The Reading Convention.

We wish every Democrat in the county could have witnessed the proceedings of the truly Democratic Convention in Reading last week. We went there expecting to come away with a sad heart, but we came away agreeably disappointed. ## The Crowd in Reading.

We never witnessed so large a crowd of the wisdom of the State, as was assembled in attempted to make himself conspicuous by a great deal of applause. Reading last week. The Republican Convention at Harrisburg the week previous, was a large gathering, but compared with the one at Reading, it was but an ordinary county meeting. Several large hotels were filled to overflowing, and many private houses were thrown open for the accommodation of strangers. The Court House held three thousand persons, and when filled, the crowds at the hotels and in the streets appeared as large as when the Convention was not in session .-And what was most gratifying to us, the whole mass of people, strangers and citizens, appeared to be unanimously in favor of Stephen A. The reporters of the press were comfortable provided for by the committee in front of the Judges' bench, and in its rear, as the large table in front could not accommodate all with the necessary space. They were a more intelligent looking set of men than your reporter had ever the pleasure to meet with. At precisely 11 o'clock, A. M., Hon. Robt. Tyler took the chair, and called the meeting to order. A motion was then made to appoint Geo. Nelson Smith, (Senator Delegate of Blair, Cambria and Clearfield,) temporary chairman, which was amended by a motion to appoint two tellers to call the roll of Delegates, and the Hon. Wm. P. M., which was followed by another, in regard to the contested seats, viz: That this matter be settled in open Convention. A gentleman from Philadel-Charleston, which was agreed upon by the phia said he was well informed of the merits Convention with so much unanimity, was also of the Philadelphia cases, and thought they a striking evidence that the true Democracy should be referred to a committee of nine, and thus amended the original motion; but and the right spirit had control of the Con- after some explanation, withdrew the amendment, and the motion was carried.

a venerable delegate of Venango, and Mr.

Cessna, Mr. Montgomery, John Bache, of Somerset, and Wm. H. Welsh, from York, participated, concerning the propriety of giv-ing the power into the hands of the few; and some pretty bitter truths, concerning the causes of the defeat of the Democratic party, were told, while others requested to have the old landmarks and usages of the party retained. Allusion was made to the old portion of the Democrats being welded together, and that the party would suffer thereby, that any suspicion as slight as it ever might be, would be a disadvantage to be encountered next fall. Mr. Cessna declared that he had, through an old friend of Mr. Cessna's, this afternoon voted for Mr. Johnson, because he believed that that gentleman held the certificate, and that he willingly submitted to the majority, &c.

Some allusion having been made of a rumor that former Conventions had been packed and of a power on and behind the throne, the Hon. Wm. H. Welsh rose and addressed the chair in a forcible speech, in which he stated that he also belonged to the young Democracy, but would stand by the old landmarks; that his name having been mentioned in con-House, presented a pretty lively appearance. Crowds of delegates issued forth from the state, that he wore no man's collar and cared state, that he wore no man's collar and cared office of M. P. Boyer, Esq., the Secretary of nothing for any arrangements, nor knew he the Committee of Arrangements, with tickets of any made by people in Philadelphia or elsewhere, to control the action of the Convention, as had been mentioned, and that he would just as willingly stand by the decision of the Convention as of a committee, and as he was persuaded, justice would be done either way

Mr. Haldeman then withdrew his amend-

Mr. Cessna's amendment fell thereby to the ground. A new motion to vote for the President viva voce, and that one of each Senatorial district be appointed to report a committee for the purpose of reporting the other officers, was then made, and Judge Cunningham of Beaver, and Hon. H. Welsh of York, being nominated for President, a vote was taken which resulted as follows: Cunningham 44, Welsh 73, and Mr. Welsh was declared duly elected. The meeting then adjourned for 10 minutes, when a list of one of each Senatorial district was reported to the chair, who announced the names.

After a motion to adjourn to 8 o'clock, P. M., the meeting adjourned.

The session was a pretty noisy one, and particularly when Hon. John Cessna mentioned that the Keystone Club, and others, had expressed their dissatisfaction at the result of the vote against Mr. Johnson, and ### hisses and applauses were frequent.

