The President stated that three separate motions to reconsider the platform resolutions were pending at the time of the adjournment, and that Merrick, of Illinois, was entitled to Benning, of Georgia, rose to a privileged question, stating that the Georgia delegation had been in anxious consultation, and passed resolutions instructing their chairman to inform the President of the Convention that they could no longer participate in the proceedings of this body, and were about to withdraw. This was signed by twenty-four delegates. Four other delegates retire with them, on the ground that they feel compelled to act with the majority, and eight others remain in the Convention. The Arkansas delegation then presented their protest and withdrew.

Erving, of Tennessee, asked leave for that delegation to retire for consultation. Walker, of Virginia, asked leave for that delegation to retire for the purpose of consultation with some of the retiring delegates of the South. A portion of the Maryland delegation asked leave to retire for consultation.

A portion of the Kentucky delegation announced that they had no desire to retire. The North Carolina delegation asked leave to retire for consultation. Cohen, of Georgia, one of the remaining delegates, proceeded to address the Conven-

From early manhood he had been in the front ranks of those who had been the foremost of the extremest sect of the States Rights School, yet he was here, after a majority of his associates had retired. He had been induced to remain here in the hopes that the cup of conciliation may not be dashed to the earth. While he was with those who had retired, in sentiment, he had chosen still to remain in the convention, and make an effort for peace and union. There was no division of sentiment at the South. There never had been any division, except as a question of time, and the South is in earnest .-He could see in this division and distraction of the Democratic party, a ripple that would swell to a wave, and carry to the Presidential chair the arch-fiend of Black Republicanism. His appeal for conciliation and compromise was most impressive. He declared it to be his intention to remain until the last feather was placed on the camel's back, and then he would be foremost. Col. Flourney, of Arkansas, said his advice was never to give up the ship, but to call up the crew to face the storm. He had been reared among the institution, and he believed slavery a benefit to the master and slave .-All he had in the world was the product of slave labor, and he therefore trusted that he was above suspicion. He believed that his Southern friends had acted wrong in this matter, and that the South cannot be united on the ground they have taken, and they will not be sustained by their constituents

Montgomery, of Pennsylvania, was opposed to these speeches on either side. If there are any more delegations that are prepared to leave, let them go. They have all made up their minds and we have made up our minds. We wish to proceed to business.

Gallagher, of Connecticut, contended that gentlemen had no right to slander the Representatives of the North.

Boulden said that he remained here because he had great faith in the Northern Democracy. He intended to hold on to the Democratic party of the North until the last horn blows. He cautioned the seceders that if they succeeded by their action in breaking up the Democratic party, they will weaken the bonds of the Union. He was no disunionist. He loved the Union and intended to stand by it

Most of the seceding delegates were on the floor, and Boulden lashed them with great Boulden continued to speak of the Southern slave trade in Virginia. He would like the members of the Convention to come down to Georgia with him, and he would show them some slaves he had bought in Maryland, some in Virginia, some in North Carolina, and some from Georgia. But he would show them some direct from Africa, and they were "the no-blest Romans of them all." Therefore, he believed the slave trader to be the noblest of philanthropists, and the most Christian civilizer in the world. He loved the Democrats of the North, and held them in higher estimation than the parlor Democrats of the South.

Seward, of Georgia, as one of the delegation who remained, made an explanation. He was in Congress when the Kansas bill was passed, and would assert that the agreement between the North and South then was that the Constitutional question should be determined by the Supreme Court, and that both should abide by that decision. He saw around him men who had been trampled unon by the Black Republicans, and we were asked to place our feet upon their necks.

McCook, of Ohio, offered a resolution fixing 2 o'clock to-day for balloting for President and Vice President.

Rafferty, of New Jersey, presented a protest signed by a part of the delegation against the action of the Convention in annulling the instructions of that State to vote as a unit.

