceful olive. the cheering vine and the sustaining corn." Such in my opinion, will prove to be the fate of the present sectional excitement, should those who wisely seek to apply the remedy. continue always to confine their efforts within the pale of the Constitution. If this course | have not been able to discover that any slaves | be pursued, the existing agitation on the sub- | have been imported into the United States exject of domestic slavery, like everything hu- | cept the eargo by the Wanderer, numbering | present he is treated with kindness and human, will have its day and give place to other | between three and four hundred. Those enand less threatening controversies. Public | gaged in this unlawful enterprise have been not over-worked. His condition is incompa- Shanghai on the 8th November, 1858 .- izens and the British subjects on the Island General Juarez, proceeded to form, at Guanopinion in this country is all-powerful, and when it reaches a dangerous excess upon any success as their crimes have deserved. A question, the good sense of the people will furnish the corrective and bring it back within safe limits. Still, to hasten this auspicious result, at the present crisis, we ought to remember that every rational creature must be presumed to intend the natural consequences of his own teachings. Those who announce abstract doctrines subversive of the Constitution and the Union, must not be surprised should their heated partisans advance one step further, and attempt by violence to carry these doctrines into practical effect.-In this view of the subject it ought never to be forgotten that, however great may have | only as might think proper to admit the imbeen the political advantages resulting from the Union to every portion of our common country, these would all prove to be as nothing should the time ever arrive when they cannot be enjoyed without serious danger to the personal safety of the people of fifteen members of the confederacy. If the peace of the domestic fireside throughout these States should ever be invaded-if the mothers of May, 1800. families within this extensive region should not be able to retire to rest at night without suffering dreadful apprehensions of what may be their own fate and that of their children before the morning-it would be vain to recount to such a people the political benefits which result to them from the Union. Selfpreservation is the first instinct of nature: and therefore any state of society in which the sword is all the time susnended over the heads of the people, must at last become intolerable. But I indulge in no such gluomy forebodings. On the contrary, I firmly believe that the events at Harper's Ferry, by causing the people to pause and reflect upon the possible peril to their cherished institutions, will be the means, under Providence, of allaying the existing excitement and preventing future outbreaks of a similar character. They will resolve that the Constitution 1808. and the Union shall not be endangered by rash counsels, knowing that, should "the silver cord be loosed or the golden bowl be broken * * at the fountain," human power could never reunite the scattered and hostile fragments. I cordially congratulate you upon the final settlement by the Supreme Court of the United States of the question of slavery in the Territories, which had presented an aspect so truly formidable at the commencement of my administration. The right has been es- fifty years ago in regard to the African slave tablished of every citizen to take his proper- trade ty of any kind, including slaves, into the common Territories belonging equally to all the States of the Confederacy, and to have it protected there under the Federal Constitution. Neither Congress nor a territorial legislature nor any human power has any authority to annul or impair this vested right. | that to prohibit Congress, in express terms, The supreme judicial tribunal of the country, from exercising a specified power before an which is a co-ordinate branch of the Govern- | appointed day, necessarily involved the right ment, has sanctioned and affirmed these prin- to exercise this power after that day had arciples of constitutional law, so manifestly | rived. just in themselves, and so well calculated to | If this were not the case, the framers of promote peace and harmony among the the Constitution had expended much labor in

WILLIAM LEWIS,

VOL. XV.

HUNTINGDON, PA., JANUARY 4, 1860.

-PERSEVERE.-

Even throughout the late troubles in Kansas there has not been any attempt, as I am cred-judiciary would doubtless have afforded an adequate remedy. Should they fail to do this hereafter, it will then be time enough to unnecessary to engraft on the fifth article of Ward, a distinguished citize strengthen their hands by further legislation. the Constitution, prescribing the mode of its perity smiles throughout the land. Indeed, Had it been decided that either Congress or own future amendment, the proviso, "that the territoritorial legislature possess the power to annul or impair the right to property in slaves, the evil would be intolerable. In the eight, shall in any manner effect" the prolatter event, there would be a struggle for a vision in the Constitution, securing to the majority of the members of the legislature at States the right to admit the importation of each successive election, and the sacred rights African slaves previous to that period. of property held under the Federal Constitution would depend for the time being on the result. The agitation would thus be rendered incessant whilst the territorial condition remained, and its baneful influence would keep alive a dangerous excitement among the people of the several States.