EVENING SESSION. The Convention was called to order precisely at 8 o'clock, by the temporary chairman, who invited the permanent officers elect vor within a few weeks past. Welsh in complying with the invitation was greated by the warm acclamations of the multitude, and only party for the whole country: comparing responded in a truly eloquent speech,-returning thanks to his friends who had so bravely carried him on their arms into the position he now occupied. He assured the "We must be harmonious for we will have to Convention at large that he would not be fight all the combined political pirates of the swayed by private feelings, but be governed land." He was frequently interrupted by by impartiality and fairness, and would justly discharge the duties of his office. Speaking of the Democratic party as the only one in which all white men are equal, whether native born or foreign, without difference of right from Fayette, were then nominated for religious belief, and recommending that the the office of temporary Secretaries, and on | dead bury the dead, urged the Convention to stand in defense of that party, in whose hands are the destinies of the country. After speaking for some time he took the chair, amidst deafening cheers.

A motion was then made and carried, to appoint a committee of 9 to express the sentiments of the meeting.

The chairman of the committee of 33 appointed to report the other permanent officers of the Convention, then reported a number of Vice Presidents, which report was adopted. The chairman of the committee on contested elections then reported in favor of Robert G Wallace for the Clearfield District, and in favor of A. B. Lawrence for the 7th District of Philadelphia.

A motion to appoint a committee of one of each Congressional district was made and amended, an amendment to the amendment made, and after some debate another motion and then a debate opened in which the speakers eloquently enlarged upon their views.

Hon. Richard Vaux, of Philadelphia, having obtained the floor, kept the Convention charmed by his eloquence, in support of electing 4 Delegates, and two electors at large, and that the representatives of each District elect their own Delegates and electors, with power to fill vacancies.

Mr. Haldeman rose in support of the motion to allow the Convention to elect their own representatives at Charleston, and their own electors.

The question was then taken upon the amendment to the amendment which was as follows: The chair to appoint a committee of one from each Congressional District to select | vote by 7 on the second ballot. Delegates and electors and did not carry, whereupon the yeas and nays being called, a vote

SECOND DAY-THURSDAY. The Convention met according to adjournment, and was called to order by the President at 9, A. M., who requested some of the Vice Presidents to take seats at his side.

The nomination for the Senatorial electors was then declared open, and the following gentlemen nominated, viz:

R. Vaux, H. B. Wright, James F. Johnston, Geo. M. Keim, Gen. Ward, G. W. Dyer, Wm. Killinger, Judge Campbell, Andrew Burk, Geo. W. Woodward, and H. D. Foster. Mr. Yard, Messrs. Vaux and Keim were then declared duly elected. The Convention then went into the nomination for Governor, and the following candidates were proposed, viz:

Wm. II. Witte, of Philadelphia, George Sanderson, of Lancaster, Hon. J. L. Dawson of Fayette, Hon. J. Fry of Montgomery, Hon. Nimrod Strickland of Chester, Jeremiah Shindel of Lehigh, William Hopkins of Washington, H. B. Wright of Luzerne, A. L. Wilson, John Cresswell of Blair, and Hon. H. D. Foster of Westmoreland.

The nomination then closed and the names of Messrs. Foster, Wilson and Dawson, being withdrawn, the roll was called and the delegates voted viva voce, as follows: Whole number of votes polled, 133; neceschange their votes for Foster. A motion was then made to nominate Hon. H. D. Foster by acclamation, which carried, and a scene such as no pen can describe, ensued. Hurrahs, clapping of hands, jumping and screaming all at once, the whole house seemed to have gone mad for joy-neither the speaker nor his gavel could be heard. Mr. Cessna succeeded finally to be heard, and desired that the roll be called, so that every delegate's name should appear on the record for Foster, and his motion carried. The roll was called amid the confusion, and every delegate voted for Foster.

The chair then appointed a committee of five. to wit: Messrs. Sansom, Leech, Detrich, Calhoun, and North, to inform the nominee of his nomination. Several of his friends telegraphed for him, with the expectation that he would arrive in town before the Convention adjourned. A motion was then made that all the candidates present, and Wm. Bigler address the meeting.

On motion of Mr. North, the President of this Convention was appointed Chairman of the State Central Committee, which he accepted, reserving the right to decline acting, if after consulting with Gen. Foster and other prominent Domocrats, he thinks it will advance the interests of the party.

On motion of Mr. North, resolved that each Senatorial Delegation, present two names of persons to this Convention to act on the State Central Committee.

Mr. Cessna offered the following amendment, which was accepted by Mr. North, and unanimously carried:—Resolved, that the President appoint two nersons from each Senatorial District, and as many others in Philapelphia and Allegheny counties as he thinks are required to advise the interests of the party, to act with him on the State Central On motion, it was resolved, that the President appoint a Corresponding Secretary in every county of the State; to correspond with the State Central Committee on all matters relating to the coming contest.

