LOCAL & PERSONAL.

Locals in Brief .- On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week, Mr. Whipple, Miss Drayton and Miss Myers, gave examinations of their respective schools. A number of parents were present and all were pleased with the examinations, the teachers and progress of the scholars.

WHAT A LADY THINKS OF HAIRY FACES .-A female writer in Xenia, Ohio, is making a crusade against hairy faced men. Hear her:

"What expression of kindness and mild humanity can be observed in a face covered with hair from the nose down? Not any .-As well might a poor rat look in the grizzly muzzle of a Scotch terrier for mercy when to look for an expression of human kindness and sympathy in the face of a hirsute man. We can appreciate the value of a smile .-It lightens up the countenance with adorning sweetness, indicates a kind heart, and radiates gladness to the hearts of others, encourages the desponding, soothes the afflicted, cheers the sorrowing, disarms the wrath, and kindles up general sympathy and reciprocal regard. But a smile cannot drop out from the face of a man "bearded and moustached like the pard." You suppose, from the agitation of tall grass, that some animal was crawling through it. So you may infer from the whiskers of hair that a smile was burrowing along there somewhere out of sight. The smile of such a man cannot be distinguished from the grin of a ribbed-nose babboon, which had burnt its mouth with a hot

The lips are capable of indicating a variety of passions. They can express kindness, good humor, sweetness of disposition, sorrow, ing, anger, and threaten like loaded revolvers. The chief expression of the best traits in Napoleon's nature were in his mouth and chin, which he could clothe with so much sweet, winning, mute, persuasive eloquence as to render his look irresistible. But when lip and chin are covered with hair you might as well look for expression in the hole of a bank swallow in a gully, overhung with a turf of grass.

The passions and affections have their polls in the face, firmness in the upper lip, mirthfulness near the corners of his mouth, and the affections in the edges of his lips, etc., hence the philosophy and delight of kissing; the more intense the passion, the more soulthrilling and enrapturing the kiss. Behold that lovely woman, with a form shaped by the hand of harmony, regular feature under clustering ringlets, bright eyes beaming with intelligence, well arranged pearly teeth, a soft and delicate skin, a mouth like Cupid's bow, a neck like ivory, a bosom like alabaster, and the undulations of love like snow, her lips like two rose-buds, moist with morning dew, and her cheeks-

"Where the live crimson thro' the native white, Shooting o'er the face, diffuses bloom,

And every nameless grace." Radiant with beauty, she is surrounded by an atmosphere of love, as a rose exhales fragrance. Just think of one of those hairvpulling up his "chevaux-de-frize" of bristles of a mouth. Bah! its-abominable—the idea is disgusting-get out-scat!"

"Give me an ounce of civit, good apothecary, to sweeten my imagination. Whom do moustaches and beard become? Brigands, privateers, fillibusters, and especially professional executioners. Jack Ketch, the hangman, would effectually conceal all expressions—causing him to look as grim and unrelenting as death, in whose service he officiates.

THAT'S THE PLAN !- "If you want to keep your town from thriving, turn a cold shoulder to every young mechanic or young beginner in business; look up to every new-comer with a jealous scowl; discourage him all you can; if that won't do, decry his work, or rather go abroad for wares of his kind, than to give him your money. Last, though not least, refuse to take your home paper.

fuse to take your home paper."

That is a capital receipt for keeping a town from thriving! Every community has its "dogs in the manger" who will snap and snarl at every new enterprise, and every new comer who may commence business among them, and would rather see the streets of their town overgrown with grass than trodden down by the busy feet of industry and progress, or what amounts to the same thing, as a drawback to prosperity, that they should have opposition in business. Such characters are an incubus on a community and should be gotten rid of by refusing to patronize them. Give us the man who will say in sincerity, "opposition is the life of trade," and who is not afraid to put up a house lest somebody might move in and occupy it.