Thus has the status of a Territory, during the intermediate period from its first settlement, until it shall become a State, been ir- States, its efficient exercise would have been been faithfully redeemed. revocably fixed by the final decision of the impossible. In that event any one State Supreme Court. Fortunate has this been for could have effectually continued the trade the prosperity of the Territories, as well as not only for itself but for all the other slave for the tranquility of the States. Now, emi- | States, though never so much against their grants from the North and the South, the will. And why? Because African slaves, with them that species of property best adapted, in their own opinion, to promote their welfare. From natural causes the slavery question will in each case soon virtually settle itself; and before the Territory is prepared for admission as a State into the Union, this decision, one way or the other, will have been tlement of the new Territory will proceed without serious interruption, and its progress

When in the progress of events the inhabitants of any Territory shall have reached the number required to form a State, they will then proceed, in a regular manner, and in vancement in civilization has far surpassed the exercise of the rights of popular sover- that of any other portion of the African race. eignty, to form a constitution preparatory to The light and the blessings of Christianity admission iato the Union. After this has have been extended to them, and both their

States against the exercise of this power bethere has not been any attempt, as I am cred-itably informed, to interfere, in a single have attached such vast importance to this concluded at Tientsin on the 18th June, 1858, instance, with the right of the master. provision as to have excluded it from the pos- and was ratified by the President, by and Had any such attempt been made, the sibility of future repeal or amendment, to with the advice and consent of the Senate, on On the 15th December, 1858, John E. Ward, a distinguished citizen of Georgia, was duly commissioned as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to China. no amendment which may be made prior to He left the United States for the place of his destination on the 5th of February, 1859, bearing with him the ratified copy of this treaty, and arrived at Shanghai on the 28th May. From thence he proceeded to Peking on the 16th June, but did not arrive in that

According to the adverse construction, the clause itself, on which so much care and discussion had been employed by the mem-be exchanged on or before the 18th June, bers of the convention, was an absolute 1859. This was rendered impossible by reanullity from the beginning, and all that sons and events beyond his control, not neceshas since been done under it a mere usurpa- | sary to detail; but still it is due to the Chinese authorities at Shanghai to state that

It was well and wise to confer this power they always assured him no advantage should on Congress, because, had it been left to the be taken of the delay, and this pledge has requested an audience of the Emperor to present his letter of credence. This he did not obtain, in consequence of his very proper refusal to the humiliating ceremonies required when once brought within the limits of any by the etiquette of this strange people in approaching their sovereign. Nevertheless the not practically be excluded from any other interviews on this question were conducted State where slavery exists. And even if all in the most friendly spirit and with all due regard to his personal feelings and the honor the States had separately passed laws proof his country. When a presentation to his hibiting the importation of slaves, these laws Majesty was found impossible, the letter of would have failed of effect for want of a nacredence from the President was received val force to capture the slavers and to guard the coasts. Such a force no State can emwith peculiar honors by Kweiliang, "the Employ in time of peace without the consent of peror's prime minister and the second man Congress. in the empire to the Emperor himself." The

These acts of Congress, it is believed, have ratifications of the treaty were afterwards, on with very rare and insignificant exceptions, the 16th of August, exchanged in proper the 16th of August, exchanged in proper form at Pei-tsang. As the exchange did not take place until after the day prescribed by accomplished their purpose. For a period of more than half a century there has been no the treaty, it is deemed proper, before its publication, again to submit it to the Senate. perceptible addition to the number of our domestic slaves. During this period their adbeen done, to employ the language of the moral and physical condition has been great-the United States. It is true this has been ere long be accomplished. Kansas and Nebraska act, they "shall be re-ly improved.

justice which is inherent in our people, that would possess no power to prohibit the trade treaties have been concluded with China by in it, have had a happy effect in favor of our the property in slaves has never disturbed to either before or after 1808, they would not the respective ministers of the United States, have taken so much care to protect the Great Britain, France and Russia. Our the world. country throughout all that remote portion of "treaty, or general convention of peace, am-

Our relations with the great empires of France and Russia, as well as with all other governments on the continent of Europe, unless we may except that of Spain, happily continue to be of the most friendly character. In my last annual message I presented a

Editor and Proprietor.

NO. 28.

our relations with Spain; and I regret to say that this is not materially improved. Without special reference to other claims, even the "Cuban claims," the payment of which has been ably urged by our ministers, and in which more than a hundred of our citizens are directly interested, remain unsatisfied, notwithstanding both their justice and their amount ($128,635 54) has been recognized and ascertained by the Spanish government itself.