The President decided that the vote cannot be taken, so long as several States are absent counselling. The motion to fix the hour for proceeding to a ballot, must therefore lay Bidwell, of California, said that his delegation had received in sorrow the proceedings of the past two days. He proceeded to explain the position of the Democratic party of California.

Austin Smith, of California, denied the authority of any one to speak for him, or seveneighths of his delegation. He styled Bidwell a black sheep. The Northern Democrats, he asserted, are truckling to the same side of the Boulden, of Georgia, said he was among those who had refused to retire, and desired to give his reasons. He was a Southern States Rights man, and an African slave trade man. He believed slavery to be morally, socially and politically right, and that slavery was an institution of civilization. Still, he believed the doctrine of protection of slavery in the territories was a mere abstraction on which he was not prepared to disintegrate the Democratic party.

It is no trouble for a man to be a saint in heaven, but when I look to the Northern Democrats and see them standing up to breast the storm of fanaticism I love them, and will stand by them until the last day of the week late in the night. He was not willing to cast them into the arms of the Black Republicans. The African slave trader is a true philanthropist. He brings the heathen here to civilize him and sends him down the stream of time. Reed, of Indiana, said—Here is one who is with you on that subject. Capt. Ryders, of New York-You will have some recruits from the New York Black Re-

He would go home to the people and submit the question to them, and abide by their decision. He contended that the South had Dickinson, asked more of the North than was stipulated in the contract, and the seceding delegates have no right to decide on this question. Holden, of North Carolina, saw nothing that should warrant the Southern delegates in seceding. He was opposed to Squatter dent, and adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock to-Sovereignty, but was willing to take the Cinmorrow morning. cinnati platform with an endorsement of the Dred Scott decision—this was sufficient for

Ask for our property and our lives, and we are ready to lay them down; but do not make any demands on our manhood or honor.

Berry, of South Carolina, rose. [Hisses from the gallery. Cries of "Clear the gallery." He took the stand, and proclaimed himself a Union Democrat. This great and glorious Union shall be preserved if it is pos- Philad'a. sible. It was agreed to that nothing more was required than the endorsement of the decisions of the Supreme Court, and he would say to gentlemen, if they will now endorse the Dred Scott decision, that they will be able to bring the Southern States all into harmony and union.

Howard, of Tennessee, spoke in behalf of that State. He presented a resolution sustaining the Dred Scott decision, and that no rights of persons or property in the Territories shall be impaired by Territorial or Congressional legislation. He offered this as the Electoral College shall be required for a nom-

Russell, of Virginia, presented the result of the consultation of that delegation. They endorse the course taken by Tennessee, and if the resolutions presented by Tennessee are not adopted, he is not authorized to cast the vote of the State on any subject unless those resolutions are passed.

Caldwell, of Kentucky, endorsed the ground taken by Tennessee and Virginia. They would all act together on this subject. They wished an endorsement-of the Dred Scott decision, and an agreement that the nominees shall receive not less than two hundred votes as a requisite for nomination. He concluded by moving an adjournment until 10 o'clock to-morrow, in order that gentlemen may have time to deliberate on this subject.

McCook demanded that the vote on the resolution fixing the time for commencing the ballot be now taken.

Several motions were made to adjourn amid great confusion.

On the motion to adjourn a vote was demanded by States. Gittings, of Maryland, gave notice that if the Convention did not take a recess, he would move an adjournment sine die. In taking the vote the Georgia delegation voted the full vote of the State. This was objected to.

After a debate on this point.