That is a capital receipt for keeping a town the ever of the National Convention, to the eve of the National Convention, to the ever of the National Convention, to the expectation candidates for the Presidency and upon the common principles which hall govern the party in the coming contest. To this tribunal the people have confided this whole subject, and progress, or what amounts to the same thing, as a drawback to prospeity, that they should have opposition in business. Such characters are an incubus on a community and should be gotten rid of by refusing to patronize them. Give us the man who will say in influential Democratic sheet, has raised the Douglas flag at the head of its columns; and the editor declares the lilinois Senator to the the first choice of a vast majo

RECIPE FOR INTEMPERANCE.—The Buffalo Republic is the author of the following recipe for the cure of intemperance, which we reproduce for the benefit of those who may have acquired the habit of elevating their little fingers oftener than is consistent with sound sense, sound morals, and a sound constitution:-"The habit of drinking can be cured by giving the drinkers all the liquor they want to drink, all the time. We know of two in our experience who were cured in three weeks. One jumped out of a four story window, and run a curb stone into his head; and the other didn't get up one morning, and has now a universal curb stone growing out of his head in the grave yard."

Congressional Platform Making. The Democratic members of the United States Senate, have lately been busying themselves with the construction of a platform for a party at large. Several caucuses have been held, and a committee has been raised to put the platform in suitable shape for consideration by the whole body.

The Democratic Senators are presumed fairly to reflect the sentiment of their party faced fellows attempting to kiss her—see him on questions which belong to the State to adjudicate, and in the absence of other and to reveal his wild beast looking cavernous slit fresher evidences of the popular will, there can be no objection to the promulgation of their views, on the principles and policy of the political organization which they are understood to represent in the National Legislature. At the present time, however, the work which they have undertaken seems to be one of supererogation, since within a few weeks a body of delegates will assemble in National Convention, fresh from the constituency, charged with the very duty which the Senators have assumed to perform. If the character of a platform is so important,-if it is indispensable to the success of the party in the Presidential election that a structure of that sort shall be erected, it by no means follows that the duty of putting it together properly devolves upon the Democrats in either House of Congress. On the contrary, with all deference to that august body, we consider it entirely out of place for them at this time, just on the eve of the National Convention, to Horrid Murder at a Party.—Last evening, at a quarter past seven o'clock, one of the most fiendish murders was committed that ever outraged the feelings of humanity. A social party was assembled at one of the apartments in No. 61 East Broadway, visiting the family who resided there. Among the number was Patrick McHugh, his wife Bridget, and their two children. The evening appeared to be passing pleasantly with them. They were talking and amusing themselves together, when suddenly Patrick said to his wife, "Won't you give me some beer?" to which she replied, "Why, no, Patrick, I never give you anything now." As she spoke this he placed his arm around her neck as to embrace her, but in his hand was an open razor, with which he suddenly cut her throat. The stroke was given with so much power as to cut away even a part of the bone (the third bertebræ.) She fell, and died without the utterance of a word.

The sight presented, as we entered the house, was piteous in the extreme. There lay the mother, so frightfully mangled. At her head sat one of the guests of the party, with an infant in her arms stained with blood which had spirted from the wound, while around her were gathered her son and his two sisters, rending the air with their piteous wail. The son, a manly fellow of seventeen, detailed to us how the father had been discharged from the Ohio penitentiary, where he had been incarcerated for seven years, for attempting his mother's life. She died with the marks of the wounds received on that occasion still upon her person.

Since his discharge, the son relates that he has been kind to his mother, and that whenever he could slip home from his duties upon the river, where he worked, he would find all pleasant at home, until Monday night, when the father began to drink again, and the fearful tragedy was the result. After the murder, the father deliberately walked to his home, in Longworth's wine barracks, on Sixth street, east of Broadway, and began to talk with his son, who knew nothing of the murder until Officers Bolzer and Anderson entered and arrested his father. The three children are James, who is seventeen years old, Mary and Hannah, who are aged respectively ten and eight years.

As soon as the information reached the Hammond street station house, the officers were dispatched by Lieut. Brockington in every direction in pursuit of the murderer .-Fortunately, Officers Bolzer and Anderson had been directed to his room in the barracks, which they reached just as he was making his escape. - Cincinnati Commercial.