I again recommend that an appropriation be made "to be paid to the Spanish government for the purpose of distribution among the claimants in the Amistad case." In common with two of my predecessors, I entertain no doubt that this is required by our treaty with Spain of the 27th of October, 1795. The failure to discharge this obligation has been employed by the the cabinet of Madrid as a reason against the settlement of our claims.

I need not repeat the arguments which urged in my last annual message in favor of the aquisition of Cuba by fair purchase.-My opinions on that measure remain unchanged. I, therefore, again call the serious attention of Congress to this important subject. Without a recognition of this policy on their part, it will be almost impossible to institute negotiations with any reasonable prospect of success.

Until a recent period there was good rea-son to believe that I should be able to announce of you on the present occasion that our difficulties with Great Britian, arriving out of the Clayton and Bulwer treaty, had been finally adjusted in a manner alike honorable and satisfacory to both parties. From gress to the unhappy condition of that recauses however, which the British govern- public. ment had not anticipated, they have not yet completed treaty arrangements with the re-It is but simple justice to the Chinese au- publics of Honduras and Nicaragua, in pursuance of the understanding between the whole transaction, they appear to have acted two governments. It is, nevertheless, conin good faith and in a friendly spirit towards | tidently expected that this good work will

Whilst I do not deem it proper on the present occasion to go further into the subject, and discuss the weight which ought to be at-tached to the statements of the British colonial authorities, contesting the accuracy of the information on which the gallant General acted, it was due to him that I should thus present his own reasons for issuing the order to Captain Pickett. From these it is quite clear his object was to prevent the British authorities on Vancouver's island from exercising jurisdiction over American residents on the Island of San Juan, as well as to protect them against the incursions of the Indians.

Much excitement prevailed for some time throughout that region, and serious danger of collision between the parties was apprehended. The British had a large naval force in the vicinity; and it is but an act of simple ustice to the admiral on that station to state that he wisely and discreetly forbore to commit any hostile act but determined to refer the whole affair to his government and await their instructions.

This aspect of the matter, in my opinion, demanded serious attention. It would have been a great calamity for both nations had they been precipitated into acts of hostility not on the question of title to the island, but merely concerning what should be its condistatement of the unsatisfactory condition of tion during the intervining period whilst the two governments might be employed in settling the question to which of them it belongs. For this reason Lieutenant General Scott was dispatched on the 17th September last to Washington Territory to take immediate command of the United States forces on the Pacific coast should he deem this necessary. The main object of his mission was to carry out the spirit of the precautionary arrangement between the late Secretary of State and the British minister, and thus to preserve the peace and prevent collision between the British and American authorities pending the negotiations between the two governments .---Entertaining no doubt of the validity of our title, I need scarcely add that, in any event, American citizens were to be placed on a footing at least as favorable as that of British subjects, it being understood that Captain Pickett's company should remain on the Island. It is proper to observe that, considering the distance from the scene of action, and in ignorance of what have transpired on the spot before the General's arrival, it was necessary to leave much to his discretion, and I am happy to state the event has proven that this discretion could not have been entrusted to more competent hands. General Scott has recently returned from his mission, having successfully accomplished its objects, and there is no longer any good reason to apprehend a collision between the forces of the two countries during the pendency of the existing negotiations.

I regret to inform you that there has been no improvement in the affairs of Mexico since my last annual message, and I am again obliged to ask the earnest attention of Con-