The President decided that they were not

The vote resulted in yeas 148, nays 100. So the decision of the Chair was sustained, and nine remaining Georgia delegates left the Convention, declaring that the Conven-vention had disfranchised a sovereign State. The motion to adjourn was then resumed, and after a long debate, at 3½ o'clock, the Convention adjourned till 5 o'clock. The following are the Tennessee resolutions, which are insisted on by the Kentucky and Tennessee delegations as their ultimatum:

Resolved. That all citizens of the United States have an equal right to settle with their property in the Territories of the United States, and that under the decisions of the Supreme Court, which we recognize as a correct exposition of the Constitution, neither their rights of person nor property can be destroyed or impaired by Congressional or Territorial Legislation.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY:—The subscribers, your committee to examine the contents of a Salamander Safe, of Evans & Watson, after being exposed to a strong fire on the Fair Grounds for eight thours, respectfully represent—

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 17, 1859.—Messrs. EVANS & WAT sox, Philadelphia.

Gentlemen:—The Salamander Fire-Proof Safe of your manufacture, purchased by us from your Agent, Ferris & Garrett, of our city, some nine months ago, was severely tried by burglars last Saturday night, and although they had a sledge hammer, cold chisels, drill and gunpowder, they did not succeed in opening the Safe. The lock being one of "Hall's Patent Powder-proof," they could not get the powder into it, but drilled a hole in the lower panel and forced in a large charge, which was ignited, and although the door, inside and out, showed the explosion not to have been a small one, it was not forced open. We suppose they were the greater part of the night at work on it. We are much gratified at the result of the attempt to enter it, and if the above facts are of any service, you are at liberty to use them. WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 17, 1859.—Messrs. Evans & Wat at liberty to use them. Yours, truly,

GREAT FIRE!—ANOTHER TRIUMPH!!

KNOXVILLE. Tennessee, March 13th, 1859.

Messrs. EVANS & WATSON, Philadelphia:

Gentlemen—It affords me great pleasure to say to you that the Salamander Safe which I purchased of you in Pebruary, 1858, proved to be what you recommended it—a sure protection from fire. My storehouse, together with several others, was burned to the ground in March last.—The Safe fell through into the cellar, and was exposed to intense heat for six or eight hours, and when it was taken from the ruins and opened, all its contents where found to be in a perfect state, the books and the papers not being injured any whatever. I can cheerfully recommend your Safes to the community, believing, as I do, that they are as near fire-proof as it is possible for any Safe to be made.

TEDICAL SCIENCE.

The history of "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS," the most remarkable medicine of the day, and the many cures that have been performed with it in cases of LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DEthe many cures that have been performed with it in cases of LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DEBILITY, and diseases arising from a disordered liver or stomach, place it among the most astonishing discoveries that have taken place in the medical world. The diseases to which these Bitters are applicable are so universal, that there are but few of our friends who may not test their virtues in their own families or circle of acquaintances, and prove to their own satisfaction that there is at least one remedy among the many advertised medicines, deserving the public commendation. It is a fact that, in the minds of many persons, a prejudice exists against what are called Patent Medicines; but why should this prevent you resorting to an article that has such an array of testimony to support it as Hoofland's German Bitters? Physicians prescribe it, Why should you discard it? Judges, usually considered men of talent, have and do use it in their own families. Why should you reject it? Clergymen, and those the most eminent, take it; why should not you? Let not your prejudice usurp your reason, to the everlasting injury of your health; if you are sick, and require a medicine, try these Bitters.

These Bitters are prepared and sold by Dr. C. M, Jackson, No. 418 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and by druggists and storekeepers in every town and village in the United States, Canadas, West Indies, and South America, at 75 cents per bottle. See that the signature of C. M. Jackson is on the wrapper of each bottle.

Plough. This plough took the first premium at the Huntingdon county Agricultural Fair last fall. Also, Hunter's celebrated Cutter Ploughs, which can't be beat—together with the Keystone, Hillside and Bar-shear ploughs. We have on hand and are manufacturing Stoves—such as Cook, Parlor, and Office stoves for wood or coal. Hollow ware, consisting of Kettles, Boilers, Skillets, &c., all of which we will sell cheap for cash or in exchange for country produce. Old metal taken for custings. By a strict attention to business, and a desire to please, we hope to receive a liberal share of public patronage.