IRON MADE FROM BITUMINOUS COAL.-We have already noticed the successful manufacture, at St. Charles Furnace, Clarion county, of grey pig iron, from uncoked bituminous coal. The Democrat says, with reference thereto: "A piece exhibited in this borough during Court week, was pronounced by all the iron men who examined it, a very superior article. Since then it has been tried at the foundries of Major M'Nutt in New Bethlehem, and Brown & Wann in Brookville.— They both speak highly of its excellent qualities for foundry purposes. Major M'Nutt

Capt. John Rice, and his wife Elizaboth, residing in Dover, Vt., both departed this life on the 7th ult., within a few hours of each other, the former at the age of 88 years, 3 months and 25 days, the latter, his wife, at the age of 91 years, that day being the anniversary of her birth. They were married at Shewsbury, Worcester county, that being their native place, Nov. 16. 1790, from whence they removed and settled in Dover forty-six years since. They were the last of eleven brothers and sisters, and had seventy years. The Brattleboro' Phanix, in its notice of the decease, says that they had lived to see all their children, seven in number, grow up, marry and settle in life, five of whom have survived them. They have lived to see their children and grand-children wearing grey hairs, and to embrace a grand-child of one of their grand-children-a circumstance rarely witnessed.

VERY OILY .- An exchange paper says that a fellow in Venango county, Pa., profitted in the following manner by the oil excitement now prevailing so extensively in the western and north-western part of this State. He bored a hole on his land, poured a barrel of oil in it, and then called his neighbors to see the large yield. The result was that he sold his land for $2000 in cash, pocketed the money, oiled his boots and "slid."

PHILADELPHIA MARKETS. Monday, March 12, 1860 .- The flour market is firmer, the high rates demanded for wheat giving an upward tendency to prices, and about 1,200 bbls sold at $6 for good straight and superfine; $6 25 for choice extra; and $6 75 for extra family flour, the latter for a selected brand.-

straight annisupernne; $6 25 for choice extra; and $6 75 for extra family flour, the latter for a selected brand.—The sales to the home trade range at from $5 87½ up to 6 25@7 25 from common to superfine, extras and fancy brands as in quality. Rye flour is better, and about 200 bbls sold at $4 37 per bbl. Carn meal continues dull, and Penna. is held at $3 50 per bbl, 400 bbls Brandywine sold at a price kept private.

Wheat.—There is very little offering, and holders are asking a further advance. The only sales reported are 1,000 bus red at $4 40 for common, and 145 and 148 for good prime Penna. in store. White is worth $1 60. Rye continues in demand at 92@93c per bus for Penna. Corn is dull. and about 3,000 bus yellow found buyers at 73c, in the cars and in store. Oats are steady at 44 and 44½ for Penna., and 42½ and 43c for Delaware.

Seeds.—There is not much doing, and we are only advised of sales of 300 bus Cloverseed at $4 for common up to 4 40 and 4 50 for good and prime, and 4 75 per bus for choice quality. Timothy is worth $3 37½@3 50, and domestic Flaxseed $1 60 per bus.

DR. JOHN LOCKE having opened an office in Huntingdon for the purpose of practicing in the line of his profession, where he may be found the first Monday of March. (5th day.) to spend the week.

Dr. LOCKE would say to those in need of the services of a dentist that he has spared no time or expense in acquiring a thorough knowledge of his profession in all its various branches; add to this the fact that he has had fifteen years experience in actual practice, and can safely associated and to this the fact that he as had fifteen years experience in actual practice, and can safely assert that he is prepared to give the best advice and render the most satisfactory service that can be expected of any dentist.

Proper advice, with a little attention to the natural eeth, will often save the patient much suffering and expense.

Dr. L. would say to those who have been unfortunate in their selection of a dentist, and consequently find their mouths in an unhealthy condition, or filled with artificial teeth badly adapted, that they should lose no time in calling on a dentist qualified to remedy the evil.

To those who have not their work done yet, he would say be careful in your selection of a Dentist, and save yourselves the pain and expense of the experiments of those not qualified to practice.

Dr. L. has the honor of referring to the following from the faculty, and would respectfully refer to all persons for faculty, and would respectfully refer to all persons for whom he has operated:

This is to certify that John Locke is a regular graduate of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery; that after attending two full courses of lectures in said Institution, he was unanimously voted, after a trial examination, worthy of the highest honor of the College by the faculty.

In addition to this testimony of qualifications in his profession, it gives us pleasure to state his habits of study, ttention and punctuality, and therefore cordially com-nend Dr. Locke as a safe, skillful and faithful practitioner o all those who may entrust him with the management their teeth. W. R. HANDY, M. D., Professor in Baltimore College of Dental Surgery.