The constituent Congress of Mexico, which adjourned on the 17th of February, 1857, adopted a Constitution and provided for a popular election. This took place in the fol-lowing July, 1857, and General Comonfort was chosen President, almost without opposition, at the same election a new Congress Whilst indulging the hope that no other was chosen, whose first session commenced subject remained which could disturb the on the 16th of September, 1857. By the tent with our national honor. The conduct claims of the parties to the Island of San and continue for four years. On that day of our minister on the occasion has received Juan, under the Oregon treaty of the 15th General Comonfort appeared before the asof June, 1846, suddenly assumed a threat- sembled Congress in the city of Mexico, took In order to carry out the spirit of this ening prominence. In order to prevent un- the oath to support the new Constitution, and of San Juan." To prevent this, the Gov- ajuata, a constitutional government. Before right over the premises. The title ought to tained his position with firmness, and was be settled before either party should attempt soon established with his cabinet at Vera the Republic, and even in the capital, a portion of the army having pronounced against and an assembly of citizens was invited for the choice of a new President. This assemsen, and Zuloago was thus restored to his position. He assumed it however, only to withdraw from it, and Miramon, having become, by his appointment, "President Sub-stitute," continues, with that title, at the head of the insurgent party-In my last annual message I communicated to Congress the circumstances under which the late Minister of the United States suspended his official relations with the Central Government, and withdrew from the country. It was impossible to maintain friendly intercourse with a government, like that at the Capital, under whose usurped authority wrongs were constantly committed, but never redressed. Had this been an established Government, with its power extending, by the consent of the people, over the whole of Mexico, a resort to hostilities against it would have been guite justifiable, and indeed necessary. But the country was a prey to civil war; and it was hoped that the success of the constitutional President might lead to a condition of things less injurious to the United States. This succes became so probable that, in January last, 1 employed a reliable agent to visit Mexico, and report to me the actual condition and prospect of the contending parties. In consequence of his report, and from information which reached me from other sources, favorable to the prospects of the constitutional cause, I felt justified in appointing a new Minister to Mexico, who might embrace the earliest suitable opportunity of restoring our diplomatic relations with that Republic. For this purpose a distinguished citizen of Maryland was selected, who proceeded on his mission on the 8th of March last, with discretionary authority to recognize the government of President Juarez, if on his arrival in Mexico he should find it entitled to such recognition, according to the established practice of the United States. On the 7th of April following, Mr. McLane presented his credentials to President Juarez, having no hesitation "in pronouncing the government of Juarez to be the only existing government of the ever, the Constitutional Government has not been able to establish its power over the ceived into the Union with or without slavery, time of their admission." This sound principle has happily been recognized, in some form or other, by an almost unanimous vote

All lawful means at my command have been employed, and shall continue to be em- ber, orderly, and quiet slaves, whose ancesployed, to execute the laws against the African slave-trade. After a most careful and This might tend to barbarize, demoralize, rigorous examination of our coasts, and a | and exasperate the whole mass, and produce thorough investigation of the subject, we most deplorable consequences. rigorously prosecuted; but not with as much number of them are still under prosecution. Our history proves that the Fathers of the Republic, in advance of all other nations, condemned the African slave trade. It was, notwithstanding, deemed expedient by the framers of the Constitution to deprive Congress of the power to prohibit "the migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit," "prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight."

It will be seen that this restriction on the power of Congress was confined to such States portation of slaves. It did not extend to the other States or to the trade carried on abroad. Accordingly, we find that so early as the 22d March, 1794, Congress passed an act imposing severe penalties and punishments upon citizens and residents of the United States who should engage in this trade between foreign nations. The provisions of this act were extended and enforced by the act of 10th of

Again: The States themselves had a clear right to waive the constitutional privilege intended for their benefit, and to probibit, by their own laws, this trade at any time they thought proper previous to 1808. Several of them exercised this right before that period, and among them some containing the greatest immediate power to act in regard to all such the constitutional barrier. Congress accordingly passed an act on 28th February, 1803, to prevent the importation of certain persons into certain States where, by the laws thereof, their admission is prohibited." In extent, prohibited some years in advance of

As the year 1808 approached, Congress determined not to suffer this trade to exist even | ended. for a day after they had the power to abolish it. On the 2d of March, 1807, they passed an act to take effect "from and after the 1st of January, 1808," prohibiting the importation of African slaves into the United States. This was followed by subsequent acts of a similar character, to which I need not specially refer. Such were the principles and

It did not occur to the revered patriots who had been delegates to the convention, and afterwards became members of Congress, that in passing these laws they had violated the Constitution which they had framed with so much care and deliberation. They supposed to determine whether the effect would be cight customs of an empire dating back for good understanding between the two coun-more deleterious on the interests of the mas-thousands of years, so far as may be consis-tries, the question arising out of the adverse was to begin on the 1st of December, 1857, ter or on those native-born slaves. Of the evils to the master, the one most to be dreaded, would be the introduction of wild, heathen, and ignorant barbarians among the sotors have been on the soil for generations .--