The President requested the P. O. address of all the Delegates to the Charleston Convention, and all the Electors, which was furnished by the Delegates present.

Mr. R. L. Johnston, of Cambria, was loudly called for, as being the gentleman who was instrumental in putting Gen. Henry D. Foster in nomination, and three cheers were given him; to which he responded in a very pleasing manner, saying he had been on the stump for thirty-five years—(he having a wooden leg,) keeping the Convention constantly laughing, shouting and cheering.— When he concluded, three cheers were again given for him.

On motion, Mr. Shell, Calhoun and Phelps, were appointed a committee to wait upon Hon. Wm. II. Witte, and ask him to address the Convention. The Committee retired, and in a few minutes returned with Mr. Witte, when he was loudly cheered, and took the stand and addressed the Convention, acquiescing heartily in the nomination, and hoped they would work as hard as if he had been the nominee himself.

The Committees on Resolutions now made their appearance, and reported the following, which was unanimously adopted amid much cheering and shouting:

Resolved, That, as the representatives of three cheers were given for him. the Democratic party of Pennsylvania, in Convention assembled, we do hereby reiterate and reaffirm our adherence to, and confidence in the fundamental principles of the party, as proclaimed and declared by the Natimore, and that of 1856, at Cincinnati.

That in the adoption of the Federal Constitution, the States adopting the same acted severally as free and independent sovereignties, delegating a portion of their powers to be exercised by the Federal Government for the increased security of each against dangers, domestic as well as foreign; and that any intermeddling by any one or more States, or by a combination of their citizens, with the domestic institutions of the others, on any pretext, whether political. moral, or religious, with a view to their disturbance or subversion, is in violation of the Constitution, insulting to the States so interfered with, endangering their domestic peace and tranquility-objects for which the Constitution was formed—and, by necessary consequence, serves to weaken and destroy the Union itself. Resolved, That the provision of the constitution for the rendition of fugitives from service or labor, "without the adoption of which the Union could not have been formed," and the laws of 1793 and 1850, which were enacted to secure its execution, and the main features of which, being similar, bearing the impress of nearly seventy years of sanction by the highest judicial authority, have unquestionable claim to the respect and observance of all who enjoy the benefits of our compact Union; and that the acts of State Legislature to defeat the purpose or nullify the requirements of that provision, and the laws made in pursuance of it, are hostile in character, subversive of the constitution, and revolutionary in their effect.

Resolved, That we regard the domestic and foreign policy of President Buchanan as eminently patriotic, pure, conservative and just; and look upon the success which has crowned his labors as the best and proudest vindication of the propriety and wisdom of his Administration.

Resolved. That we concur in the views and recommendations on matters of State policy and interest as expressed by Governor Packer in his last annual message, and especially do we approve of his exercise of the veto power against improper legislation, and of his prompt and patriotic action in delivering up to the authorities of Virginia the fugitives from justice who participated in the Harper's Ferry outrages of insurrection, treason, and

Resolved, That the convictions of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania remain unshaken in the wisdom and justice of adequate protection of iron, coal, wool, and the other great staples of the country, based upon the necessities of a reasonable revenue system of the General Government; and approving of the views of President Buchanan upon the subject of specific duties, we earnestly desire our Representatives in Congress to procure such modifications of the existing laws as the unwise legislation of the Republican party in 1857 renders absolutely necessary for the prosperity of the great industrial interests of Pennsylvania. Resolved, That the nomination of Henry D. Foster, of Westmoreland, wholly unsought on his part, and in view of the many other auspices and cheering circumstances under which it was made, as well as of his own unsullied character, eminent ability and unselfish patriotism, must win for him the sincere and hearty support of every true Democrat Pennsylvania; and we, individually and collectively, pledge the best efforts of every delegate of this Convention in behalf of the nomination we have made; and also of the nominee of the Democratic National Convention soon to held at Charleston.

On motion of Mr. Montgomery, the Convention returned thanks for the impartial and faithful performance of their respective duties, but especially to the President; when

On motion, a committee of five were appointed to take charge of all the papers for publication.

The President, Mr. Welsh, returned his thanks to the Convention for the constant tional Democratic Convention of 1852, at Bal- courtesy shown him during its sitting, and hoped they would buckle on the armor and Resolved, That we deprecate the continued go into the fight with ardor, until the enemy