The effect upon the existing slave would, if possible, be still more deplorable. At manity. He is well fed, well clothed, and rably better than that of the coolies which modern nation of high civilization have employed as a substitute for African slaves.-Both the philanthropy and self-interest of the master, have combined to produce this humane result. But let this trade be reopened, and what will be the effect? The same, to a considerable extent, as on a neighboring island-the only spot now on earth where the African slave trade is openly tolerated; and this in defiance of solemn treaties with a power abundantly able at any moment to enforce their execution. There the master, intent upon present gain, extorts from the slaves as much labor as his physical powers are capable of enduring-knowing that, when death comes to his relief, his place can be supplied at a price reduced to treaty. No doubt is entertained that they the lowest point by the competition of rival African slave-traders. Should this ever be the case in our country-which I do not deem visable : but, under the circumstances propossible-the present useful character of the sented, I shall consider them binding endomestic institutions, wherein those too old gagements from their date on both parties, and too young to work, are provided for with and cause them to be published as such for the information and guidance of our mer-chants trading with the Chinese empire. care and humanity, and those capable of labor are not over-tasked, would undergo an unfortunate change. The feeling of reciprocal dependence and attachment, which now exists between master and slave would of Paraguay have been satisfactorily adjustbe converted into mutual distrust and hosed. It happily did not become necessary to tility.

employ the force which Congress had placed But we are obliged as a Christian and morat my command, under the joint resolution al nation, to consider what would be the efof 2d June, 1858. On the contrary, the Presnumber of slaves. This gave to Congress the fect upon unhappy Africa itself, if we should ident of that republic, in a friendly spirit, re-open the slave trade. This would give the acceded promptly to the just and reasonable States, because they themselves had removed | trade an impulse and extension which it has | demands of the Government of the United States. Our commissioner arrived at Asnever had even in its palmiest days. The numerous victims required to supply it, would sumption, the capitol of the republic, on the convert the whole slave coast into a private 25th of January, 1859, and left on the 17th Pandemonium, for which this country would of February, having in three weeks ably and successfully accomplished all the objects of be held responsible in the eyes of both God this manner the importation of African and man. Its petty tribes would then be his mission. The treaties which he has conslaves into the United States was, to a great constantly engaged in predatory wars against cluded will be immediately submitted to the each other, for the purpose of seizing Senate.

In the view that the employment of other slaves to supply the American market. All hopes of African civilization would thus be than peaceful means might become necessary to obtain "just satisfaction" from Para-

On the other hand, when a market for Af- guay, a strong naval force was concentrated rican slaves shall no longer be furnished in in the waters of the La Plata to await con-Cuba, and thus all the world be closed against ingencies, whilst our commissioner ascendthis trade, we may then indulge a reasonable ed the rivers to Assumption. The Naval Dehope for the gradual improvement of Africa. | partment is entitled to great credit for the The chief motive of war among the tribes promptness, efficiency, and economy with will cease whenever there is no longer any which this expedition was fitted out and condemand for slaves. The resources of that ducted. It consisted of nineteen armed vessuch the practice of our ancestors more than | fertile but miserable country might then be | sels, great and small, carrying 200 guns and developed by the hand of industry, and af- 2,500 men, all under the command of the ford subjects for legitimate foreign and do- veteran and gallant Shubrick. The entire mestic commerce. In this manner Christi- expenses of the expedition have been defrayed anity and civilization may gradually pene- out of the ordinary appropriations for the naval service, except the sum of $289,000, aptrate the existing gloom. The wisdom of the course pursued by this plied to the purchase of seven of the steam-Government towards China has been vindi- ers, constituting a part of it, under the au-

cated by the event. Whilst we sustained thority of the naval appropriation act of the a neutral position in the war waged by Great 3d March last. It is believed that these Britain and France against the Chinese em- steamers are worth more than their cost, and pire, our late minister, in obedience to his in- they are now actively and usefully employed structions, judiciously co-operated with the in the naval service.

The appearance of so large a force, fitted ministers of these powers in all peaceful measures to secure by treaty the just concesout in such a prompt manner, in the far dissions demanded by the interests of foreign tant, waters of the La Plata and the admira- the Island amounted in the aggregate to 691 States. It is a striking proof of the sense of vain. Had they imagined that Congress commerce. The result is that satisfactory ble conduct of the officers and men employed men.

done in their own peculiar fashion; but we Re-open the trade, and it would be difficult ought to regard with a lenient eye the anmy entire appropation.

It affords me much satisfaction to inform you that all our difficulties with the republic

thorities to observe, that throughout the

On the arrival of Mr. Ward at Peking he treaty, and to give it full effect, it became fortunate collisions on that remote frontier, was duly inaugurated President. Within a necessary to conclude two supplemental con- the late Secretary of State on the 17th of month afterwards he had been driven from Having been considered in the light of binding agreements subsidiary to the principal out delay, they do not provide for any foralready proceeding in good faith to satisfy the claims of our citizens, and, it is hoped, to the Senate, by which they were ratified in the fairly disputed limits." on the 3d March, 1859. The ratified copies. however did not reach Shanghai until after the departure of our minister to Peking, and these conventions could not; therefore, be exchanged at the same time with the principal will be ratified and exchanged by the Chinese government, should this be thought ad-ventions-the one for the adjustment and July 1855, addressed a note to Mr. Cramp- the capital, and a military rebellion had assatisfaction of the claims of our citizens, and ton, then British minister at Washington, signed the supreme power of the republic to the other to fix the tariff on imports and ex- communicating to him a copy of the instruc- General Zuloaga. The Constitution proviports, and to regulate the transit duties and tions which he (Mr. Marcy) had givon, on ded that in the absence of the President his trade of our merchants with China. This the 14th of July, to Gov. Stevens, of Wash- office should devolve upon the Chief Justice duty was satisfactorily performed by our late | ington Territory, having a special reference | of the Supreme Court, and, Gen. Comonfort minister. These conventions bear date at | to an "apprehended conflict between our cit- | having left the country, this functionary, ernor was instructed "that the officers of the this was officially known, however, at the treaty, and to be carried into execution with- | Territory should abstain from all acts on the | capital, the government of Zuloaga had been disputed grounds which are calculated to recognized by the entire diplomatic corps, mal ratification or exchange of ratifications provoke any conflicts, so far as it can be done iccluding the minister of the United States, by the contracting parties. This was not without implying the concession to the au-deemed necessary by the Chinese, who are thorities of Great Britain of an exclusive constitutional President, nevertheless, mainto carry out the provisions of the conventions. to exclude the other by force, or exercise Cruz. Meanwhile the government of Zuloa-Sill, I thought it was proper to submit them | complete and exclusive sovereign rights with-| ga was earnestly resisted in many parts of In acknowledging the receipt on the next day of Mr. Marcy's note, the British minister | it, its functions were declared terminated, expressed his entire concurrence "in the propriety of the course recommended to the governor of Washington Territory by your [Mr. Marcy's] instructions to that officer," stating that be leaded the plan under which he was chothat he had "lost no time in transmitting a copy of that document to the governor-general of British North America," and had "earnestly recommended to his Excellency to take such measures as to him may appear best calculated to secure, on the part of the British local authorities and inhabitants of the neighborhood of the line in question, the exercise of the same spirit of forbearance which is inculcated by you [Mr. Marcy] on the authori-ties and citizens of the United States."

Thus matters remained upon the faith of this arrangement until the 9th of July last, when Gen. Harney paid a visit to the Island. He found upon it twenty-five American residents with their families, and also an establishment of the Hudson's Bay Company for the purpose of raising sheep. A short time before his arrival one of these residents had shot an animal belonging to the company, whilst trespassing upon his premises, for which however, he offered to pay twice its value; but that was refused. Soon after "the chief factor of the company at Victoria, Mr. Dallas, son-in-law of Governor Douglas, came to the Island in the British sloop-of-war Sat-ellite, and threatened to take "this American (Mr. Cutler) by force to Victoria, to answer for the trespass he had committed."-The American seized his rifle and told Mr. Dallas if any such attempt was made he would kill him on the spot. The affair then ended."

Under these circumstances, the American settlers presented a petition to the General, "through the United States inspector of customs, Mr. Hubbs, to place a force upon the island to protect them from the Indians as well as the oppressive interference of the authorities of the Hudson Bay Company at Victoria with their rights as American citizens." The General immediately responded to this petition, and ordered Captain George E. Pickett, 9th infantry, "to establish his company on Bellevae, on San Juan Island, on some suitable position near the harbor at the southeastern extremity. This order was promptly obeyed, and a military post was estab- Republic." He was cordially received by the lished at the place designated. The force authorities at Vera Cruz, and they have ever was afterwards increased, so that by the last since manifested the most friendly disposition return the whole number of troops then on towards the United States. Unhappily, how-